JUDGE WESTOVER

A Candidate For the Nomination For Congress in the Big Sixth.

For some time it has been rumored that Hon. Judge W. H. Westover would consent to become a candidate for congress if his friends desired him to make the race. Many friends of the Judge have given their approval and he has consented to become a candidate.

Judge Westover has been district judge of this Fifteenth judicial district for the past twelve years, consecutively, and is now entering upon his fourth term, being re-elected last fall by a handsome majority. He has been re-elected each time by increasing majorities, despite the big republican majority of nearly 3,000 on other offices, and is a popular man with the people of this district, because of his superior ability and because he is right. He will be unequalled as a representative of the people.

What right has one to condemn another and call down the wrath of God upon him or to judge that this or that one will have to answer for that or that at the judgment? Who made them the judge over anything? When Mrs. Hornby threatened those who didn't vote to suit her with the wrath to come, wasn't she usurping some of the Almighty's rights? for she might have remembered also, "lest ye be judged."

(Lyons Mirror.)

The republican schemers, corporate wealth and the money power is back of the Johnson boom for president.

Wall Street is spending millions of dollars to nominate Taft.

But the love of their country, God and the right is all that impel millions of freemen to join in the great, popular uprising and determination to place William J. Bryan in the White House.

Under which one of these classes, above named, do you want to enroll your name? Be honest! Dare to stand for human rights and human liberty!

Music.

"The beginning of literature," says Emerson, "is the prayer of the people, and they are always hymns." Music is poetry in tones. It is the language of feeling, the universal language of man.

The cry of joy and of despair, of ecstasy and of agony is understood by all because it is the voice of nature. The strong emotions of the heart, all seek expressions in modulation of sound.

What would a person think if he awoke some sunny morning and could hear no music from the birds singing in the leafy trees? Music in tones is better than words or looks. Music gives repose like prayer of the presence of friends, because it satisfies the heart. What sound more heavenly does hill or vale prolong or multiply than the voice of the bell, filling all the air, far and near, with benediction, until, as the last peal dies away, heaven and earth grow still and the Lord's Day is sanctified? It has a human sense and sympathy.

You can all remember some time when you have heard the distant church bell peal for the death of some loved one what a sad, musical sound it brings to the heart. Music cultivates the aesthetic taste. Everyone has a chance to learn music and this chance should not be neglected.

ARTHUR BROWN,
Sparks, Neb.

For Sale.

House and small barn, with two lots, close in, near school building, for sale at a bargain. House is new, lawn and shade trees, good sidewalk, all fenced. Part cash, balance easy payments. Call on I. M. Rice, agent.

This is just the place for some ranch owner or farmer to select for his wife and children to live during the winter and send children to school. Don't delay as this property will find an owner soon. It may be yours. Come and see about this first time you are in town. 18

We find that Mr. Milt Latta is putting up a fine and commodious house and will take care of those who wish to go to the lakes for rest or sport. The launch will be changed into a sail boat for the free accommodation of guests, equipped with sails. The row boats are being made of a size and shape to suit the sports and will be free to all dollar a day guests. No boats will be hired to anyone on Sunday. All be free but house guests served first. Campers will be welcomed and a free turn out of horses and fire and well water, fishing poles and hooks and lines will be free to the house patronage if they are returned without injury. The house will be fitted with water plant and bath room, hot and cold water, free to the patronage. This will be an ideal place to go to rest and recruit. A new organ for those who wish to play.

P. H. O'Rourke and ex-Postmaster Crowder of Gordon, Neb., are in town as counsel and witness for Frank Gailey in a Government Contest case.

G. D. Saxton and wife are stopping at the Chicago House. They came from Graymot, Ill.

World Famous Medical Specialist at Donohue Hotel May 4th.

As has been announced in other issues of this paper, Dr. Ben W. Kinsey, who is chief of staff of the Hot Springs doctors, who have their Nebraska State Institute permanently located at the corner of O and 14th streets, Lincoln, will arrive in Valentine next Monday and remain one day, and while here will stop at the Donohue hotel. The wonderful Hot Springs system of all home treatment which Dr. Kinsey is bringing to Valentine has cured thousands of cases which have been given up as incurable by many physicians, and is endorsed by the United States and by the world's leading financiers, business men, newspapers, clergymen, and above all, those who were sick and suffering and have been made well by these world-famous specialists, the Hot Springs doctors.

Below are reprinted extracts from a few testimonials which have been received by the Hot Springs doctors:

"I feel that I owe my life to the Hot Springs doctors"—J. W. Lacey, Havelock, Neb.

"The Hot Springs doctors saved my life after other surgical physicians said I would have to undergo an operation."—Mrs. E. W. Brinley, Arcadia, Neb.

"For ten years I suffered with tortuous pains in my side and back, and was treated by over a score of doctors. The Hot Springs doctors cured me with four months treatment."—Mrs. Jennie Reome, 3231 T St., Lincoln.

You told me that I would not receive benefit from your treatment for at least a month, but I am glad for my sake that I can inform you that I have not had an attack of trouble since the day I commenced taking your medicine, and before I took it I had been having three or four attacks a day."—Mrs. C. R. Bee, Fairbury, Neb.

"Was troubled with gall stones for seven years; took two months treatment from the Hot Springs doctors and have had no pain nor symptoms of any trouble since."—Mrs. Wm. Busch, Hallam, Neb.

"I take pleasure in telling you that you have cured my ulcerated limb after many other doctors had failed. Your treatment cured me in less than two months."—Mrs. S. N. Sterling, 1444 North Side Ave., Lincoln.

"I have suffered for years with stomach and kidney trouble. I commenced taking treatment from you October 18th and feel that now I am cured. Will be pleased to answer all questions to any who may inquire."—Mrs. Auguste Heilenreich, 1814 south 12th st., Lincoln.

