The A. O. U. W. will give a big dance next Monday night, Dec. 26. The Workmen lodge is one of the best in town and is run by a bunch of jolly good fellows, and this assures a good time to all who attend this dance. Nick Uck and Wash Honey were in Valentine Monday on business, and in conversation with them we learned that they are contemplating a trip to Florida to spend the winter. They are going in a few days and will take their wives with them and spend the winter in the sunny south. They expect to rent a cottage on the coast near Pensacola and enjoy the ocean breezes. Mr. Honey thinks it will benefit his health and Nick says he's going along just to follow the ducks and come back with them in the spring.

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas comes next Sunday with its train of presents and greetings. What a monotonous old world this would be if it wasn't for the Christmas holidays and Sundays. We used to look forward to them with anxious anticipation of the good times and toys and joys of meeting old friends who returned home.

Next Sunday is Christmas and the young folks will be home from school for a week or two. Our old town will ring with the glad-some times of talk and merry laugh from morn till late at night.

Our merchants have prepared their stores with all the good things that people expect and are busy all day long waiting on the mammas and papas who have to remember all the little ones at home with something. Papa thinks he's hard up but he must provide something and he'll never miss the money he spends for the dear little girls and boys whom he wouldn't deprive of a Merry Christmas for twice the amount.

We like to be optimistic and never more than at Christmas time when we remember the sacrifices made for us.

We forgot to mention last week that Bishop Beecher's house was entered by thieves while he was on his western trip at O'Neill, Atkinson and Valentine, while his wife and daughter were down town and some silverware and jewelry, among which the Bishop's ring was taken. The thief is thought to have been a tramp asking alms who had visited the home recently. He has not been apprehended and no clue has been found.
