Hot Sun-Dusty Roads

By the time you reach town and light you'll be hot and tired and your throat dry with dust and dirt. Hunt up a soda fountain and treat yourself to a glass or a bottle of Coca-Cola.

Just as cooling as the bottom step in the spring house. You'll find it relieves fatigue too, and washes away all the dust and dirt that's settling on your face. It touches the spot.

Delicious - Refreshing - Wholesome
So Everywhere
Our Free Booklet
"The Truth About Coca-Cola" tells all about Coca-Cola—what it is and why it is so delicious, wholesome and beneficial. It gives analyses made by scientists and chemists from coast to coast, proving its purity and wholesomeness. Your name and address on a postal will bring you this interesting booklet.

HEARD IN A GROCERY STORY.

"I just had a fall on your sidewalk." "I am very sorry, my dear sir." "Well, I wish you would sell your sugar straight and put your sand on the sidewalk."

Better Than a Drug.
"The late Senator Platt," said an Albany legislator, "had a cynical wit. Talking about a politician who had changed his party, he once said to me:

"Circumstances alter everything—political views, religion, even health." "Why, I've got a friend who is afflicted with insomnia in its worst form, and yet every morning that man sleeps as sweet and sound as a new-born babe when his wife crawls over him to start the fire."

Rockefeller's Hard Shot.
John D. Rockefeller tried a game of golf on the links near Augusta. On a rather difficult shot Mr. Rockefeller struck too low with his iron, and as the dust flew up he asked his caddy: "What have I hit?" The boy laughed and answered: "Jaw-jah, boss."

Lots of us never put off till tomorrow what we can have done for us today.

USES FOR RIBBONS WEAR SHIRT WAIST RIGHT

HERE FASHION HAS DRAWN THE LINE TIGHTLY.

Each Season Demands Changes, the Majority of Which Are Easily Accomplished—Color Scheme Always to Be Remembered.

It might seem at first thought that the correct use of ribbon is one of the easiest things in life, but each season ushers in its own special use of the different widths, if not of particular kinds and qualities, all of which block the way to success through past experience.

To say that the sash is to be worn is not to mean necessarily the 12-inch ribbon that meant "sash" a few years ago; and to proclaim the hat with the ribbon bow is not to tie any sort of a little bow and believe one's self walking the rope of fashion.

Fashion draws her rope tightly, and makes little allowance for deviations from its difficult way.

The ribbon as a sash is admitted when in its softest form it hangs in two long slim ends, very much as if it were bias liberty. To accomplish this effect the ends are tied sometimes into knots, with end, and again into actual bows, which weight them into a graceful fall.

Ribbon may also be folded successfully into the sash for the waist girdle, when, for this use, also, it is of a liberty quality.

The hat bow of the season demands breadth of ribbon and crispness of quality.

Ribbon has been used successfully as a tunic edge for the marquisette and chiffon drapery of the figured foulard gown, and it is the color touch on many a pretty garden party frock.

Here, if anywhere, is ribbon at its best. The buttonholed slot provides successful openings for the slipping in and out of folded wide ribbons and of two-inch ribbon velvets. These are used in gayest colors on the handsome white or ecru frock and on the bow-sprigged or embroidered mull and the dotted swiss. Black or lavender ribbons slipped into the natural eyelet spaces in black and white embroidered robes are an unusual treatment of the summer frock for those who wear light mourning.

Always successful as summer neckties are the medium widths of soft ribbon, whether tied in a bow or knotted into a four-in-hand.

Color enters largely into the successful use of ribbon, and not alone are the brightest tones called into requisition in the refurbishing of hat and gown. The French are fond of a certain deep prune ribbon on black hats, and the combination is not far from ravishing so unusual is it. Black ribbon on the dark blue hat or on the gray hat is as successful as certain combinations of black moire ribbon with burnt straw and with ecru raffia fabric.

Changeable ribbons, last of all, because they are the newest and also for reasons of convenience. Straws are not easy to match and neither are materials, and the two-toned ribbon is frequently the only possible hat trimming that will shade harmoniously into both.

ATTRACTIVE REST SLIPPERS

The Mule Shape in Persian or Paisley Patterned Silk is Most Admired.

Attractive looking "rest" slippers for the girl whose feet trouble her are of mule shape in Persian or Paisley patterned soft but firmly woven silk.

For feet that are very sore or greatly swollen the most comfortable slippers are the low cut strap affairs, resembling sandals, made of fine kid and equipped with thin, flexible soles.

There are also heelless slippers of satin which will fold up and may be carried in a shopping bag of ordinary dimensions, and less expensive replicas of the same model can be made of suede, which affords rather more support to the feet.