"Have tried fourteen doctors, local and in Chicago and New York, during the past six years, but they did me no good. In fact I seemed to get worse. I have taken your treatment for the last three months and feel that I am entirely cured. I have gained seventeen pounds and able to do hard manual labor."—Rufus E. Geiger, 210 south 9th street, Lincoln, Neb.

The full testimonials of the people quoted above and thousands of others are on file and may be seen at the offices of the Hot Springs doctors at 24th and O streets, Lincoln, Neb.

The Hot Springs doctors do not ask you to rely on their word alone, but have proofs of their wonderful skill in testimonials from all parts of the country. The Hot Springs doctors do not claim that they can cure all cases, but they absolutely refuse to accept an incurable case for treatment, thus every patient may be assured a cure for their money.

Remember that Dr. Kinsey is bringing this wonderful Hot Springs treatment to Valentine for but one day, May 4th, and while here will stop at the Donohue hotel.

Consultation and examination is free to all who call, and curable cases will be treated free except for the cost of the medicine used.

Practical.

"I didn't notice you at the mothers' congress?"

"No," replied the woman addressed.

"I'm not a theoretical mother, you know. I have six."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Wrong End First.

"Willie," said the infant's mother, agitated by the sudden appearance of a rich relative, "Willie, dear, kiss your Uncle John and then go and wash your face at once."—London Telegraph.

The French Trap.

The vagabond who is kin to the wolf is a special product of civilization. You do not meet him in England or Germany, though something like him exists among the half yellow Slavs of Russia. He is eminently Latin. In every sense of the word he is a rebel against society. He has had some education—few Frenchmen can escape it. He has read a little, perhaps enough to kindle his brain of a wolf, and he has two aims in life—to live the free life of the wolf on the hill and to injure as much as he can that great, monstrous, law driven machine, civilization. The lonely farmhouses are defenseless against him. When all are busy afield he creeps in and pilages. If need be he kills. He has a distinct hatred for those who work and garner. As he passes he fires the haystacks—barnyard buildings go up in smoke. That is where the Latin shows in him. Once out of the law he is an anarchist. So long as he is cross tied in innumerable acts of parliament, the Latin is merry and amiable. When the ropes are off he makes revolution—or fires haystacks.—Vance Thompson in Outing Magazine.

Gave It In Full.

An old Scottish minister took it into his head to marry his housekeeper. His precursor being ill on the day when the banns were to be proclaimed, the minister, not caring to make the intimation himself, arranged with his herd boy to do it. "Now," he said, "you just call out in a loud voice, 'Proclamation of marriage between the Rev. Mr. Murray of this parish and Jean Lowe of the same!' Ha, ha!" laughed the minister as he concluded. "What'd hee thought it?" The Sabbath came round, and the congregation assembled. When the moment arrived the lad, who had duly prepared himself, rose and called out: "Proclamation of marriage between the Rev. Mr. Murray of this parish and Jean Lowe of the same!" Ha, ha!" he laughed, thinking this to be a part of the proclamation. "What'd hee thought it?" The effect on the minister and the congregation can be imagined.

Two Waterloo's.

It is a very curious fact that a good many people do not know that two battles were fought at Waterloo. Both of these were fought against the French, the first under the command of the Duke of Marlborough on Aug. 17, 1705, who on this date actually occupied the same ground as the Duke of Wellington did a little more than a century later, June 17, 1815, the only difference being that the former was marching on Brussels and the latter was marching from Brussels. In the first battle the French were defending Brussels. They marched out to meet Marlborough, but owing to the sleekness on the part of Sehlagenburg, the Dutch general, who was fighting with him, it was not a success. Marlborough only taking a few of the French troops as prisoners. The following one, fought against Napoleon by Wellington, proved to be one of the greatest victories ever recorded in the annals of England.

Couldn't Be Divided.

In Felix Moscheles' "Fragments of an Autobiography" occurs the following: Mme. Schumann was wanted to play at a little musical reunion, but she did not respond. Mr. Moscheles was deputed to approach her. "Was she inclined to play?"

"Particularly disinclined," was the discouraging response.

The envoy tried again and mentioned her husband's "Carnaval." "One part I particularly love, the March of the Davidsbandler." "If I could only hear you play just that page or two?"

"This roused her. 'Page or two, indeed!' she cried. 'Wenn man de 'Carnaval' spielt, spielt man ihn ganz.' (When one plays the 'Carnaval,' one must play it all.) And she played the whole."

They Must Do Hardy.

An official of the department of agriculture referred at a dinner in Washington to the amateur florists who spring up in the suburbs every spring by thousands.

"More florists perhaps than flowers spring up," he said.

"In a seed shop one day I heard one of these amateurs complain about the last batch of seeds he had bought. After he had ended his complaint he began to ask foral questions."

"Oh, by the way," he said, "what is a hardy rose?"

"It is one," growled the dealer, "that doesn't mind your wife pulling it up by the roots every day to see if it has begun to grow yet!"

Respect More Essential Than Love.

The most essential thing in marriage is respect. It is above love, above compatibility, above even the priceless sense of humor. Respect will make even the "appalling intimacy" endurable and will bring one through the most trying disagreements with no bruise on the soul, whatever wounds there may be in the heart. Therefore, men and women, never, never marry any one you don't really respect, however passionately you may love.—Grand Magazine.

A Diplomat.

Banner.—What makes you think that Brown is such a diplomat? Jenner.—When he was shown his friend's baby for the first time he said it had his father's intellect and its mother's beauty.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

A Gentle Hint.

"Life at best is but a gloomy prison," said the moralizing bachelor.

"So much the worse for men who deliberately choose solitary confinement," remarked the girl who had her trap set.—Bohemian Magazine.
