Starvation in New York.

The New York newspapers are publishing columns of frightful stories of great suffering among the poor in that center of great wealth and great poverty. There are several hundred thousand men idle in New York, and since they have been out of work six months or more, and had practically nothing laid up against a rainy day, the suffering is intense, particularly among women and children.

The "hard times" are manifest in one of the cruellest forms in the public schools. It has become an every day occurrence for children to faint from hunger in several of the large schools of the East Side district. That cynical and arrogant but brilliant organ of plutocracy, the New York Sun, publishes an especially harrowing story of a mother being brought to school by the truant officer to explain the long absence of her 14-year-old daughter. The mother carried a baby in her arms. She, and the baby, and the little girl, were all of them literally starving, and the mother fainted from starvation weakness while in the principal's room. It was but one, not only of hundreds but of thousands and even tens of thousands, of similar cases.

Now they are organizing charitable societies in New York to feed the thousands of hungry school children. One great-hearted restaurant man—Max Schwartz, may his name be long remembered!—is himself feeding every day from 500 to 1,000 of these innocent and helpless victims of man's incompetence, selfishness, and carelessness.

Conditions such as these will cause many good men to lose the respect and veneration they once felt for that fossilized humbug, the protective tariff.

Men were willing to stand for tariff robbery as long as they thought it assured "steady work at living wages."

They were willing to see this robbery making a few hundred rich men enormously rich as long as they thought it assured the permanent prosperity of the entire country.

But now they see it is all a lie; a cheap and sorry swindle.

They see two million men out of work—and the highest and most oppressive tariff maintained by any civilized country is on the statute books!

They see that tariff in effect, and the party that made and guaranteed it in power, and at the same time the country is devastated by one of the most disastrous and senseless panics in its history!

The "sacred tariff" is sacred no longer. It has been exposed for the wicked cheat that it is. There is poor consolation for the starving school children in this, perhaps, but in the end there will be less hunger and poverty on account of the exposure. For the tariff is only one form of special privilege that feeds the rich at the expense of the poor. Lop off these privileges, one by one, and the poor will have more for themselves.

THE WAY TO WIN.

(From the Columbus Telegram.)

Mobs have sometimes defeated a disciplined army, but not often. Unorganized public sentiment in behalf of a public cause has sometimes been able to defeat organized and disciplined opposition to that cause, but not often. With this statement of history The Telegram asks the friends of Mr. Bryan to carefully read the following article, which appeared in a recent issue of the Omaha World-Herald:

For the most part the Omaha Bee, as the organ and mouthpiece of the republican organization of Nebraska, is right in making this statement of political conditions:

Nebraska democratic organs are entitled to all the solace they can get out of the fact that the republicans are already setting about the work of completing and improving their party organization with a view to the coming presidential campaign. Organization counts in political battles, as in military battles, and the superior organization of the republicans in Nebraska as contrasted with that of the democrats is to be credited in large part for the steadily growing republican majorities. As long as the republicans keep as far ahead of the democrats in the matter of organization as they are now there will be no question about Nebraska's position in the republican column.

It may be unpalatable, but it is the truth. Republican victories in Nebraska of late years have been due to superior republican organization. In almost every campaign the democrats have had the advantage so far as regards the issues and the merits of the contest. They won campaign after campaign—on paper. And on election day the republicans have won by virtue of their organization; an organization which the democrats had practically nothing to oppose. Democratic organization in Nebraska has been a poor and sorry affair during these years, a pretense rather than a reality, and so the party has been rather a mob than a well-led, disciplined army.

It yet remains to be seen whether there is to be a change this year. In C. M. Gruenther, of Platte county, secretary of the state committee and of the Bryan Volunteers, Nebraska democrats have an organizer of masterly ability, who has skill, courage, experience, and a genius for taking infinite pains. But he and his associates can do nothing unless they are given the support they must have by the democrats of every county and of every precinct.

To the members of the democratic state committee, to the members of the democratic county committees, to the members of the Bryan Volunteers, to loyal democrats in every city, town and road district in the state, the World-Herald commends a soulful study of the Bee's statement of the case. It is organization that wins, and it takes a miracle to win without it.

We testify to the truth of the statement of facts made by the editor of the Bee as to the value of party organization, and we commend the appeal of the World-Herald for a better democratic organization in this state. And the friends of Mr. Bryan can have that good organization which they desire if they will get behind Secretary Gruenther in his efforts to gather the party workers into an organized army for the approaching campaign. He does not appeal for money. He wants men—men with the courage of their convictions—men who are ready to give a dollar or a day's work for the cause—men who will join the state organization of Bryan Volunteers, or some local Bryan club—men who have enough heart in the cause to make some little offering of time or talents—men who will keep the officers of the state committee and the Bryan Volunteers posted every day and hour as to the best locations where work may be done and votes made for Bryan. That's what Secretary Gruenther wants, and that's what every democratic paper in the state should urge in his behalf. All his heart, and all his brain, and all his brawn he freely gives to a cause and a leader dear, and his masterly organizing powers will win Nebraska for Bryan if only the believers in Bryan and his principles will do their part. Remember, you men who love Bryan, that Secretary Gruenther needs your help in the present campaign. He wants men of good heart to enlist in his army of devotion to a righteous cause, promising no pay to any soldier, save only that rich reward which will be the portion of every man who does a good part in the battle now to be fought between lovers of liberty and simple justice on the one side, and the beneficiaries of organized greed on the other.

