The Democratic Opportunity.

It is very doubtful whether there has ever been held, in the history of Nebraska, a democratic convention in which the people of the state, regardless of party, have taken so keen and personal an interest as they take in the convention that meets at Lincoln today.

Nebraska is under the yoke of republican misgovernment.

The serious consequences of that misgovernment, the still more serious consequences that are sure to follow its continuance, have become plain, at last, to a very large majority of Nebraska's citizens.

Our state's affairs are in the hands of petty, unworthy and unfaithful men. Their inexcusable extravagance has plunged the state millions in debt in years of unparalleled prosperity. Within a very few years state taxes and appropriations have doubled. The vast bulk of the increased taxes have been raised at the expense of the farmers, the business men and the small property-holders. Railroads and other great and influential corporations have been granted immunity from the burden.

In every department of government the railroad and trust influence is supreme. Supine and corrupt officialdom has surrendered the reins of power into the keeping of that influence. The legislature has bowed to it, defeating anti-pass legislation, direct primary legislation, and bills to reduce passenger and freight rates.

The attorney general has yielded to it, refusing to enforce an anti-pass law now on the statute books, refusing to enforce the criminal laws against a grain trust the existence of which has been proved in court, and defending the outrageous course of a faithless state taxing board before the people of the state.

That board has yielded to it, in taxing railroad property on a valuation of 60 per cent, while compelling other property to pay taxes on a basis of 100 per cent.

The secretary of state has done its bidding, and a constitutional amendment creating a railway commission has been placed in the gravest jeopardy.

Every promise of reform made by the republican party has been violated. Every important pledge of its officials has been broken. And now, with fresh promises on their lips, the republican leaders and republican officials are making ready to ask for a new lease of power, expecting the people to be blind to their blackened record.

Democracy's great opportunity is at hand.

The people are looking to the democratic party for relief. They will make it their instrument with which to hurl the insolent railroad bosses and their lying puppets from power, if only the democratic party will prove, by the stand it takes, by the candor and courage of its utterances—by the character and ability of its candidates, that it is worthy to be trusted.

Vast encouragement lies in the fact that democracy's case is already half proved. A party's trustworthiness is determined largely by the character of its leadership. The leader of the Nebraska democracy is a man so exalted in his ideals, so pure and resolute and steadfast, so plainly committed to the cause of the people in their struggle with monopolies and trusts, that all the world is honoring him today, and the nation is preparing for him a reception, when he returns from abroad two weeks hence, without precedent in American history.

Sitting at the feet of William J. Bryan, it is not conceivable that the democracy of Nebraska would betray the people's trust and prove false to the interests of the state. But assurance may be made doubly sure. Let the party's pledges be so specific, let its nominees be men of such record and such established character, as will leave no room for doubt. And, however spirited the contests between candidates, when the convention has completed its work let all who sought its favor, whether they lost or won, and let all democrats, regardless of what their preferences may have been, rally unselfishly and loyally about the chosen standard-bearers of the party, to help them win the battle and, having won it, to carry their party's pledges into effect. Let this be done, and the victory, which means so much more to us as citizens than it does as partisans, is in sight.—World-Herald.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION

Notice is hereby given to the electors of the democratic party of the 14th senatorial district of Nebraska, that a convention will be held in Chadron, Dawes County, Nebraska, at two o'clock p. m., on September 12, 1906, for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for senator to be voted on at the coming election, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The representation of these several counties of said district in said convention will be as follows:

Box Butte 5, Brown 4, Cherry 6, Dawes 5, Keya Paha 4, Rock 4, Sheridan 5, Sioux 3.

S. S. JOICE,
Chm. Sen. Com.

Notice.

The Second Annual Race Meeting and Blooded Live Stock Show which is to be held at O'Neill, September 5th to 7th inclusive promises to be one of the most successful events of the kind ever held in north Nebraska. The society has offered $1800.00 for speed purses alone and it is stated by the management that an exceedingly long list of fast horses have already entered, and, as the O'Neill track is known to be one of the best in the state, excellent racing is assured.

Besides the racing and other sports a blooded live stock show is to be held during the meeting and a big blooded live stock sale to be held the last day which will afford all an opportunity to buy or sell anything they have to offer in that line.

The democratic congressional convention meets today at Kearney.

Moses P. Kinkaid was renominated for congress by the republicans.

W. S. Barker assumed that which he knew to be untrue in the defense of his preferred candidate, whom we will assume is so much to his liking that he feels sore when some one assails the republican candidate.

You can get a case of 24 bottles of Webb's soda for 75c, delivered to your house. Try a case. Telephone 117. 31

W. S. Jackson returned this morning from his visit back home. Mrs. Jackson stopped at Neligh to visit relatives a week or two.

25¢ SPECIAL!

THE VALENTINE DEMOCRAT will be sent to NEW subscribers until January 1, 1907 for 25 cents, or $1.00 to January 1, 1908.

U. S. Weather Bureau Report for week ending Aug. 22.

A Food to Work On

Work! Work!! Work!!!

Lots of energy is needed to keep up the pace. In the struggle, the man with the strong body and clear brain wins out every time.

The man of to-day needs something more than mere food; he needs a food that makes energy—a food to work on.

Although some people may not realize it, yet it is a fact, proved and established beyond doubt, that soda crackers—and this means Uneeda Biscuit—are richer in muscle and fat-making elements and have a much higher per cent. of tissue-building properties than any other article of food made from flour.

That this is becoming known more and more every day is attested by the sale of nearly 400,000,000 packages of Uneeda Biscuit, the finest soda cracker ever baked. An energy-giving food of surpassing value—sold in a package which brings it to you with all the original flavor and nutriment perfectly preserved. Truly the food to work on.

Whoever you are—whatever you are—wherever you work—Uneeda Biscuit.
