Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease. Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease.

While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the orig. inal disease undermines the system.

What To Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing theumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Einghamton, N. V. When Homo of Ewe writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

FORESTS KILLED BY TAXES.

ILLIAM H. JENNINGS, of Witkesbarre, Pa., tells how he has 1,500 acres of woodland covered with trees of good size, but not yet mature. They have been growing thirty years, but should stand ten years longer for their best development. The assessor, however, figures up what he considers the present market value of the wood, and by his return places Mr. Jennings under obligation to pay the full tax on those trees, though he has no revenue from them whatever . Next year he must again pay on their market value, regardless of the fact that he can market them but once.

This is a familiar story. It is clear that those trees will be taxed off the face of the earth. It will not pay the owner to keep them until mature if he must pay on their market value every year for ten years. Those 1.500 acres will, therefore, he changed, sooner or later, from a beautiful piece of woods to a wilderness of stumps and brush.

Outside of the city line tracts of large trees are very Infrequent. Where forests exist at all they are nearly always of young second growth timber. The tax assessor gets in his deadly work. He is a worse fee of trees than the insects which prey upon and the fires which consume them. He is not so much to blame as the law back of him that allows trees to be taxed when standing Estead of deferring the tax until the trees are cut and made a marketable product.--Philadelphia Press.

"UNCLE SAM" AND THE PASIFIC OCHAN.

HE elecumstance is not always realized that most of the great nations of the world have important frantages on the Pacific Ocean. The United States, both in itself and in its outlying possessions, bus a far more extouded frombage on the Paritie than on the Atlantic and the gulf, and its interests are for more widely distributed on the Partie. The same may be said of the British Equipe, which fronts upon the Pacific with its two great dominions of Canada and New Zeahard, its commonwealth of Australia and innumerable other pers sames. France has an important Pacific frontage in I do China and a number of islands. Cornany has an insular captre of considerable extent and possibilities, while that of Helland is enormous in extent and wealth- and forms, by the way, one of the strongest grounds for Germany's desire for the incorporation of the Ne hericults has the Tentonic ensoire. Russin's Pacific Contage, despite its recent reduction, is still extensive and important, especially because of its connection with Parrops by railroad. Japan and China are purely Pacific powers. Nor must we forget the other American States which look out upon that ocean-Mexico, the Central American States, Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile.

It would be idle and perhaps mischievous to speculate upon the possibilities of any one nation's securing actual dominance upon that ocean. Spain once tried to make it a Spanish lake, but England defeated her pretensions. Russia tried to establish a monopoly of the northern part of it, but was forced by the United States to recede from her extravagant claims. There is no more ground for the primacy of any one power there than there is on the Atlantic. But it is quite obvious that the United States has certain natural and acquired advantages which bespeak for it an interest and an influence in the Pacific second to no other nation. It has a more extended coast line on the Pacific than any other country, and it is or will be the owner and custodian of the gateway connecting the Pacific with the Atlantic. In view of these facts and their significance, there can be no rational thought of any step which would impair our standing or handicap our activities on that ocean.-New York Tribune.

BE QUIET AND BE GOOD.

N application on a small scale is to be made in Central America of a principle with which the greater powers have merely dalfied; the little world between the southern boundary of Mexico and the American isthmus is to be put under a regime of international arbitration. It would be difficult to point out any region on this earth where the conditions for the success of the experiment about to be made have hitherto been less promising.

The pacific and purely diplomatic intervention of this government and of Mexico was fully justified by the condition to which Central America, blessed with an abundance of natural wealth, had been brought by incessant strife. The intervention has received further justification by the outcome of the Central American peace conference.—Philadelphia Record.

One of the most successful press gents at present making theatrical car-history is Toxen Worm, better thown in the "profession" as Tanbark Worm, says the American Magazine. amous. She was playing her first engagement in New York at the theater now known as the Belasco when Mr. Worm became her press agent. Knowing the eccentric irritability of his star, he conceived the idea of spreading tanbark along 42d street in front of the theater to deaden the noises which, he let it be known, jarred upon the sensitive nerves of the actress almost beyoud endurance. Some city department granted the authority, and the tanbark was spread. The story was printed far and wide, exciting laughter, comment, derision. Finally the talk resulted in a rebuke from officials higher up to the department which had granted the authority to spread the bark. The tanbark was removed. That meant more stories, more talk. Mrs. Patrick Campbell became famous, even among those people who probably to this day have never seen her act. She became the center of newspaper attention wherever she went. The doings of her toy dog, Pinky-panky-poo, were chronicled, pictured, earicatured-always with Mr. Worm's invaluable assistance-till the dog also became a public character. One afternoon in Boston Mrs. Campbell. coming on the stage before the matinee, observed Nick Loretz, her stage carpenter, with whom she was not on the most amiable terms, peeping out at the audi-

LIQUOR UNDER BAN.

in Eighty Cities of the United States

Prohibition Now Rules. Under the strong tide of prohibition, which has so impressively demonstrated its power in Southern States, the ' "dry" area in America has been doufiled in the last twelve months. Eighty cities in seventeen States are now enforcing prohibition laws on their 2,-200,000 inhabitants, and of these eighty municipalities, thirty-three "went dry" in 1907. Some come under general prohibition statutes, as the Georgia cities, but many of them have voted dry under the provisions of a local option

Additions to the list of dry cities Juring 1907 include: Alabama—Annision, Birmingham, Huntsville, Mobile, Montgomery and Selma. California-Berkley. Georgia—Athens. Atlanta, Augusta, Brunswick, Columbia, Macon and Savannah. Illinois-Champaign, Jacksonville, Urbana, Indian Territory Durant, Muskogee, Tulso, Wagoner. Massachusetts—Haverhill, Lynn, Worester. North Carolina-Asheville, Raleigh. Obie-East Liverpool. Oklahoma—Guthrie, Oklahoma City, Shawnce. Enid. Tennessee-Clarksville, Jackson, Knoxville, Vermont-Burling-

Particular watch has been kept on Atlanta to discover just how the muchdiscussed Georgia law operates there. This watch was kept by the Atlanta Constitution, which did not favor prohibition, and that paper's testimony is believed to be unbiased.

In a special story the Constitution admits that the elimination of whisky has "worked a revolution in the city's worst quarter, and as is almost invariably the case, the police records show that the public is actually saving monby by the operation of the "dry" statate. In Atlanta, on January 4, 1907. when the high license law was in efect, there were sixty-three police cases. thirty-two of which were connected with drunkenness, On January 4, 1968. lust eight days after the dry law went nto effect, there were just seventeen police cases in Atlanta, not one being or drunkenness.

These facts will be used in arguments being brought to bear on Conress for legislation to make the Disrict of Columbia dry and to forbid such interstate commerce which will dump "original package" liquor into prohibition territory.
