There has been numerous speculations by the republicans as to the defeat of Bryanism and effect it would have on the populist party. When the proper time comes the populist and democratic parties will get together again as it has of custom done and because of the similarity of ideas between the two parties which cannot be eradicated. The Chicago convention showed con clusively that about nine tenths of the democratic party were in harmony with the views of the populist party and now that we know where we stand we also know that a democrat who talks of having nothing more to do with the populists invites defeat for his party and is not a sate husbandman of the party principles, nor can he give any excuse for his action that will justify cutting loose from a force as large and certain as the populist element simply because they can themselves populists or ching to the silver question. Those who are still claiming to be democrats should get down from a haughty perch and acknowledge the value of help though it came from the republican ranks. No financier could long hold his position if he followed the plans of the gold democrat when party strength was the object sought. The prime object of democracy, however, is not the silver question but of questions of graver importance to the people of the U. S, and if the gold democrats wish to be recognized as true to old line democracy which is just and equal taxation compared with the protection enjoyed and of equal rights to all and especial privileges to none, then the only quarrel we have on hand is the means to that end and can anyone show us why the democrats should turn and vote in opposition to what they made their nie ume hobby or purpose, simply because of one of the means of accomplishing results they have been striving for, not being satisfactory. Let us say with Senator Hill and with him abide in the theories that have characterized the great democratic party from its beginning and be proud to say, " am a Democrat."

SHOOTING AFFAIR

James Spratt Shoots William Hathorn.

Early this morning the report of sensational shooting affair at the "resort" known as the "Hog Ranch" south | torn and the blossom on his nose faded. of this city was circulated in town. James Spratt, a cow-boy working on Dawson & Ball's ranch near Kennedy, quiet and peaceable enough when sober and not considered a dangerous man by onyone who knows him but who has a habit of pulling the trigger of his 45 Col's' when he gets on a drunk and Friday evenings until further notice is he doesn't seem to care who is compelled to dodge bullets or rub up close to them. Upon this occasion Jim took out his gun and with words similar to these, "This thing has gone on long enough. I'm going to put a stop to it. I'm going to close 'er up," began to shoot, he first shot putting out one of the lights then turning, shot William Hathorn, who was sitting quietly in a days. chair near by and so close that the powder from the pistol burned Hathorn's hand.
