

An Ideal Woman's Medicine.

So says Mrs. Josie Irwin, of 325 So. College St., Nashville, Tenn., of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never during the lifetime of this wonderful medicine has the demand for it been so great as it is to-day.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and throughout the length and breadth of this great continent come the glad tidings of woman's sufferings relieved by it, and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women saying that it will and positively does cure the worst forms of female complaints.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women who are puzzled about their health to write her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Such correspondence is seen by women only, and no charge is made.

In a town close to Aitchison, a Reformer woman formerly lived. Nothing was Good Enough to suit her. The old residents say the Reformer, when she was young was quite a flirt.

A farmer came to town today looking for a hand. He found one, but he was drunk. Taking the hand into a restaurant, the farmer filled him up with milk. Ever bear of that old-fashioned way of sobering a drunken man?

An Aitchison woman who was such a good housekeeper that all the men pointed to her with delight, is now talking art at a barbing house table. Her husband formerly sleek and contented looking, is beginning to get the run-around look in his eyes.

Disappointment is like a sieve. Through its coarse meshes the small ambitions and hopes and endeavors of a soul are sifted out relentlessly. But the things that are big enough not to fall through are not in the least affected by it. It is only a test not a finality.—Wellspring.

For forty years I had headache day and night—could not sleep well—was very weak, and about giving up all hope. I got Doan's Pills and they cured me. That was five months ago, and I can say, to-day, my water is regular and I have not had headache for five months. For bed wetting, scalding urine, and headache, Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal. Cease to live in the atmosphere of your sin, by which I mean that you must see to it that your mind is occupied by thoughts as far removed as possible from those in which your temptation can take root. It is a great mistake to loiter around a sin to which one's nature is prone. Your moral strength will depend upon your spiritual tone.—E. J. Campbell.

A boy's idea of an original person is one who doesn't say, "How fast you grow!" when he meets him.

An old fashioned person always carries a troche in one pocket to offer to people who cough, if they are friends or strangers.

The largest and formerly best patronized Indian boneyard is or was near Bear creek in eastern Oklahoma, near the defunct Iowa village and sprouting village of Falls, western Lincoln. The Iowas, who kept vigils there for thirty years buried all their dead, hundreds of them, on the surface, in the blackjack brush. White flags or rags fluttered on high poles erected at the graves of all the elderly dead and the clothes of the dead persons were hung on the brush around the rough dead boxes, which were more or less adorned with bundles of sticks. The sticks were testimonials of the departed Indian's extra good qualities while in the flesh each stick representing a very good act performed by the deceased to the one that put them on the box containing the bones. A visitor to the graveyard could quickly see the good had or indifferent history of the departed by the number of sticks resting upon their exposed coffins. The graves that were without sticks testimonials contained cowardly or bad Indians. A goodly number of bleaching horse skulls lay around the dead boxes, the favorite horses of the prominent Iowas being killed on the funeral day, so that the redskin can trot on a spiritual pony, to the happy hunting ground. The Bear creek Indian graveyard is no longer patronized and seldom visited by the eighty remaining Iowas. The former white flags are tattered, torn and rotten, and prowling hogs grunt and root among the redmen's and the squaw's crumbling ground.

If you achieve any kind of success in this world you must work for it. If you can't work yourself, work somebody else.

He Feels Good.
Caddo, Ky., July 20.—"I believe I could climb a mountain without drawing a long breath" is the way William Ball of this place describes how he is feeling.

As Mr. Ball has been on the sick list for a long time, this declaration from him comes as quite a surprise.

When asked to explain how he had become so strong in such a short time, he says:

"I did have Kidney Trouble very bad, in fact I had to get up four or five times every night to urinate. I had shortness of breath which distressed me terribly. I was badly used up, and was really of no account for anything."

"I used three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and that's what has made me well. I can sleep all night without having to get up. I feel splendid and as I said before, I believe I could climb a mountain without drawing a long breath. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it all."

Dangers of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.
As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physician, and damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle. UNKNOWN LAND.
Parts of Old Roman Empire Which No Modern Traveler Has Seen.

Few people appreciate the fact that to-day, at the dawn of the twentieth century, there are still parts of the old Roman Empire where no traveler of modern times has been; that there are ancient towns which no tourist has seen, temples and towers that no lover of classic architecture has delighted in, inscriptions in ancient Greek that no savant has as yet deciphered—whole regions, in fact, full of antiquities for which no Baedeker has been written, and which are not shown up on the latest maps. There are regions within our temperate zone where no modern European foot has trod, so far as we are able to tell—regions where the civilization of Greece and Rome once flourished, and where fine monuments of classic art, and of an unfamiliar art that supplanted the classic, waste their beauties upon the ignorant sight of half-civilized nomads.

