The Interurban Line.

W. K. Palmer, the engineer of Kansas City, who has had in charge the survey of the water power and proposed interurban railway line for C. H. Cornell, returned here Wednesday evening with the two crews who have been doing the field work, the same having been completed, where the crews were dismissed. In working back corrections were made and in some instances new locations were adopted which improves the line in many respects, until now Mr. Palmer thinks he has determined on a very favorable route.

The survey is made to Fairfax, via Burton, one line being surveyed through Springview and another leaving it to the south of the line about four miles. It will be necessary to compare costs of the two routes and make comparisons, which will take some time in the office, before it can be determined whether or not the route through Springview will be adopted.

The field work having been completed, it will take some thirty days in the office to complete the survey and estimate cost of construction, after which Mr. Palmer will be obliged to collect data as to the resources of the country, the probable revenue to both the water power and the railway line, which will take a month at least, and it will likely be the early part of October before Mr. Cornell will be properly fortified to go before the parties having the capital for the purpose of negotiating the securities.

However, Mr. Palmer found more than he had anticipated in the quantity and flow of water for the power, with most favorable conditions for developing. Also, along the line of the proposed railway the country is much farther advanced in material resources than he had anticipated finding. He, therefore, thinks that capital will readily be found for financing the two enterprises.

Milt Latta came to town yesterday from Hackberry Lake and says he has sold his little well machine to parties from Hastings and Kearney for $7100 for the U. S. and Canada territory. He is going to work on his pet project now of building his engine for his railless railroad scheme and says it will haul loads to town from Hackberry Lake in two hours. This machine is supposed to make its own track forming a cement as it goes but it won't need a dining car attachment because you can eat black bass for breakfast at Hackberry Lake, come in to town, get a few glasses of beer and get back for a black bass dinner at the Lake. When Milt gets his machine to working there will be a new colonization of the west and land will be worth $59 an acre more than now.

Hot Weather Poetry.

There are days somewhere hotter than these,
And in papers we see and we read,
But they do not affect much our ease,
Like the ones frying out our sweat bead.

Chorus.

In the cool shady lawns,
By and by, By and by,
We'll find rest near the close of the day;
In the sweet, never near,
By and by, By and by,
We have planned to retire old and gray.

Now we mop off the sweat from our brow,
That we once thought a grand noble head;
We built air castles, up until now,
When it seems that in sweat we eat bread.

But the sweet summer nights of the west
Are refreshing and cool in the breeze;
You can sleep in July and find rest.
Without cover you think you will freeze.

Alternating is heat and the cold,
Coming swifter each year, this we know;
And we scarce get thawed out if we're old,
When along comes a blizzard of snow.

But these days of July for Ike Rice,
Came too soon for us now to retire,
And if Clarkson will furnish the ice,
We will try to withstand all this fire.

Prosperity Valley.

Jim Beamer begins his new barn this week.

Martin Hansen has his winter wheat cut and shocked.

J. B. Sones passed through the Valley for Gordon Saturday P. M.

Hot winds the past few days and rain is needed badly in these parts now.

Jim Webster and Cliff Cody are hauling lumber and grain getting ready for haying.

Wm Beamer has his new barn almost completed, which adds a nice appearance to Prosperity Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beamer took in the sights of Gordon Monday, and brought home lumber for a new house.

Mr. Sid Barclay and sister Mrs. Pineo passed through the Valley Saturday going to Mrs. Wm. Barclay's ranch in the South Hills.

Grant Warren went to Gordon Sunday to close a deed with J. B. Sone for his ranch, he having purchased from Mr. Sones his entire ranch and stock. We have not learned the consideration.
