Filling a Want.

"We call this the 'housekeeper's delight,'" said the salesman, exhibiting another set of china.

"What's peculiar about it?" asked the customer.

"The fact that we have forty other sets just like it, together with any number of odd pieces, and expect to keep the pattern always in stock. Any piece that's accidentally broken can be replaced at half a day's notice without saying a word to the rest of the family about it."

"I'll take it," said the customer. —Chicago Tribune.

Profitable Litigation.

On the boundary line of two farms in an Austrian village there is a large gooseberry bush, from which the two farmers have for years gathered the product. "What grows on my side is mine, and you may have the rest," was the agreement.

Three years ago the neighbors had a misunderstanding, and this came to a climax when the gooseberries became ripe. A lawsuit followed, and appeals were made to higher judicial bodies. The final decision has just been recorded in an Austrian paper.

Each party is to have the right to pick the berries which grow on his side of the line, just as it was originally, but neither may destroy the bush. The costs are charged half to each litigant. Each farmer had to pay two hundred and twenty-five kronen. The yearly yield of the bush is worth about one-half kronen, and the judge told the litigants:

"With good luck, it will take you only eight hundred years to make the bush pay. Take good care of it!"

FARMER MUST HAVE HELP.

Secretary Wilson Points Out Reason for Hard Times.

It has remained for Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson to solve the true reason for high prices and the high cost of living which has been bothering the housewife and the mechanic for several years past. He says the people, the laboring people, are themselves to blame. They fail to provide the necessary help to the American farmer. In years gone by the farmer had his allies—other men who came to his aid, hardily supporting him when the burden grew too vast. But now everywhere—in mine and railroad, in factory and forest—the teeming millions of his neighbors have robbed him of them. Today he stands alone, striving with titanic courage to endure the strain; yet seemingly doomed, in spite of his vast numbers, to sink under his toil, unless the help he needs be given.

In his statement Secretary Wilson declares:

"The productiveness of the United States along agricultural lines is not keeping pace with the growth of our population. Meats are dear because meat-bearing animals are falling behind the population in relative numbers. Labor is scarce on the farm, and labor is dear on the farm, because the factory, the forest, the mine and the railroad are taking away the farmer's workers through wages fixed at rates the farmer can not afford to pay. The population of the United States is growing both by reason of the natural increase of the families domiciled in America and by accretions through immigration from abroad. But the immigrants do not reach to the farm. The farmers who do come to us from foreign countries do not find their way to the farms of this country; and the immigration laws prevent American farmers from going to foreign countries and selecting there the prospective immigrants whose services could aid them.

At no period of our history has the American farmer needed help so much as he needs it this year. There are said to be hundreds of thousands of idle men in the United States. All of them could secure employment on the farms—employment affording food, shelter and living wages. There are consequences awaiting us. The result of all this will be the bringing about of European conditions. Many of our working people to-day can not pay the prices current for meats. If we do not desire to have this condition of affairs go to greater extremes, steps should be taken to help the farmers secure a portion of the immigration that pours in upon our shores. Whatever may be the temporary effect of high prices for foodstuffs upon the prosperity of the farmer, the deprivations of one class of our population is the misfortune of all. High prices for meats and grains are not beneficial to the farmers of the country, if the farmers can not employ the help that is requisite for the growth of grains and the production of meats. And that is the case now with the farmers in a great many States of the Union. The United States has made remarkable growth as a manufacturing nation because material is cheaper and better here than in any other country of the world. Our farmers are making the most energetic efforts to produce. They have the best machinery the world of agriculture knows. They themselves work and their families work. But the demand is greater than they can supply."

"The world has its 'granaries' and its cattle plains; but the United States is not a part of that world. Its granaries and its plains are its own; when they fail, there are no others to which to turn. This farmer giant last year was worth to the nation $50,000,000 during every day of the crop growing season. In the single year he produced material amounting in value to $7,412,000,000. It meant that he had saved the country from a disaster far more grave than the embarrassments of the fall and winter managed to produce. The balance of trade in farm products for last year was $44,000,000 in favor of this country—which meant that nearly half a billion dollars in cash was added to the riches of the nation. In all other products, the trade of 1907 produced a balance in our favor of only $2,500,000. Practically unaided last year, the farmer giant fed the United States and sent abroad products that brought home $1,355,000,000.

