Talk of the Town.

A. W. and Walter Grooms enjoyed themselves in town Monday evening.

It is reported that a son was born to Herbert Breuklander and wife at Kilgore Sunday.

Mrs. John Grange and three children have moved to town to send the children to school.

Harve Newland's wind mill near Sparks was blown down and a part of his house roof was torn off.

F. C. Metzger and wife, who have been visiting at P. H. Young's returned to Valentine Tuesday and to Merriman from here.

O. F. Swanson of Stratford, Ia., came out Monday and Wm. Erickson was to meet him here and take him out to the ranch.

George Heath, Jess Mitchell, Jim and Harry McCormick and Jim Hutchison of Norden were in town Monday with wheat.

Robert McNamee was in town yesterday. He says Woodlake suffered some from the storm of last Thursday and that many wind mills are down.

C. W. Cramer and wife are living in town now in his son's house south of where Mack lives. They moved in from the farm before the holidays and expect to go back onto the farm in the spring.

Richard Osburn, Walter Johnson, Frank Kaplan, Polen brothers, Chas. Myers, Harve Newland, Horace Todd and Dick Stillwell, all of near Sparks, were in town Monday staying over night.

Roy Brown, formerly a Valentine boy was in town yesterday and subscribed for THE DEMOCRAT. He is now working on the O'Conner ranch. Roy used to turn the big press for us years ago.

T. W. Cramer, the auctioneer, has bought the Hubbard residence and moved to town. It was the place where C. O. Carpenter lived and this necessitated Mr. Carpenter's hunting another house so he has now purchased Mrs. Carey's property on Chatherine street west of Jack Keeley's.

Lee Shepard received a telegram yesterday to come at once and started that evening to see his brother Will, who, it is reported, is not expected to live. He was shot in the hip at Crawford about six weeks ago by a man in charge of a sportin' house who attacked Will in a saloon and following him out shot him.

John Haeber has had all kinds of accidents and misfortunes which have at times been as thrilling as a novel when clothed in proper language. John was returning from Simeon with the mail last Thursday and when the wind was at its worst he reached the level prairie near Lawrence Christensen's. The wind blew very strong there on an open prairie and a sudden gust overturned the mail wagon and another gust then upset it and as the wind continued to blow the wagon was blown over again and this time was right side up but the horses had broken the tongue in the twisting and away they sped with the wind and were finally blown up against a fence near John Bush's where Mr. Haeber found them after going to Lawrence Christensen's for a saddle horse. John was hurt and bruised and skinned but was able to get into town and tell the tale. Lines Gheens, the driver on the Kennedy line, also upset his wagon twice but managed to hold onto his team and kept agoing. He was in town Tuesday driving on this end of the route while John rests up.

Lincoln's Birthday.

We believe that the program which is being prepared for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Lincoln's birthday is worthy the attention of every citizen living in and around Valentine. Church's opera house has been secured for the occasion from two to four p. m., Friday, Feb. 12. No admission will be charged and everyone is invited to be present. Mrs. Elmer Bristol has charge of the music.

Ten-minute speeches will be made on some phase of this great man's life by each of the following persons: Messrs. A. M. Morrissey, L. C. Sparks, F. M. Walcott, John Mohlman, Cloyd Quigley, Rev. Baker, and Mrs. C. H. Cornell. Short recitations or readings will be given by each of the seniors of the high school.

The committee on decorations are preparing to have the hall neatly decorated for the occasion.

There is nothing better for a people than a little hero worship occasionally. We tend to become like that which we admire. The character of Lincoln is one to be admired.

It is believed that every business house in town will be closed for this meeting.

Born to J. T. Galloway and wife Tuesday night a girl.

Sam Bordeaux and family and Fate Grady returned from Omaha Monday where they spent a week. Mr. Bordeaux consulted specialist in the interest of his boy.

Last week Ralph Myers met with a serious accident. He had been over to a neighbor's helping husk corn and was returning home horseback riding a spirited horse and going a good gait when the horse's front feet went into a hole and he fell, breaking one leg in two places. The boy was thrown violently to the ground and severely bruised. The horse had to be shot. Ralph is a son of Charles Myers living several miles north-east of Sparks.
