Railroad Talk

Chas. H. Cornell of Valentine, Nebr., was in Butte, Friday evening enroute home from New York City, where he has been in the interest of the new railroad from Valentine to Butte.

Mr. Cornell has been busy at work with the project for the past eighteen months and has a scheme which he feels sure will in time win. His faith in the enterprise has been demonstrated by the expenditure of several thousand dollars which he has invested in surveys, etc. The closing in of finances the past year has made the handling of bonds, of all descriptions, a very tedious undertaking, but Mr. Cornell understood the situation and kept moving along and is more confident than ever that his pet scheme will be realized.

Thos. Lard, M. N. Morrison and D. E. Morrison, of Norden, Nebr., E. E. Morey of Valentine, and Dave Briggs, of Naper, met Mr. Cornell in Butte to talk over the situation.

R. R. Kinkaid, a civil engineer of Omaha, arrived in Butte Saturday evening and is busy at the county clerk's office looking up titles to the land through which the survey has been made.

If the road is built it will mean much to the counties through which it is built.

To help the enterprise along should be the watch word.—Butte Gazette.

YOU TAKE NO RISK

Our Reputation and Money is Back of This Offer

We pay for all medicine used during the trial, if our remedy fails to completely relieve you of constipation. We take all the risk. You are not obligated to us in any way whatever if you accept our offer. Could anything be more fair for you? Is there any reason why you should hesitate to put our claims to a practical test? The most scientific, common-sense treatment is Rexall Orderlies, which are eaten like candy. They are very pronounced, gentle and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. They do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping or any inconvenience whatever. Rexall Orderlies are particularly good for children, aged and delicate persons.

We urge you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Three sizes, 10c., 25c. and 50c. Remember, you can get Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. G. A. Chapman.

Eight young men went to the pond at midnight Monday for a swim. Two of them were talking of the fun they had that night. They declared the slide was never slicker or the chance to play leap-frog never greater, and that the water was simply grand—Come on in.

Waking the Sleepers.

In a diary kept in 1916 it is asserted that "Allen Brydges has been chosen to wake the sleepers in meeting and, being much proud of his place, must needs have a fox tail fixed to the end of a long staff, wherewith he may brush the faces of them that will have naps in time of discourse." This energetic individual was likewise armed with "a sharpe thorne" for the benefit of those who "be most sounde." There is a record of the use of this implement upon Mr. Tomkins, who was sleeping comfortably in the corner of his pew when Allen "thrust his staff behind Dame Ballard to give him a grievous prick upon the hand, whereupon Mr. Tomkins did spring much above the floor and with terrible force did strike his head against the wall and also to the great wonder of all 'prophane' exclaim in a loud voice, 'Buss the woodchuck!' he dreaming, as it seemed, that a woodchuck had seized him and bit his hand."

Packed at Home.

As the new district visitor looked at Mr. Leahy and noted his determined chin she had a momentary sensation of reluctance to question him, but she overcame it and began her appointed task.

"Where do you deposit your wages, Mr. Leahy, if you've no objection to telling me?" she asked. "I am trying to interest the neighborhood in the excellent People's bank, lately started."

"Sure, I'd as soon tell you as not," said Mr. Leahy cheerfully. "This tin dollars a week I earn. When I've paid the rent, the provision and grocery bills an' the milkman an' bought what's needed for Celia an' me an' the five children I deposit the rest of the money in barr'ls, ma'am. I uses sugar barr'ls mostly. They're a bit larger and so holds more. But when I can't get them I make shift with plain flour barr'ls."—Youth's Companion.

Curious Forgetfulness.

It is difficult to combine the attributes of the beau and the business man, and the famous Lord Alvanley did not attempt the task. Largely as the result of that philosophy which led him to avail at a friend's weakness in "maudling away his fortune in paying tradesmen's bills," he one day found himself in financial difficulties and asked Charles Greville, the author of the "Journals," to put his affairs in order. The two men—Mr. Lewis Melville describes the incident in "Some Eccentrics and a Woman"—spent a day over accounts, and Greville found that the task he had undertaken would not be so difficult as he had been given to understand. His relief was not long lived, however, for on the following morning he received a note from Alvanley saying he had quite forgotten a debt of £50,000.

Her Early Resolutions.

This story was told by an Englishman who lived a century ago. He was dining out in London and sat by a lady whom he did not know. Their conversation turned upon early resolutions and how very seldom they were kept, and the lady said: "Well, when I was a girl I made three resolutions—first, I determined that I would never marry a soldier; second, that I would never marry an Irishman, and, third, that I would not be long engaged. And all those three resolutions I broke. Who do you think I did marry? The Duke of Wellington! He was a soldier and an Irishman, and I was engaged to him for twelve years." This was Lady Katherine Pakenham. It was an unhappy marriage, and the couple mostly lived apart.

Between Them.

"Yes," said Mrs. Catehem, "those are my daughters over there on the sofa. They have half a million between them."

It was not until they were married to those daughters that the young men who overheard the remark found out that Mrs. Catehem referred to the rich old gentleman who sat on the sofa between the girls. Mrs. Catehem could not tell a lie, but she knew how to speak the truth to the best advantage.

Suited to the Occasion.

Nurse Girl—Oh, ma'am, what shall I do? The twins have fallen down the well. Fond Parent—Dear me, how annoying! Just go into the library—very gently so as not to disturb Fido—and get the last number of the Modern Mother's Magazine. It contains a fine article on "How to Bring Up Children."—Town Topics.

Making It Pleasant.

"How does your sister like the engagement ring I gave her, Johnny?" "I think it's a little too small. Mr. Lover. She has awful trouble getting it off when the other fellows call to see her."
