Prof. Bettenga performed some interesting experiments in electricity in the eighth grade room Tuesday.

It is planned to give an open program May 14, in which the whole school takes part. Watch these columns for program later.

The senior girls of the class in Theory and Practice visited the primary room Monday for an observation lesson in practical school work.

The first and second primary grades are having a ten minute recess twice a day. They do better work when they can get out doors for a little romp.

The Gordon-Valentine debate occurs as scheduled on Saturday eve, April 23, at the opera house. This promises to be a very entertaining evening program. The teams have worked earnestly on their argument and no doubt will present their respective sides with great credit to themselves and the schools they represent. Let us have a crowded house and do all in our power to encourage the speakers of both teams. Reserve seats on sale at Chapman's, Friday morning, 25c.

The high school orchestra and glee club will supply music for the Gordon-Valentine debate April 23.

The sixth grade are interested in the history of money. Some have written very good papers on this subject. Last week they wrote papers on Alaska and all did well.

In response to a petition the school board has allowed the athletes in the school to have their field day Friday afternoon, April 29. Contests will be held on the ball grounds. Admission free.

Rev. L. E. Phifer wishes to correct the impression of a Sparks correspondent to the muck-raker by saying, that his step-son has always a home with him when he is not working elsewhere, and that the boy was supposed to be staying with Mrs. Mary J. Grooms and was not without a home.

Mrs. Susan J. Berry died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Charles Hudson, near Sparks, April 19, 1910, after a short illness occasioned probably by old age and the recent death of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Parry. Four daughters and two sons survive her. Mrs. Berry was past 76 years old.

"The governor of Colorado in his lecture on Saturday evening at the College of Physicians spoke very highly of Dr. Barton O. Aylesworth as the most eloquent speaker in Colorado and a man who is held in high esteem in his own state."—Philadelphia Press.
Mr. Aylesworth will be in Valentine May 7. Admission free.

The preliminary hearing of T. J. Brown before Judge Qigley Monday brought a large number of Woodlake people to town. After a brief defense the attorney for the defense waived further hearing and the defendant was held to the district court which convenes May 16. Tom Byron, J. A. Wilson, M. J. Hyde, Jesse West, Oswald Uehling and sons, John and Joe, were witnesses called in the case.
