

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS.

Kidney troubles are too serious to neglect. Slight ailments are often forerunners of dangerous kidney illness and should be treated without delay.

Obadiah B. Crane, 222 First Av., Watertown, S. Dak., says: "I was taken with rheumatic pains and my left limb was almost paralyzed. I hobbled around with a cane as weak as a child. I was afflicted with a bladder weakness and was compelled to arise several times during the night. Shortly after I commenced to use Doan's Kidney Pills, I could do work, that was before impossible. I am stronger and better than in years."

Dragging Their Hosiers.
Little Arlene was familiar with the appearance of the garden hose at home, but when she observed a line of fire hose, with its great length and bulk lying serpent-like in the street, she immediately inquired what it was. Her mother replied that was firemen's hose, and the child went on watching the fire.

In the meantime two additional fire companies dashed up, and these newly arrived fire fighters were carrying their respective lines toward the burning building, when little Arlene spied them.

"Oh, mamma," she cried, craning her neck out of the crowd, "here comes more firemen dragging their hosiers behind them!"—Lippincott's.

Properly Thankful.

Clark Howell of Atlanta tells of the sad case of an elderly dandy in Georgia, charged with the theft of some chickens. The negro had the misfortune to be defended by a young and inexperienced attorney, although it is doubtful whether any one could have secured his acquittal, the commission of the crime having been proved beyond all doubt. The dandy received a pretty severe sentence. "Thank yo', sah," said he cheerfully, addressing the judge when the sentence had been pronounced. "Dat's mighty hard, sah, but it ain't anything what I expected. I thought, sah, dat between my character and dat speech of my lawyer dat yo'd tang me, shore!"

An Astonished Boy.

In February of this year a Wisconsin farmer took his twelve-year-old boy to a village for the first time, and there the lad saw a train of cars. He was so astonished at the sight that he lost the power of speech for three weeks.

If that youngster is ever taken to a circus or a zoological garden he'll surely be struck dumb for the rest of his life. His father's farm must be hidden away in a hole in the ground.

In return for the completion of the course, the students may receive two hours' university credit. The course will correspond to track athletics.

Republican Committee to Meet.

Chairman Husenetter of the republican state committee has issued a call for a meeting of the state central committee Friday evening, June 9, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of appointing delegates to the state convention, which will be held July 20. The committee is required to apportion delegates on the basis of votes cast in the last presidential election, but whether the convention will be a large one, with about 1,000 delegates as it was last year, or a small one, such as was held the year before, is within the discretion of the committee.

To Prosecute Bookkeeper.

Governor Aldrich has instructed Attorney General Martin to begin criminal proceedings against Thomas E. Stewart, formerly bookkeeper of the state institute for feeble minded at Beatrice, because of a shortage of $1,337 in the cash of the institution as shown by the books kept by Mr. Stewart. It is said Mr. Stewart will make the defense that he was not alone in the custody of the cash of the institution and that others had access to the money drawer.

Rural Life Commission Meets.

The rural life commission, appointed by Governor Aldrich after the passage of a resolution by the last legislature, met in Lincoln and outlined its work for the next year. Big Egg Dealers Willing.

The big creamery and egg purchasing firms of Omaha have adopted resolutions favoring the new rules promulgated by Food Commissioner W. R. Jackson, which lay the burden of candling eggs upon the country dealers who buy direct from farmers. The big firms which buy from the merchants are heartily in favor of this arrangement.

State Fair Will Be Record Breaker

Secretary Mellor of the state board of agriculture is of the opinion that if the other departments of the state fair show up as well as the speed department, the next fair will be a record-breaker. In the early closing races this year 233 horses have been named, while the highest number ever before entered was 187. The increase is more than 20 per cent over any previous showing.

THE GREAT ISSUE

AFRAID OF TRICKERY

PEOPLE WANT TO KNOW MORE OF ALDRICH'S FINANCIAL PLAN.

"National Reserve Association" a Cloak for National Bank?—Whole Truth of the Matter Must Be Made Public.

