A Boy's Victory.

Crossroads, Tenn., Sept. 14.-Orbra Young, the 10-year-old son of Lester Young, of this place, is a bright boy, and one who is very well liked by all who know him.

For some years Orbra has suffered a great deal with a form of Kidney Trouble which was very annoying, and which made him miserable all the time. He had to get up three or four times every night, almost all his life. His father heard of a remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills, and bought some for the little fellow, with the result that he is now completely cured of the old trouble. He says: "Dodd's Kidney Pills soon gave me great relief, and now I can sleep all night without having to get up. We will always praise Dodd's Kidney Pills." There are many children suffering from Kidney and Urinary troubles. These disorders should be promptly corrected. Dodd's Kidney Pills is a safe and sure remedy for all such derangements. Master Orbra Young conquered his troubles and made a well boy of himself, by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and any one may do the same by the same means.

Parents should see to it that their children are given a fair chance in life, and there is nothing that can undermine the health of a growing child as much as Kidney and Urinary derangements.

ART OF REST

May Be Acquired and Used with Great Complete and restful poise of the body and mind is an art not easily gained. Perhaps nothing brings one as much content, comfort, happiness and pleasure as those conditions of easy, restful, re sourceful and well-balanced mind and body, that make of work a pleasure and the daily life happy and peaceful.

The nervous housewife busy with a hundred duties and harassed by children; the business man, worried with the press of daily affairs, debts, etc., cannot enjoy the peace and restful repose and healthful nervous balance unless they know

There is a way. First and foremost the stomach must be consulted. That means leaving off coffee absolutely, for the temporary stimulant and the resulting depression is a sure ruin to the neryous system, and the whole condition of health and happiness rests upon stomach, nerves and mind.

Start with the stomach, that is the keystone to the whole arch. Stop using its nervous energy and prevent the proper digestion of the food and the consequent manufacture of healthful blood and nerves, brain and tissues. When you quit coffee take on Postum double. You stop poisoning the system with coffee and start building up the broken down nerve cells by powerful elements contained in Postum. These are pure food elements ably selected by experts for the purpose of supplying just the thing required by Nature to perform this rebuilding. of anyone, by personal experience. Try the change yourself and note how the old condition of shattered nerves and worried mind changes to that feeling of restful poise of a well-balanced nervous system. The managing physician of a hygienic years in his practice he has always insisted upon the patients leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee with the most positive, well defined results and with satisfaction to the most confirmed

"Those stories about Brough," said the Doctor, "reminded me of others. Going one day to consult the Governor, I met a lady prominent in society and in good work for the soldiers coming from an interview with Brough. She was excited and furious. She insisted that the Governor had treated her without consideration and almost insolently. Her grievance was that all through the interview the Governor had chewed tobacco and had used the cuspidor as freely as if he had been in a barroom or saloon. She had been Brough's friend all through his stormy administration, and she wished heartily she had never seen what she call d his barroom manners.

"I knew the Governor was a free user of tobacco, but I had never noticed anything offensive in his way of using it. In fact, I didn't care any thing about his tobacco or his way, of using it. When I went to his office he always talked of big things, and his strength was so apparent in handling the great questions of the day that had no place in my mind for trifles. I told the lady this and assured her that she must be mistaken as to any slight on the Governor's part. I went into Brough's office, however, and there sat the Governor of Ohio with a huge cus pidor at his side, sputtering and spitting like a gunboat under fire.

"There was trouble of the gravest Import, and Brough had forgotten himself and the amenities of his office in rounding out a plan to help the national administration. He did help President Lincoln then and on other occasions, and without thought of himself | the high ridge, on which this note | the mucous surfaces. or his political prospects. When the Governor had cooled down I told him position of the Union troops, I eagerly of my conversation with the lady who scanned the prospect with my field had been disappointed in him, and in my hearing he dictated a note of apol- of the mysterious communication or ogy as graceful as it was sincere. He detect its misrepresentations. There, to leap from lofty trees and descend said he did not want to be misunderstood by one who had done so much to help him and the soldiers in the field, and asked her for suggestions as to the controversy with the sanitary and Christian commissions in which he had become involved through the desire of the Ohio soldiers' aid societies to send their contributions direct to Ohio soldiers in the field.

