

Every Walk in Life.
 A. A. Boyce, a farmer, living three and a half miles from Trenton, Mo., says: "A severe cold settled in my kidneys and developed so quickly that I was obliged to lay off work on account of the aching in my back and sides. For a time I was unable to walk at all, and every makeshift I tried and all the medicine I took had not the slightest effect. My back continued to grow weaker until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and I must say I was more than surprised and gratified to notice the back ache disappearing gradually until it finally stopped."

An American, a guest at a hotel in Peking, was awakened during the night by a roll of paper falling. Getting out of bed, he saw, with astonishment, a pole, to which was attached a fishing line, moving about the room, collecting various objects and removing them through the window. Upon going downstairs, he was heard by the burlesque Chinaman outside, to whom the rod belonged, and who escaped, leaving his fishing rod behind him.

TOO MUCH COMPETITION.
 Tenderfoot—"How is business out there?"
 Gory Gulch Citizen—"Tisn't wot it was: too much competition. My fur parlors used to be crowded every night; but six more places has been opened inside of a month; though I didn't complain, 'cause I still had a good bar trade; but since Pete Peggem opened his palace saloon and commenced giving a box of cartridges with every drink, I'm beginnin' to think the only way fer me to make a livin' is to drop out o' the liquor trade and go into the undertaker business."

FURS ARE TRIMMED.
 MUST BE EMBELLISHED TO BE REALLY STYLISH.

Use of Two Kinds of Fur in Combination Is Quite General—Coats and Evening Wraps Are Very Ornate This Season.

New York correspondence:
 FUR furs are not going to be fine enough this winter; they must have embellishment of some stylish sort to take place in the first rank. Naturally there are not a great many sorts of trimmings that are suitable for this use, but the season now beginning will have more than are usual. The many tricks of combining two kinds of fur are still in force, and are worked as persistently and as effectively as ever. But the possibilities in this direction have been pretty well developed, so a new touch has been demanded and been put forward. It consists of the use in a variety of ways of fringes and cords on fur. These trimmings may be placed inconspicuously as mere edging, or may consist of design work and ornaments, much like the ornamentation put on dress goods. In the latter manner much of this embellishment is very striking. An ermine jacket finished with black silk cord and ornaments in liberal supply will stand out as new, you may depend. What is hastening the replacement of two-fur combinations is the opportunity they give for making good use of my old furs. This stands for economy, though making over in furs is costly business enough, but the out and out stylish affair in peltry must be free from all such suspicion, according to those who set fashions. In millinery, fur trimmed hats are many, and the amount of fur to the hat is considerable, but rarely is the all fur hat seen, as they are deemed suitable only for severe weather. The light colored furs have the call for head-wear, ermine, mole, chinchilla and squirrel all ranking as stylish.

 Coats are so elaborately made that the shopper doesn't get much impressed with the simpler ones until compelled to consider them by the prohibitive prices at which the highly wrought garments are held. Yet these prices seem reasonable enough when the nature of the garments has fair study, for fine materials, good workmanship and the most ingenious designing enter into them. Evening wraps are especially ornate. They run much to white and very light shades, and to an abundance of rich trimmings. Passementeries, embroideries and laces are distributed over them with a lavish hand, but though the cut usually is of the loosest, the scheme of trimming ordinarily is such that clever handling of the seemingly shapeless garment is necessitated. It will not do to start with a carelessly baggy foundation, just because a deal of trimming is to go on it.

In less elaborate coats loose models are numerous, and the finish shows originality. The latter statement is true in such degree that it is difficult, indeed, to secure a simple garment of sufficient individuality to appear as of the new styles. The coats and wraps that are not grand are finely contrived. Some of these are sketched here. In the first picture is a coat of dark brown broadcloth, its stole and cape effect ornamented with shaped pieces of light tan cloth applied on and finished with brown silk fringe. In the next illustration is a coat of blue zibeline trimmed with tan cloth embroidered with tan cord. And in the concluding picture is a black broadcloth coat fancifully self-banded. Coats of this last one's general sort are often made individual by ornamentation of the seams. Strappings are various for this purpose. They are left with raw edge when the material warrants such treatment. In elaborate coats seam finish takes many fanciful and ornate forms.

The sloping shoulder is quite as important a matter as ever. Some of last season's models seemed highly exaggerated in this respect, and hinted that the end of this fashion was near. But for once the exaggeration did not foretell a shift to some other idea. Instead, women have become accustomed to this oddity, and have voted it admirable, consequently the winter fashions include

Bright's Disease Cured.
 Whitehall, Ill., Dec. 7.—A case has been recorded in this place recently, which upsets the theory of many physicians that Bright's Disease is incurable. It is the case of Mr. Lon Manley, whom the doctors told that he could never recover. Mr. Manley tells the story of his case and how he was cured in this way:

"I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills after the doctors had given me up. For four or five years I had Kidney, Stomach and Liver Troubles; I was a general wreck and at times I would get down with my back so bad that I could not turn myself in bed for three or four days at a time.
 "I had several doctors and at last they told me I had Bright's Disease, and that I could never get well. I commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and I am now able to do all my work and am all right. I most heartily recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills and am very thankful for the cure they worked in my case. They saved my life after the doctors had given me up."

ABOUT FEAR.
 Often Comes from Lack of Right Food.
 Napoleon said that the best fed soldiers were his best soldiers, for fear and nervousness come quickly when the stomach is not nourished. Nervous fear is a sure sign that the body is not supplied with the right food.
 A Connecticut lady says: "For many years I had been a sufferer from indigestion and heart trouble and in almost constant fear of sudden death, the most acute suffering possible. Dieting brought on weakness, emaciation and nervous exhaustion, and I was a complete wreck mentally.
 "I tried many foods but could not avoid the terrible nausea followed by vomiting that came after eating until I tried Grape Nuts. This food agreed with my palate and stomach from the start. This was about a year ago. Steadily and surely a change from sickness to health came, until now I have no symptoms of dyspepsia and can walk ten miles a day without being greatly fatigued. I have not taken a drop of medicine since I began the use of Grape Nuts, and people say I look many years younger than I really am.
 "My poor old sick body has been made over and I feel as though my head has been, too. Life is worth living now and I expect to enjoy it for many years to come if I can keep away from bad foods and have Grape Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

YE SYMPATHETIC FRIEND.
 George—"Jack, old boy, I'm so glad I ran across you. Never needed your friendship more. I'm in love with the belle of the season, and I promised her a sail today, but I had a run of bad luck last night, and haven't a cent left."
 Jack—"Too bad."
 "Yes, I don't care for myself, you know; but it's such a pity that a charming creature like that should be disappointed. You have a little money to spare haven't you?"
 "Oh, plenty. Make yourself easy, my dear boy. She shan't be disappointed. I'll take her myself."
 The sun-and-air cure for general debility is being tested on the Weissex Hirsch, a wooded hill near Dresden. Most of the patients treated in this outdoor sanitarium are females. A privileged feminine visitor beholds strange sights there. In the ladies' enclosure she sees a famous beauty playing at tennis, and clad only in a large black hat, a pearl necklace and one transparent muslin garment. Young and pretty women look charming in this simple toilet, but there are many patients who are neither young, slim, nor beautiful, and words fail to convey the oddity of their appearance.