What might turn out to be the beginning of a revolution in Turkey is the reported mutiny of 7,000 soldiers in the Moansir District. Threats have been made by officers of the Third Army corps to kill all the generals in Macedonia if the men held for trial for fomenting the "Young Turkey" movement are not released.

Rich people with poor appetites will pay big prices for fat house lambs.

Be slow about making promises; then you won't have so many to break.

A really good ewe will raise twin lambs better than a scrub will bring up one.

A sheep is not particularly bright mentally, but will respond to kind treatment.

When feeding ground cats to young pigs it is better to solve the cats and throw out the hulls.

You can make lambs fat without corn. Feed them barley, alfalfa, turnips and field peas.

Watch for ticks on the lambs and at the first sign of the pests dip. Ticky lambs cannot thrive.

It's all right to "put your shoulder to the wheel," but be sure the wheel is steered in the right direction.

Sheep will eat weeds if very hungry, but they don't like them any better than a man likes poor, sour bread.

Putting the best foot forward means putting up a bluff. The only successful men are those who get there with both feet.

It takes courage to adopt new methods of farming in an old fogy neighborhood, but success will soon change public sentiment.

The man who has no bad habits, never makes mistakes and never fails to say so is too good for the company of ordinary mortals and should be let alone.

The main object in the first few months of a pig's life is to produce bone, muscle and growth—sort of get him in shape to carry a big load of corn to market.

A trap nest will pick out the poor and the good layers, giving a chance to dispose of the drones and thus keep the workers. Have you ever stopped to consider the matter?

Some men who boast that they go to work before daylight sometimes spend so much time at the grocery store and the old fishing hole that they lose more than they gain by the early bird methods.

Gather up the leaves that shatter off the clover hay when it is thrown down from the mow. Scald them well, then mix with ground oats and bran; make it wet, not sloppy. Give this to hens for breakfast cold mornings.

Get your incubator early next spring and try only a few eggs at first. So many beginners at artificial incubation waste hundreds of eggs and valuable time in the midst of the hatching season getting acquainted with the principles that should have been observed when there was less at stake.

Wounds on Trees.

The following mixture is recommended for wounds of any kind on trees: melt resin and warm a little crude petroleum in separate vessels, pouring into a third vessel three parts of resin to one of petroleum. This seals the wound very effectively until grown over. It is said to not rot in warm weather, nor crack in cold, and cuts covered with it will not fail to heal.

A Government Garden.

Old Fort Brown is now an orchard and garden, in which citrus and other fruits and a variety of semitropical plants are growing, besides the truck that is specially adapted to that soil and climate. When the excursionists of the San Antonio Business Men's Club were in Brownsville a few days ago they were treated to some of the fine melons grown in the government enclosure, and were gratified by the exhibition of the great variety of plants and vegetables illustrative of the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of the lower Rio Grande Valley. There need be no fear of overproduction where there is judicious marketing. The markets of the North and East will readily absorb all the early fruits and vegetables of southwest Texas, which, by reason of their earlier appearance in the market, are without competition from the outside. —San Antonio Express.

The Hen and Her Nest.

Many claim that the nest should be on the ground, but all claims that hens should have their nests on the moist ground are unsupported by facts. What is required for the hen in winter is a snug, warm location, while in summer she should have a cool place, says the Washington Farmer.

The best material for a nest is dry earth on the bottom, with chopped hay over the earth. Then dust the nest, hen and eggs with a good insect powder, and put a small quantity of tobacco refuse in the nest.

Should an egg be broken, or the nest become foul, clean it thoroughly. The broken egg will cause lice quicker than anything else. But first see that the hen has no lice, then give her good eggs, and she will bring off a brood if she has a warm and comfortable nest.

The nest should be made movable, so that it can be taken outside for cleaning, and should never be placed where any of the fowls can roost upon it, or cause it to become filthy. It should never be so high as to compel effort to reach it. The large breeds will prefer to lay on the ground rather than attempt to reach a high nest, even when a footway is provided. Some hens learn to fly over a fence by first learning to reach a high nest.

Never have the nest so constructed that the hen must jump down into it, as broken eggs will be the consequence. Rather place the entrance so as to permit her to walk in upon the eggs.

SHE COULD NOT WALK

For Months—Burning Humor on Ankles—Ointment Alone Brought Sleep—Eczema Yielded to Cuticura.

