Work of Gongress

The Senate was not in session Saturday. With no more than a corporal's guard on hand at any time during the day, the debate on the Payne tariff bill in the House proceeded drearily on. The discussion took in practically all of its provisions, free hides and wood pulp occupying a conspicuous place, although there were several general assaults on the measure from the Democratic side. Again two Democrats from the far South stood diametrically oposed to each other on the same schedule, Mr. Sparkman (Fla), urging the Dingley rates on lumber, while Mr. Humphreys (Miss.) advocated placing it on the free list. The Republicans who spoke were practically unanimous for free hides. The taxes on the necessaries of life came in for their usual share of criticism from both ides of the chamber.

- :--- :-

Many bills and resolutions were introduced in the Senate Monday, but there was no debate. After a short executive session the Senate adjourned until Thursday. Three o'clock p. m. April 9 was the time set by the House for a vote on the Payne tariff bill. The resolution from the Committee on Rules closing general debate, providing for certain committee amendments and a full and free opportunity to alter the lumber and hides schedules, was reported late in the day and adopted with sixteen votes to spare, notwithstanding the desertion of twenty Republicans. Four of the sixteen votes came from the members of the Louisiana delegation, who likewise broke away from their party. Previous to the adoption of the resolution there to the steamer Admiral in a launch and was some severe criticism of it from the Democratic side. well trained in the use of wire fences for telephone purposes. In the military maneuvers that take place in the ranch region the Signal Corps plays an important part in directing the movement of the troops by improvised telephones.

In some localities where the country is rough or heavily wooded it is impossible to convey the signals from one point to another by the usual methods of flags or other visual signals. It is then the telephone is brought into play.

Each detachment of Signal Corps men is equipped with a field telephone attachment. It requires the work of but a minute or two to connect this attachment with a fence wire and to get into direct communication with headquarters.

The use of the fence wire for telephone communication obviates the necessity of constructing temporary field telephone lines by the Signal Corps. It sometimes happens that a little difficulty is encountered in using the wires on account of some poor connection or break, but it usually does not take long to discover and remove the cause of the trouble.

On some of the big ranches straight lines of wire fence fifty to seventy-five miles long are frequently found. These afford excellent opportunity for milltary field service.

As a matter of necessity all ranch fences must be kept in good repair. To do this fence riders are constantly employed.

King Gives Warm Greeting.

The King met the party at the head of the gangway, and he greeted the ex-President effusively, shaking him warmly by the hand. He did not wish. he said, to allow the opportunity to pass of making the personal acquaintance of so distinguished a man. Above all, he wanted personally to thank the ex-President for the help extended by America at the time of the earthquake.

"You are now able," he added, "to understand better what a terrible disaster it was."

Mr. Roosevelt replied, thanking the sovereign for the compliment paid him in inviting him to come aboard the Re Umberto. He said that the American people did not wish thanks for what they had done, as they merely had tried to do their duty, and knew bordering on vituperation marked fae no better way to confront the immense need than by their work and tariff bill in the House of Representacontributions.
