It's getting along about the time of year when tobacco is being stored away in the barns of good old Missouri in Jackson county and we long for just a pipeful or two of that Yellow Burley smoking tobacco that used to have such a fine flavor in the fall of the year. How we used to enjoy the smoke from those Missouri meerschaum pipes with a hickory stem. The days of long ago when life didn't seem to be one grand helter-skelter rush from morning till night and from week to week.

Geo. Tellier and Zan Gillaspie were in town yesterday from the Arkansas Valley and we were as glad to see them as we used to be years ago when our kinfolks came to see us. They remind us of those good old Missourians who used to bring out a load of apples through Kansas in the early days when people thought Kansas soil wouldn't raise apples. Well, these gentlemen didn't bring the apples but their smiles and language were just as cheerful and whole-souled as those Missourians used to look to us, and their homes we venture are just as cheerful as they are.

We forgot to mention the runaway of Tom Green's team on Saturday evening Oct. 31st caused by getting scared at some hollo e'en prowlers. The buggy was smashed up and both Tom and his little boy were thrown out violently and hurt. Is it not time to put a stop to these depredation which turn our town up side down every year?
It encourages lawlessness and people who win at these times are most generally those who do not suffer the depredations and by their encouragement of lawlessness exempt them from the attacks of the marauders. The better element will not destroy his property and the lawless element feel a chord of sympathy extending to and connecting friendly interests.
If our city cannot enforce law and order upon that fateful night it may be held for damages for their neglect to protect property from the lawless acts, often small or-rifting but some times amount to great inconvenience which may enter into a claim for damages. If our city refuses or fails to stop these marauders and resists claims for damages there remains but one other way for protection and that method will be resorted to if these depredations are continued. Somebody's boy will spend a night in jail and possibly several of them or pay a fine and costs of prosecution. Is it your boy, father or mother? who is being permitted to enjoy these wild, reckless sports that are dangerous to his liberty and good name?
If so, it is your duty to counsel with him. Young man, the responsibility does not all lay with your father or mother. You will pay the penalty for your actions and bring sorrow and disgrace upon parents who tried to guide you right.

THE PALACE SALOON, JOHN G. STETTER, Propr.

Donoher-Compton.

On Monday morning at 10 o'clock, Miss Wren Donoher and Dr. A. N. Compton were married at the bride's beautiful home by the Rev. Father Dignan of St.
Francis Mission. The wedding was quiet, being performed in the presence of but a few intimate friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Compton left Wednesday morning on an extended honeymoon in the South, including a visit at the Doctor's old home in Texas.

The bride has been the pride of the town, having been raised here and showing herself always perfect in every respect. In business she was successful and won many friends. As a friend no better can be found. Perhaps no lady is better known or more respected in the entire Northwest.

The Doctor is one of the town's most influential citizens, coming here practically alone, and by his industry and skill has built up a practice and a reputation second to none.

Altogether, no marriage was ever consummated where the parties were better known or respected.

THE DEMOCRAT extends, with the entire community, the heartiest congratulations.

Egbert Bonnen is in town.

Frank Brayton and family, Wm.
Kiwacand and wife and I. M. Rice and family spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Maud Van Orsdale on the Minnehadanza. Her sister Miss Mary and Miss Anderson were also guests.

The evenings are getting longer now and when the work is over for the day the families gather around their firesides and read about the trusts, railroads and Standard Oil; how they have taken the place of the old time manufactories that did an honest business, paid living wages and sold us their products for less money than they cost us today, considering the difference in cost of production by improved machinery and all the later inventions. There is more of contrast in the wealth of people now than forty years ago.
There's a greater contrast in the homes now than there was then.
The wealthy class have grown more wealthy and aristocratic and there are more poor people who are poorer than those of forty years ago. A summer's work then kept a family comfortably through the winter, though there were many days during the summer that were not spent in constant toil. The income is soon lived up now and when the father is idle for a week or two the family gets down to their last money and their credit depends not so much upon their honesty but their ability to pay.

Catholic church as follows: In The prospects for a very thorough revision downward of the tariff law are not very flattering in face of the fact that there have been deficits in the nation's receipts nearly every month during the past year. A bond issue even now is suggested to overcome the excess of expenditures over the receipts, and the much talked of income tax is again being agitated as a last resort by the embarrassed republican administration. A good inheritance tax would help some, too.—Papillion Times.
