Normal Notes.

Carrie Wilson was a welcome visitor one day recently.

The pleasant cool weather of last week was very welcome to the normalites.

Still the plants and flowers are being watched and analyzed by the botany class. Many new specimens are found.

A recitation "The Inventor's wife" by Mae Wade was well rendered and well received during chapel hour last week.

Effie Carlson writes that she is enjoying Bradford, Pennsylvania for a short time, then will go on to New York and Boston.

There are now ninety-six enrolled in the normal. Pearl McBride and Joanna Rose, both of Rushville, being the latest.

Mr. Young, the Y. M. C. A. field worker attended chapel Monday and gave a very appropriate talk along the lines of true manhood and womanhood.

Not only the entire normal enjoyed the Parland-Newhall entertainment, but a goodly number of town people who appreciate first class work were present.

Frances Grewe sends greetings and a beautiful panoramic view of Denver to the normalites. She, with her sister Dora, are attending the National Educational association in Denver on their way to the Seattle exposition.

Edith Adamson gave a very helpful Chapel talk on the soils and various regions of Nebraska, indicating the crops most successful on each soil. She illustrated her remarks by a neat map of the state, showing the different geological formations.

Everybody reads normal notes so we take the opportunity of catching the eye of some school officers. Annual reports are all due and must be filed with the county superintendent soon or the district may lose the state apportionment of school money.

The chapel talks, recitations, etc., by pupils and instructors of the normal are proving interesting to the listeners and helpful to the speakers at least. It is one of the practical ways of getting command of good English. Supt. Gregory's description of a trip to Wonderful Crater Lake was both interesting and instructive.

Teachers who have visited the weather service department have been greatly interested in the appliances and apparatus seen there. Mr. McLean kindly gives full and clear explanation concerning the workings of the intricate mechanism. All the teachers will have an opportunity of visiting there in charge of one of the normal instructors.

The generous invitations of the McLeod brothers, managers of the Northwestern Real Estate Co., C. H. Cornell and T. C. Hornby extended to the normalites to take an auto ride to Ft. Niobrara, was accepted and enjoyed last Saturday afternoon. Six finely decorated cars were in line at three o'clock and soon filled with delighted normalites, to most of whom an auto ride was a new experience. It was necessary to make two trips in order to transport the crowd. Judge Walcott, as chaperone, took charge of the