"In this controversy the women of the aid societies were with the Governor, although he was misunderstood superstition that when one of these in other States and was represented birds makes its nest on a housetop, as seeking a quarrel with the Christhe occupants of that house are as- tian commission. I happen to know that the lady who was so disappointed over Brough using tobacco did much to clear up the misunderstanding and to show that in his intructions to the State agents the Governor insisted the agents should avoid controversy and strife and yet do their full duty in looking after the sick, wounded and other soldiers of the State.

"Brough, it is true, was harsh in language and judgment, and his quarrels with officers were fought to the end with the bitterness of the time. But often he got as good as he sent. In several cases the officers under criticism wrote the Governor warning him to mind his own business, and in other cases his letters were returned with dignified but severe comment. Colonel Dan McCook wrote Brough a letter which the Governor regarded as insolent, and he wrote in reply a stinging rebuke, which Colonel Dan was smarting under when he led the assault at Kenesaw mountain. Brough probably regretted the letter, but Mc-Cook's friends never forgot it.

"Brough was a master in war affairs. It was on his suggestion that the Governors of Illinois, Indiana. Ohio and Iowa offered the government the 100-days men in 1864. And Brough, it must be remembered, had 30,000 National Guards, as he called them, in the field in sixteen days. His plan was that these short-term men should take the places of older troops guarding cities and railways, and that a veteran army at full strength should ental Restaurant at Richmond. The things that break down its power, upset be hurled against Lee, and so end the prices that prevailed then seem worse war in a hundred days."

The farmers, old and young, did as requested, and in less than a week 15.000 men who knew now to shoot were at Cincinnati or in Kentucky ready to shoot. These were the famous 'squirrel hunters,' and Governor Tod always believed that they and their squirrel rifles scared Kirby Smith and led to his retreat. Certainly the 'squirrel hunters' of Ohio in their ready response to the Governor's appeal demonstrated that Tod knew something of the men who had voted him into office."

"Governor Tod," said the Colonel, "organized as many new regiments in his two years of office as any other State executive. He contributed greatly to the good of the service by appointing to the new regiments officers who had seen service in older regiments. For example, Captain Opdycke of the Forty-first Ohio was made Colonel of the One Hundred and Twentyfifth Ohio, which became known in our division as Opdycke's Tigers. And they were good fighters. That reminds me that one of the Tigers received what he called a jolt, that put him out of the Tiger Lusiness for half an hour. "This was at Buzzard's Roost, May 11, 1864. The Tiger had just raised his Springfield riffe to his shoulder, and after taking aim was just ready to pull the trigger when a musket ball fired from a rebel gun entered the muzzle of his own rifle. The effect was to paralyze his arms and his rifle dropped to the ground. On the same day Julius Byers of Co. K, 52d Ohio. was struck by a musket ball which passed through both elbow joints, the shock to the brain produced instant d ath. An Important Bouquet. As we move along the street, a little girl, probably twelve years of age, ran up to my horse and handed me a large bouquet of flowers, in the center of which was a note in delicate handwriting, purporting to give the numbers and describe the position of the Union forces of Wrightsville, toward which I was advancing. I carefully read and reread this strange note. It bore no signature and contained no assurance of sympathy for the Southern cause, but it was so terse and explicit in its terms as to compel my confidence. The second day we were glasses in order to verify the truth in full view before as, was the town, just as described, nestling on the banks of the Susquehanna. There was the blue line of soldiers guarding the approach, drawn up as indicated, along an intervening ridge and across the pike. There was the long bridge spanning the Susquehanna and connecting the town with Columbia on the other bank. Most important of all, there was the deep gorge or ravine running off to the right and extending around the left flank of the Federal line to the river below the bridge. Not an inaccurate detail in that note could be discovered. I did not hesitate, therefore, to adopt its suggestion of moving down the gorge in order to throw my command on the flank, or possibly in the rear, of the Union troops and force them to a rapid retreat or surrender. The result of this movement vindicated the strategic wisdom of my unknown and -judging by the handwriting-female correspondent, whose note was none the less material because imbedded in roses, and whose evident genius for war, had occasion offered, might have made her a captain equal to Catherine. - Gen. John B. Gordon, in Scribner's.

High Prices Prevailed.

"When I hear a friend of mine complain of prices on the bill of fare of any high-toned hotel restaurant I tell him he ought to have lived in the South during the closing days of the Civil War and taken his meals at any first-class restaurant, and then he would see that in comparison with the prices of to-day things to eat are almost given away," said T. J. Wilson of Virginia to a Washington Star man. "Why, during the days of '64 you had to carry a basketful of money to buy enough meats and vegetables for a family dinner. And it was the same way if you took your best girl to supper after the theater.