Many a good dinner has been eaten in New York and elsewhere, incidentally to discuss Mr. Nelson W. Aldrich's new financial plan. Everything on the bills of fare has been plain enough except the name of the dish which Mr. Aldrich himself has provided. He calls it a National Reserve association. He emphatically denies that it is a Central bank or a bank of the United States. The delicacy became popular at financial banquets without delay, but, having a desire to oblige his friends, the great chef who first prepared it has encouraged other good-livers to suggest improvements. This weighty matter has been in progress for some time, and now whenever men of money break bread with Mr. Aldrich various alleged improvements are either adopted or rejected. So far as we have observed, however, nobody, even at the foot of the table, has ventured to suggest that the thing he called by its right name.

Some plain Americans have noted the fact that on the menu cards of our up-to-date hotels very homely articles of diet are often hidden behind strange French or Italian phrases. There is reason to believe that if the plain people of the United States are ever to look with favor upon Mr. Aldrich's triumph of cookery he will have to tell them exactly what it is. They have a right to know anyway, but the Pure-Food law can be invoked if necessary.

A great deal is to be said in favor of a Central bank. That such an institution has many advantages is proved by the experience of other nations. Correctly managed, it protects credit, regulates circulation and prevents or minimizes panics. Badly managed, it may become corrupt, partial and tyrannous. In the control of financial politicians and political financiers it may arbitrarily dominate commerce and industry—even government itself—for selfish ends. We have had Central banks of the last description. We have never had one of the first.

It is morally certain that no Central bank will ever be established in this country under a misleading title. Historical, political and personal prejudices against such an institution are very strong. They can be removed only by facts and argument presented with the utmost candor. A good way to begin this movement would be by an honest avowal of its object.—New York World.

As Representative Hill says that the farmer's free list bill will help the trusts instead of harming them, doubtless that is why those same trusts are so vigorously opposed to it. They dissemble beautifully.

Why Lower Duty on Wool?

Wool growing is an important industry in this country only in those states or territories where it would flourish without any tariff, and it has steadily receded in spite of the tariff from the agricultural states. Among documents on this subject is a report on sheep and wool made about 15 years ago, by Mr. Dodge, who was for many years statistician of the Department of Agriculture, and who is as stiff a protectionist as any man we know of.

The duty will have to be raised a great deal more to make it profitable to grow wool in the agricultural states and if the price were much raised the consumption would fall off and the wool men would be no better off than they are now. But there is money in raising sheep for mutton, as there is in raising steers for beef, though steers cannot be shorn annually, and for mutton considerable quantities of sheep will be grown, their wool being a by-product of the meat supply. In portions of the country which are not well adapted to agriculture sheep will be raised whether there be a duty on wool or not.

ALL OVER NEBRASKA

Cost of Growing Wheat.
Statistics indicating the profit that can be made on the average farm in Nebraska upon the wheat yield, have been prepared by Louis V. Guye in connection with an estimate on the present crop conditions. Mr. Guye is deputy state labor commissioner.

"The cost on an average of producing wheat is shown by the following statistics." He said:

"Cost of preparing ground per acre, $1.48; seed, $1.28; planting, 44 cents; harvesting, $1.22; preparing for market, $1.39; miscellaneous, including wear and tear to machinery, fertilizing, etc., 58 cents; land rent, or interest on land values, $3.70, making a total cost per acre of $10.08, this, including the pay for labor, seed, rent, interest, wear and tear on machinery, etc.

"The average yield was 18½ bushels per acre, with an average market price of 88 cents per bushel, or $16.28 per acre, less the cost of production, $10.08, leaving a net profit of $6.20 per acre, and this after all the expenses have been paid, which represents the actual dividends on the investments in wheat growing.

"The crop forecast, as shown by the reports to hand, are as follows:

"The May estimate of winter wheat, in acreage, is approximately 5 per cent greater than that of 1910, and 3 per cent less than the acreage sown last fall. This is a general average as shown for the last five years. The indicated yield is somewhat less than the May estimate of the last five years owing to the backward dry, cold spring weather.

"Rye shows the same average in acreage and yield as that indicated by winter wheat.

"The average condition of the hay crop shows a slight decrease, especially in the western portion, due to the lateness of the season."
