Normal Notes.

All the teachers and faculty are glad to see Judge Walcott home from his eastern trip.

Already some of the normalites have scaled the heights of Frederick's Peak and enjoyed the grand view to be had from that point. It is well worth the effort.

Some of the teachers in the normal are interested in the medal contests being held in Valentine and neighboring towns. It will be well to encourage pupils in rural schools to do declamatory work and these teachers are better fitted to help them because of their own training.

W. K. Fowler, representing the University Publishing Co., and Mr. Williams of the Silver Burdette Co., have both given our teachers very helpful chapel talks recently.

Everyone in the normal seems busy and happy. The instructors are all capable and obliging. We shall gladly welcome those who wish to enter classes in any of the common branches, or geology, zoology, chemistry, botany and trigonometry. Field excursions by various classes, walks by the lake and stream, horseback rides and trips to the railroad works are some of the diversions. Come on all you prospective teachers and get some of the inspiration. Good boarding places still to be had.

Former Superintendent W. K. Fowler spent Monday with the normal and gave one of his characteristic chapel talks. All were glad to see and hear him. Superintendent Hudson planned a park party for him in the evening, and, assisted by Mrs. Sparks, Judge and Mrs. Walcott, Mr. Hudson and the normal instructors, quickly gathered the essentials for a feast and wended their way to the Minnechadza. There the ladies spread the collation while the general Judge generously juggled the coffee pot and soon had a brew that would tempt the appetite of any person. Laughter, jokes and stories filled the evening and all returned with light hearts.

Superintendent Gregory seems to be good at giving instructions in fishing. Two of the teachers, Misses Renick and Gregory, under his guidance landed two fish and a turtle in a short time.

The enrollment is now ninety-three, seventy-eight of these being from Cherry county. Betty Norman of Whitney, Naomi Lockman of White Clay, Bertha Johnson of Gordon and Effie Echtenaw of Wood Lake are the latest.

Several of the instructors have been asked to act as judges in medal contests in neighboring towns. It is difficult to leave the work here and so it is not possible to comply with all the requests, though it would be a pleasure to do so.

One of the very marked features of the Valentine Junior Normal is the evident interest that those in attendance take, not only in their studies but in every feature of the work that tends to broaden and uplift the mental, moral or physical nature. As one comes to know the teachers in Cherry County, and seeks to discover the cause of this excellent condition of attitude toward the best things in life there is a marked unanimity in referring to the splendid influence, encouragement and helpfulness that has gone out from the personality, leadership and high ideals of the county superintendent, Mrs. Kortz Hudson. Few counties can boast of so capable a leader in their educational department, no county has a better. It is a credit to Cherry county voters and politicians that they have for many years, kept one in this position who not only was fitted for the place but knew how to fill it.

Whoever may succeed her will find a well organized loyal legion of teachers whose ideals have been well shaped by a master mind.

Frances Harden keeps her interest in the normal even though she cannot attend regularly. She is caring for the wants of the household during her mother's absence.

Miss Driscoll gave a pleasing and helpful exercise during the chapel hour last Friday. Some of her model school pupils very nicely gave accounts of some of the noted artists, referring to their works which were hung in view of the teachers.

George Hornby, jr., gave an entertaining exhibition of his artistic taste by furnishing some excellent silhouettes of the instructors and others at the reception Friday night. They were so good that they were easily recognized by the audience.

All the Normalites greatly enjoyed the reception tendered them Friday evening by the E. L. and C. E. Societies. The lower hall of the school building had been tastefully decorated and many gay lanterns dangled from the swaying branches of the trees in the grove. The guests and friends of the town were soon busy getting acquainted with each other by means of a special plan, and enjoying the delicious punch furnished in unstinted quantities by the young ladies of the two societies. A short program consisting of addresses of welcome by Mr. Swanson and Miss Graham, response by Supt. Gregory, songs by the Normal Octet, reading by Miss Dr. Wood, remarks by Rev. Baker and the picture gallery of famous people by Geo. E. Hornby delighted the merry throng. Earlier in the evening the tooth-pick conversational project proved a particularly pleasing pastime. At a seasonable hour the happy young people left the scene of pleasure with hearts filled with gratitude to their kind entertainers.
