Omaha Democrats.

The election of Mr. Dahlman as mayor of Omaha is likely to start several things in the democratic party in this state. It will put the corporation end of the party to the front and greatly cheer the chaps who are doing their best to stick a long knife into the back of George W. Berge and other patriots out in the rural districts. The Douglas county machine will be tolerably united now, and its whole strength can be counted on the side of the railroads in future line-ups on that issue.—Lincoln Journal.

With the Journal the wish is the father to the thought. The truth is that Mr. Dahlman and the democratic candidates were elected largely because they stood on the directest and most specific anti-corporation platform ever presented to Omaha voters, and because not only democrats but hundreds of republicans believed they would be true to their pledges.

The corporations, as the future will attest, never got a harder jolt in Omaha than the election of the candidates standing on the democratic platform. And there never was a platform more genuinely representative of the overwhelming sentiment of Omaha's democracy.

The Lincoln Journal, as well as other maligners of the democracy of this city and county, will find Omaha democrats standing, in the state convention, just as they stood in the recent campaign; for a clean and economical business administration and for final divorce between the railroads and other corporations and the state government. They will find Omaha democrats everywhere, standing for a more equitable revenue law, for a higher assessment of railroad property, for lower freight and passenger rates, for an anti-pass law, for the strict enforcement of anti-trust laws, including the criminal sections, for the direct primary and for the popular election of United States senators. They will further find them standing for the nomination of candidates for state office whose names will be guarantees of the strict performance of democratic pledges and an honest, efficient administration of the state's affairs.

Kinkaid Has Two Bill Passed

Washington, May 8.—Judge Kinkaid had two of his bills passed by the house yesterday, one giving permission to Charles H. Cornell to construct a trolley and telegraph line across the Fort Niobrara military reservation and to dam the river at Fort Niobrara. The other bill authorizes the secretary of the interior to make a survey of the townships in McPherson county.—Omaha Daily News.

A Specialized City.

It has become a threadbare remark that this is the age of specialization. Every line of business, professions and labor is specialized. We have got used to it.

And now comes the specialization of cities. A great city is to be built on the Indiana shore of Lake Michigan especially for the manufacture of steel.

Plans are made for a community of 15,000 workmen, which, with their families, will make a population of 100,000. Tradesmen, professional men, laborers and all other necessary elements of a modern city population will increase the number indefinitely.

Already the ground is being cleared for the great plant and for homes, schools, churches, libraries and municipal buildings. It is to be a city of magic growth.

Ordinarily a city is a slow development, a resultant of many forces operating in pursuance of different aims. But this is to be a city built, from the ground up, with one primary aim in view. It is the furthest reach of modern civilization.

It will be an ideal town for the manufacture of steel. But beyond that there is a question. The fundamental purpose of a city is not profit to a few corporation magnates, but happiness for its inhabitants.

The development of the new town with its interesting complication of political, industrial and domestic problems will be worth watching by students of government as well as by sociologists and economists.—Omaha Daily News.