To realize the truth of this, one needs only to cross the ranges of mountains that run parallel to the eastern coast of the Mediterranean, and, avoiding all caravan routes, journey independently about the barren country that lies between these mountains and the Euphrates. Here is territory which, though not wholly explored, is full of most wonderful surprises. Here are cities and towns long deserted, not so great or so imposing, perhaps, as Palmyra, but far better preserved than the city of Zenobia, and giving a much truer picture of the life of the ancient inhabitants than one can draw from those famous ruins. These towns are not buried, like the great cities of the Mesopotamian plains, nor have their sites been built upon in modern times, as those of the classic cities of Greece have been; they stand out against the sky upon high ridges or lie sheltered in sequestered valleys, presenting to the view of the traveler as he approaches them very much the same aspect that they did in the fourth century of our era, when inhabited by prosperous, cultivated and happy people, or when deserted by those inhabitants some thirteen hundred years ago.—Century.

THESE SNAKES PLAYED TUNES.
The Old Plainsman Heard Them Rattle Off Popular Airs.

"Yes, sir," said the old plainsman, as he stood before a den of rattlers at the Lincoln Park zoo. "I don't allow there's a more interestin' reptile a-go'in' than this here same breed. There is those as place blame the intellect of the rattlesnake on a low order, an' I don't know as they have as good a workin' brain as a Gila monster or a tarantula, but I do know this: Their appreciation of the art of music is profound an' stirrin'." They takes to it like one of those here Wagner fellows does to a Theodore Thomas concert. An' they're smart to learn, lemme tell you!

"Up in Routt County, Colorado, where I come from, there is most rattlesnakes an' sagebrush an' a few people huntin'." I remember a party of hunters passin' that-a-way last fall. In the evening they set about the camp singin' an' there was some mandolins along. Three or four times the party was scint out by snakes that crept into camp to hear the music, though they should a-known better to be, for there's no harm in a rattler when there's music goin'.

"But that ain't the curious part of the tale which I'm unfoldin'." I was along that place some time after the campers broke up and was attracted by a low musical sound from behind the boulder. Knowin' somethin' of tunes, I was s'prised to catch the chorus of one of the coon songs that had been popular with the campers. It was the one they sing down to the Chicago opera house, 'Ain't that a Shame?' Ponderin' over it, I crept up on top of the boulder an' looked over at some flat rocks on the other side. It was a sight never to forget. A chorus of ten rattlers had their tails in the air an' was poundin' out the song for all they was worth! I lay there fascinated, and, by ginger, before they got through they done 'The Holy City, an' Go 'Way Back and Sit Down' as well's I ever heard 'em done. Kill 'em? 'Twould been a crime to break up a musical family like that."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Leaf-Cutting Bees.
The leaf-cutting bees are near relatives of the honey and bumblebees, which they closely resemble. They derive their name from the habit you have observed, of cutting out bits of leaves for their cells. The circular pieces are for the ends of the cells, and the oblong pieces for the sides. These cells are usually in burrows cut into wood, for some of the leaf-cutting bees, like the carpenter bees, have the talent of cutting holes into wood.—St. Nicholas.

Spring Fever.
The head of the firm was asleep, in his office chair. Suddenly he stirred uneasily. "Robber! Robber!" he hoarsely cried. He was awake when they reached him.

"G-guess I was dreamin' I was at a ball game," he stammering explained.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Lively Occupation.
To one unfamiliar with country nomenclature the question asked by the young man in the Philadelphia Press might not seem wholly unnatural.

"And were you never in the country during the season of husking-bees, Mr. S.?" asked the young lady.

"No. The ideal! How do you husk a bee, anyway?"

PE-RU-NA IS OF ESPECIAL BENEFIT TO WOMEN

Says Dr. M. C. Gee, of San Francisco.

A CONSTANTLY increasing number of physicians prescribe Peruna in their regular practice. It has proven its merits so thoroughly that even the doctors have overcome their prejudice against so-called patent medicines and recommend it to their patients.

"I Advise Women to Use Per-u-na," Says Dr. Gee.

Dr. M. C. Gee is one of the physicians who endorse Peruna. In a letter written from 513 Jones street, San Francisco, Cal., he says:

"There is a general objection on the part of the practicing physician to advocate patent medicines, but when any one medicine cures a hundred of people, it demonstrates its own value and does not need the indorsement of the profession.

"Peruna has performed so many wonderful cures in San Francisco that I am convinced that it is a valuable remedy. I have frequently advised its use for women, as I find it assures regular and painless menstruation, cures leucorrhoea and ovarian troubles, and builds up the entire system. I also consider it one of the finest catarrh remedies I know of. I heartily indorse your medicine."—M. C. Gee, M. D.

Mrs. E. T. Gaddis, Marion, N. C., is one of Dr. Hartman's grateful patients. She consulted him by letter, followed his directions, and is now able to say the following:

"Before I commenced to take Peruna I could not do any hard work without suffering great pain. I took Peruna, and can say with pleasure that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken. Now I am as well as ever; I do all my own work and it never hurts me at all. I think Peruna is a great medicine for womankind."—Mrs. E. T. Gaddis.

Women are especially liable to pelvic catarrh, female weakness as it is commonly called.

Peruna occupies a unique position in medical science. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession to-day. Catarrh, as every one will admit, is the cause of one-half the diseases which afflict mankind. Catarrh and catarrhal diseases afflict one-half of the people of the United States.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