Are you with him? Then join your home Bryan club today. If there is no such club in your city, village or township, then organize one instantly. Throw down the bars and admit men to membership without any kind of fee or dues. Those of you who can afford a small offering for state committee expenses should pay the small fee for membership in the state organization of Bryan Volunteers, and you should do it today. Remember, you friends of Bryan, that the corporate enemy never sleeps. His hands are strong, and his purse is full. But you can smother that enemy in Nebraska if you will get behind Secretary Gruenther and push.

How can you help? There are many ways. You can help by organizing Bryan clubs in every voting district in the state. You can help by personal appeal to republicans whom you know to be friendly to the principles which Bryan champions. You can help by keeping in touch with Secretary Gruenther, answering all his letters the day they are received. You can help by aiding him in making perfect the poll of the state which he is now planning. And, finally, if you truly believe in Bryan and his cause you can help by speaking a good word for the man and the cause whenever opportunity shall offer.

LEO M. BLAERE, Rector.

U. S. Weather Bureau Report for week ending June 9-08.

Daily mean temperature 65°. Normal 65°. Highest 82°; lowest 50°. Precipitation 0.91 of an inch. Total precipitation from March 1st (the crop season) to date was 8.22 inches.

The temperature shows on average equal to the normal; but the precipitation shows an excess both for the past week and for the 20 year period. The excess is not very neat in either case and may result in fulfilling the forecast made for Iowa, that there will be 50,000,000 bushels more this year than for last year. Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota have a surplus of precipitation.

MRS. LEE DE FOREST.

Woman Engineer to Teach Army and Navy Wireless Telegraphy.

In response to directions from the government Mrs. Lee De Forest of New York city is preparing to assist her husband, Dr. De Forest, in giving demonstrations in wireless telephoning to the officers of the army and navy. The couple were recently married in New York and have been spending their honeymoon in novel fashion in the laboratories of Paris, where a few days ago they spoke from the top of Eiffel tower to all the wireless stations in France.

Still holding her position as civil engineer on the board of water supply, Mrs. De Forest, formerly Miss Nora Stanton Blatch, is equipping herself to collaborate with her inventor husband in electrical work upon their return to this country.

An active horsewoman, champion swimmer and, in fact, almost an all round athlete, Mrs. De Forest became an American citizen in order to obtain her position on the New York board of water supply. She is the daughter of Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, prominent as a suffragist.

Mrs. De Forest as a child made numerous trips to America with her parents, who preferred American educational methods to those at home.

At Hampshire she lived a most active life. Besides horseback riding her childhood sports included the novel exercise of tree climbing. Her mother, Mrs. Blatch, believes tree climbing to be one of the most healthy exercises for children.

The result of the girl's muscular development was a reputation at Cornell university as an all round athlete, able to compete with men. During her tours in camp as the only girl among the young engineers she swam Lake Seneca, which is three miles wide.

Besides swimming Lake Seneca, she also crossed Lake Cayuga when dared by her friendly rivals.

Mrs. De Forest graduated in 1905 from Cornell as a full fledged civil engineer. For a year she worked with the American Bridge company in the designing department, going into camp and participating actively in field work.

In her college days she had helped in the state survey of the watershed, and with this experience she assisted in the work of the water supply board until her recent marriage.

As a result of her engagement to Dr. De Forest, Mrs. De Forest's was the first woman's voice to be transmitted in waves of ether over wireless telephones.

Watermelon Lore.

The humorists always associate the African with the watermelon, assuming that the taste of the colored man for his favorite dainty arises from his life in the southern states, where the melon vine grows like a weed.

As a fact, however, the African taste for the watermelon is hereditary. The vine is a native of Africa, where it is found wild in the great central plains of the continent and has also been cultivated for many ages.

In Egypt the melons grown along the Nile rival those of southeastern Missouri.

The melons mentioned by the Israelites as being among the good things they had in Egypt were undoubtedly watermelons, for in the wall paintings about the time of the exodus the melon vine is represented, and in one case a long procession of slaves is depicted, each bearing on his shoulder a huge dark green watermelon.

Botanists say that varieties of the melon are found in southern Asia, and some even claim that the plant grows wild in central and south Africa, but Africa is no doubt the original home of the melon, and in his preference over every other kind of vegetable or fruit the African merely displays a taste that has become fixed in his race by thousands of years of indulgence, for in central Africa ripe watermelons are to be had every month in the year.—Washington Herald.