If a girl wishes to have rest slippers to match her various negligees she may have them made of the same materials, and if she cares for still more elaborate footwear of a similar type she may embroider pongee, braid fine flexible kid or hand paint satin tops, the pattern for which may be procured from the cobbler who is to attach them to soles.

Linen Pincushion.

Round pincushions are just now considered very smart. They are made of embroidered or lace-trimmed doilies and are not in the least difficult unless one is sufficiently ambitious to do one's own embroidery.

A small circular cushion that is not very thick through is used and the doily is placed flat over this. It should be much larger than the cushion, so that the edge extends beyond the cushion all around. The doily is double, the under side being plain; this under side is open in the middle and fastened together with buttons and buttonholes. The cushion can thus be slipped in and out readily when the cover is to be laundered.

It Should Suit Your Style, Be Put on Properly and Pinned Where It Belongs.

"If you're going to wear a shirt waist, wear it right!" was the emphatic remark of one girl to another, as she surveyed disapprovingly the blouse worn by another, which "skewed" in the back and was baggy under the arms where it should have been taut and trim.

In the first place, suit your shirt waists to your style. To some the severely tailored waists are infinitely more becoming than any other; while to another contingent the more elaborate, "dressy" modes are in better correspondence with the wearer. Discover which kind is best for you and hold to it.

Then, as to accessories. Frills and pleatings may not be "your style;" jabots and cascades no better. A short jabot may be becoming and one that falls below the bust line much less so. This is a discovery you are to make for yourself, and having made it, don't be tempted from your knowledge.

Don't think because you wear "just a shirt waist" you can get into it any old way. Put it on properly, pin it down where it belongs; establish close connections with it and the skirt; make it do you credit. A ten cent percale will look better and have more style properly put on than a hand-embroidered linen that isn't. And don't forget it.

LINEN WAIST.

This waist may be made of either striped or plain linen, and in either case is trimmed with bands of plain linen ornamented with soutache and buttons.

The sleeves are finished with deep cuffs trimmed to correspond. The collar and wrist ruffles are of linen or batiste.

SOME NOVELTIES IN HATPINS

Roosters, Pheasants and Owl Heads, Some With Combs and Feet of Colored Jewels.

The woman who can not stand for Chanticleer hats can achieve a touch of the barnyard in her hatpins. There are roosters, pheasants, owl heads galore, from cheap ones of small size in imitation enamel or silver to huge affairs in rhinestones with combs and feet of colored jewels.

Some of these rhinestone pins are three inches long from comb to claws. Usually they present a side view when in the hat, occasionally they are set to look as if just stepping forth for a morning crow, showing both sides of the body studded.

Huge colored enamel hat pins have superseded rhinestone ones for the moment, though the former when of good quality are always in style. A good-looking one has a large heart worked out in various tones of red enamel delicately lined with gold.

The girl who would make sure of having her powder puff ever with her now carries it in her hat pin. So huge are some of the new pins that there is room for quite a sizeable powder puff, when the hinged lid is lifted. So skillful is the workmanship that none but the initiated suspect the complexion safeguard.

With a set of these pins one can be used for powder, the second for nail polish or rouge and the third for tiny chamols.

Origin of "Weeping" Plume.

The weeping feather is said to have originated in a disastrously wet race-meeting in Paris. Uncurled feathers were brought out afterwards as a humorous allusion to the catastrophe. These melancholy decorations caught the public fancy and became immensely smart, but their lack of decorative quality soon made itself felt, and they gave place to the "plume pleureuse," which, while also uncurled, has thick and numerous fronds, which obviate the impoverished appearance of the first uncurled feathers.

JUST A NATURAL MISTAKE

Gussie, in Fancy Costume, Astonished the Doorkeeper for a Moment.

Gussie was knock-kneed, angular and round-shouldered. He had a terrible squint, and a mouth like a steam roller. All the same, he reckoned on making something of a hit at the fancy dress ball, and his costume was as elegant as his figure was unlovely.

With fast beating heart he stepped jauntily from his automobile outside the town hall, where the ball was being held. The hall porter stepped backward at the unsightly apparition.

"Great Christopher Columbus!" he gasped, as he regarded Gussie.

"No, no, my good man!" chirped Gussie, as he tripped through the portals. "Chawles the First, my dear fellow—Chawles the First!"—London Answers.

A BROAD HINT.

Jim—I suppose you love to go sleighing because of the melody of the jingling sleigh bells.

Jess—Yes, and they often lead up to the wedding bells. That's the best of it.