"I had eczema for over two years. I had two physicians, but they only gave me relief for a short time and I cannot enumerate the ointments and lotions I used to no purpose. My ankles were one mass of sores. The itching and burning were so intense that I could not sleep. I could not walk for nearly four months. One day my husband said I had better try the Cuticura Remedies. After using them three months I had the best night's rest in months unless I took an opiate. I used one set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, and my ankles healed in a short time. It is now a year since I used Cuticura, and there has been no return of the eczema. Mrs. David Brown, Locke, Ark., May 18 and July 13, 1907."

A Look Ahead.

Queen Alexandra, of gracious presence herself, attended last spring's annual Mansion House fête in London, and because of that auspicious fact there is a tale to tell, says a writer in Harper's Weekly, and worth the while. One of the diminutive flower maidens was both pretty and plump, and when her majesty stopped for an instant to smile down upon her, what did she do but put up her wee mouth for a kiss, which she received.

"Molly" gasped her astounded mother, after the distinguished visitor had passed on. "How could you?"

Molly gave good reason. "I fought," said she, "it 'ud be interestin' to tell my grandchildren."

FIVE MONTHS IN HOSPITAL.

Discharged Because Doctors Could Not Cure.

Levi P. Brockway, S. Second Ave., Anoka, Minn., says: "After lying for five months in a hospital I was discharged as incurable, and given only six months to live. My heart was affected, I had smothering spells and sometimes fell unconscious. I got so I couldn't use my arms, my eyesight was impaired and the kidney secretions were badly disordered. I was completely worn out and discouraged when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, but they went right to the cause of the trouble and did their work well. I have been feeling well ever since. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y."

No Cause for Alarm.

"Look, officer!" shouted the excited citizen. "That big department store is afire!"

"What makes you think so?" asked the officer, calmly.

"Why, don't you see all those woman shoppers coming down the fire escapes?"

"Oh, yes; but that is not the sign of fire. You see, they can't get through the revolving doors with those big hats."

Has a Better Thing.

"I used to know that man when he was a struggling lawyer. What business does he follow now?"

"Skimming cream."

"Skimming cream? Is he in the dairy business?"

"Dairy nothing! He's receiver for a bankrupt trust company."

Only Then.

"Little boy, do you ever swear?"

"No, ma'am, 'ceptin' when it's necessary and I gotta do it."

"When is it necessary to swear?"

"Wen de empire calls ye out on two strikes an' a ball."

THE COME AND SEE SIGN

PUBLIC INSPECTION INVITED

FROM 8 A.M. TO 4 P.M.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

This sign is permanently attached to the front of the main building of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

What Does This Sign Mean?

It means that public inspection of the Laboratory and methods of doing business is honestly desired. It means that there is nothing about the business which is not "open and above-board."

It means that a permanent invitation is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Is it a purely vegetable compound made from roots and herbs—without drugs?

Come and See.

Do the women of America continually use as much of it as we are told?

Come and See.

Was there ever such a person as Lydia E. Pinkham, and is there any Mrs. Pinkham now to whom sick women are asked to write?

Come and See.

Is the vast private correspondence with sick women conducted by women only, and are the letters kept strictly confidential?

Come and See.

Have they really got letters from over one million, one hundred thousand women correspondents?

Come and See.

Have they proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands of these women?

Come and See.

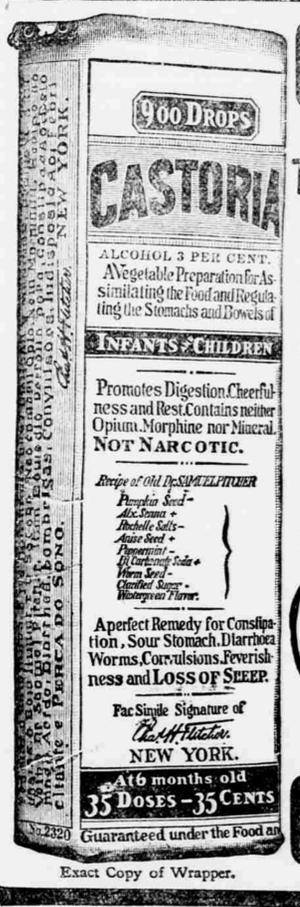

This advertisement is only for doubters. The great army of women who know from their own personal experience that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female ills will still go on using and being benefited by it; but the poor doubting, suffering woman must, for her own sake, be taught confidence for her health, just as well as for her health.
