ATTACK ON CHICAGO PRIEST IS UNSUCCESSFUL.

After Telling Priest in Prominent Church He Was There for Prayer, Stranger Presses Revolver Against Intended Victim and Fires.

An attempt to assassinate Rev. J. K Fielding, pastor of the Corpus Christi Catholic church of Chicago, was mad-Sunday afternoon. After twice shooting at the priest in the Sunday school hallway of the church the would-be assassin, knocking down scores of children standing in his way, ran into the street and escaped. The shooting and the screams of the children created wild excitement in one of Chicago's fashionable residence districts.

It was in the middle of the afternoon that the culprit had been seen loitering about the church and was observed writing upon a sheet of paper. He placed the paper in his pock et.

The police believe the writing was an explanation of his intended act and his identity, which was to be found upon his body in the event of his committing suicide after killing the priest.

Aroused by the man's actions Father Fielding approached him, saying "What are you doing here?"

"I'm praying." replied the stranger

As the priest turned his back the stranger stepped into the hallway an drew a revolver and pressed it agains his intended victim. Father, Fielding knocked the weapon away just in time to escape a bullet which grazed his head and clipped a lock of hair from his temple.

At the same time the priest knocked the culprit down by a blow in the Charles Mitchell, colored, of Lithohia, Ga., Sunday shot and killed T. L. Peck, a bailiff, and C. F. Argo, a young white man, and after badly beating C. S. Elliott, deputy sheriff, over the head with his pistol, made his escape. The officers, it is said, had a warrant charging the negro with an attempt to murder G. W. Brooks, a white man, on Saturday, and went to his home near Lithonia to arrest him. When the negro saw the officers accompanied by Argo approaching, it is said, he opened fire on them. The officers returned the fire and attempted to rush on the negro. Peek and Argo were killed almost at the door of the house. The negro then attacked Elliott and dealt him several hard blows on the head with his pistol, knocking him down, and then escaped. Several posses went in pursuit of Mitchell. Elliott is seriously hurt, but it is thought he will recover.