Where Millions Are Entombed.
The catacombs at Rome were the burial places of the early Christians. They are about 580 miles in extent and are said to have contained 6,000,000 bodies. During the persecutions of the Christians under Nero and other Roman emperors the catacombs were used for hiding places. Under Diocletian the catacombs were crowded with those for whom there was no safety in the face of the day. The art of the catacombs is unique and most interesting. Simple designs are etched in the slabs which seal the tombs. Now and then are small chapels whose paintings are to be found. All are Bible illustrations, so that the catacombs may be said to be a pictorial Bible in effect.—The Christian Herald.

Tuberculosis in the Prisons.
The fact that 100,000 prisoners are discharged from the jails and prisons of the country annually, and that from 10 to 15 per cent. of them have tuberculosis, makes the problem of providing special places for their treatment while they are confined a serious one. So important is the problem that the Prison association of New York in co-operation with the State Charities Aid association, is preparing to inaugurate a special campaign for the prevention of tuberculosis in the penal institutions of the state, and will seek to enlist the co-operation of all prison physicians and anti-tuberculosis societies in this work.

He Had No Eye for Color.
There came to the home of a negro in Tennessee an addition to the family in the shape of triplets. The proud father hailed the first man who came along the road and asked him in to see them. The man, who was an Irishman, seemed greatly interested in the infants as he looked them over, lying in a row before him.

"What does 'em' think?" asked the parent.

"Waul"—pointing to the one in the middle—"I think I'd save that one."—Everybody's Magazine.

Excellent Definition.
"Bjornstjerne Bjornson, in his hotel fronting the Tuilleries gardens, received a few friends up to the last in Paris," said the continental agent of a typewriter firm.

"I had the honor to be among those friends and I never wearied of the great Norseman's wit and wisdom.

"The last thing he said to me, in cautioning me not to give an important provincial agency to an easy-going man of the world, was this:

"Beware the easy-going man. An easy-going man, you know, is one who makes the path of life very rough and difficult for somebody else."

A Specialist.

"I don't see you on the messenger force any more, Jimmy," said the lad with the envelope in his hand.

"No; I've got a good job with a dog-fancier," replied Jimmy, as he puffed a cigarette.

"Did a dog-fancier? What do you do—feed the dogs?"

"Naw! When a lady comes in and buys a pet dog I teach 'er 'ow to whistle."

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

WESTERN CANADA'S 1910 CROPS

Wheat Yield in Many Districts Will Be From 25 to 35 Bushels Per Acre

Land sales and homestead entries increasing. No cessation in numbers going from United States. Wonderful opportunities remain for those who intend making Canada their home. New districts being opened up for settlement. Many farmers will net this year, $10 to $15 per acre from their wheat crop. All the advantages of old settled countries are there. Good schools, churches, splendid markets, excellent railway facilities. See the grain exhibit at the different State and some of the County fairs.

Letters similar to the following are received every day, testifying to satisfactory conditions; other districts are as favorably spoken of:

THEY SENT FOR THEIR SON.
Maldstone, Sask., Canada, Aug. 5th, 1910.
"My parents came here from Cedar Falls, Iowa, four years ago, and were so well pleased with this country they sent to Cedar d'Alene for me. I have taken up a homestead near them, and am perfectly satisfied to stop here. Leonard Douglas.

WANTS SETTLER'S RATE FOR HIS STOCK.
Stettler, Alberta, July 24th, 1910.
"Well I got up here from Forest City, Iowa, last Spring in good shape with the stock and everything. Now, I have got two boys back in Iowa yet, and I am going back there now soon to get them and another car up here this fall. What I would like to know is, if there is any chance to get a cheap rate back again, and when we return to Canada I will call at your office for our certificates." Yours truly, H. A. WIL.

WILL MAKE HIS HOME IN CANADA.
Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 1st, 1910.
"I am going to Canada a week from today and intend to make my home there. My husband has been there six weeks and is well pleased with the country, so he wants me to come as soon as possible. He filed on a claim near Landis, Sask., and by his description of it it must be a pretty place."

Gal-va-nite Roofing

Makes a Weather-Proof Roof for Many Years

We make Gal-va-nite from heavy wool felt, which is thoroughly saturated with mineral asphalt and subjected to tremendous pressure. It is then plated with flaked Mica, a mineral product that never wears out, and which keeps all the essential oils in and the weather out.

Gal-va-nite will outlast the building it covers, and it requires no attention or repairs. It is pliable and easy to handle. One man can put it on. It makes a one piece roof that is proof against all kinds of weather and will save you money by cutting out repair expense.
