

SOUNDS DOOM FOR M'NAMARAS

James B. Is Sentenced for Life—Brother Gets 15 Years.

JUDGE BORDWELL GRILLS BOTH

Calls James B. Murderer at Heart and Scouts Confession—District Attorney Makes Plea for Clemency for Dynamiters.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Denouncing James B. McNamara as a murderer at heart, and declaring that there was no extenuating circumstances in his case, Judge Walter Bordwell sentenced the man who confessed he blew up the Los Angeles Times and caused the death of 21 men, to life imprisonment in the California state penitentiary at San Quentin.

Immediately thereafter the court called John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, before the bar and sentenced him to serve a 15-year term in the same prison.

District Attorney Fredericks kept his promise to the two prisoners given at the time they made their confessions, and begged the court to exercise leniency.

John J. McNamara, who was arrested at Indianapolis on April 22 last, was sentenced on his plea of guilty to conspiracy in the dynamiting of the Llewellyn iron works.

Confession Is Read.

District Attorney Fredericks read James B. McNamara's confession amid absolute silence. The confession follows:

"I, James B. McNamara, defendant in the case of the people, having heretofore pleaded guilty to the crime of murder, desire to make this statement of facts, and this is the truth:

"On the night of September 30, 1910, at 5:45 p. m., I placed in Ink alley, a portion of the Times building, a suitcase containing 16 sticks of 80 per cent. dynamite, set to explode at one o'clock the next morning.

"It was my intention to injure the building and scare the owners. I did not intend to take the life of anyone. I sincerely regret that these unfortunate men lost their lives. If the giving of my life would bring them back I would gladly give it. In fact, in pleading guilty to murder in the first degree I have placed my life in the hands of the state.

"JAMES B. M'NAMARA."

"Is that statement correct?" asked the court.

"It is," said McNamara.

Calls It First Degree Murder.

"Then the court finds," said the judge, "that the degree of guilt of the defendant is murder in the first degree. James B. McNamara, you may stand. What is your full name?"

"James Boyd McNamara," answered the prisoner.

The court then began a formal statement, reciting the indictment for murder of Charles J. Haggerty upon which McNamara pleaded guilty and asked McNamara if he had any statement to make.

"I have not," he said.

No Bargain, Says Fredericks.

"Have you anything to say?" the court asked Mr. Fredericks.

"There has been no dicker or bargaining in this matter," he said.

"Counsel on the other side are well aware of the custom of granting clemency to persons pleading guilty. This defendant by so pleading has settled for all time a question which otherwise would always have been in doubt. He saves the state great expenditure and serves the state in other ways."

"The defendant will rise," said Judge Bordwell, and commented on McNamara's declaration that he did not intend to destroy life.

Contradicts Prisoner's Statement.

"The circumstances are against that statement," he said. "A man who will place 16 sticks of dynamite in a place where you, as a printer, knew gas was burning in many places and knew many were tolling, must have had no regard for life; must have been a murderer at heart and undeserving of clemency."

John J. McNamara came next. The Llewellyn iron works indictment was read to him by the judge. The prisoner said he had nothing to say. District Attorney Fredericks said that, as in the other case, the plea of guilty permitted consideration, but pleaded that the defendant receive "a few years of freedom near the end of his life."

Judge Bordwell declared that the strictures against James B. McNamara would apply also to John J. Clemency, he said, was not because of merit as to intent. He then imposed sentence of 15 years in San Quentin.

DURBAR AT DELHI MAGNIFICENT

With Gorgeous Ceremony George and Mary Are Recognized as Emperor and Empress of India.

Delhi, India, Dec. 12.—In a durbar which surpassed in splendor every former ceremony ever before held in this ancient seat of the kings of India, the proud native rulers of the land today did homage to King George and Queen Mary of England and formally recognized them as emperor and empress of India.

The durbar, for which elaborate preparations had been under way for

The king was crowned king-emperor at Westminster, so he took his throne already wearing a crown that had been made especially for this occasion, garbed in the royal robes of state, wearing the state jewels and carrying the scepter. By his side sat Queen Mary, on her brow the crown that was made for her coronation and in the front of which blazed the great Kohinoor, the Indian diamond supmonths, took place in a great camp to the north of the city, some five miles square. The temporary population of this camp is about a quarter of a million, and it is furnished with all the conveniences of modern life, including 31 postoffices, 10 telegraph offices and even electric light, railways, motor cars and taxicabs. There the people gathered for the durbar have been amusing themselves for several days with polo, hockey and military tournaments and other festivities.

Displays of Jewels Wonderful.

The durbar proper took place in an immense semi-circular amphitheater on the historical ridge where a few Englishmen once made a heroic stand against the revolting natives. In the posed to bring good fortune if worn by a woman. Her jewels were even more magnificent than those she wore at the coronation at Westminster, among her new ornaments being a beautiful lotus flower of diamonds. She was garbed in the white and gold embroidered robe worn at the coronation.

Most spectacular was the grand review of troops, about 90,000 in number. Most of these were native troops, and they were garbed in the most gorgeous uniforms in the world. The rajahs and other native princes present brought their own elephants, the size of the animal depending on the rank of its owner, and the huge brutes, with their magnificent how-center of the semi-circle was a throne of gold and silver surmounted by a copper dome. Taking his seat on this, George received the homage of the rulers of the "dim millions" of his subjects, about 150 ruling princes of Hindustan. These dusky potentates were resplendent in the magnificent jewels for which they have long been famous. Indeed, such a display of precious stones never before was seen in modern times. The rajahs, after making their obeisances, grouped themselves about the throne, where also stood the governors of the Asiatic colonies of the crown, other distinguished government officials and invited guests.

Gifts and other trappings, added much to the oriental splendor of the scene. Presents for Indian Subjects.

The king and queen brought from England a vast number of presents for their Indian subjects, including a thousand plum puddings made in the Buckingham palace kitchen, and a great number of rich cakes, York hams and Stilton cheeses. Then there are rolls of English linen, piles of Buckinghamshire, honiton and point laces, illustrated books, fancy leather goods, silverware of all kinds, British silks and velvets, pictures and photographs and a great variety of other articles, while there is quite a menagerie of puppies, kittens and canaries

It Means Health For the Child

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally. This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. Evelyn Matson, 616 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis., and Mrs. Kate Hawley, Waukesha, Wis., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work. Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) may have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 291 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Husband Was Willing.

The Scot has no monopoly of domestic felicity, as many a piquant paragraph bears witness. The other day an old farmer and his wife were "doing" the sights of a provincial town, and, among other places, they visited a panorama of South Africa.

The views were extremely interesting, and the couple were enjoying themselves to the full. As scene after scene passed, the woman's enthusiasm increased, and at length, turning to her husband, she exclaimed:

"Oh, Sandy, this is really splendid. I could just sit here all my days."

"Ah, weel, Jennie, woman," replied Sandy, to the mirth of those sitting near, "just sit you still there; I'll not grudge the saxeppence."

Precise.

The proofreader on a small middle-western daily was a woman of great precision and extreme propriety. One day a reporter succeeded in getting into type an item about "Willie Brown, the boy who was burned in the West end by a live wire."

On the following day the reporter found on his desk a frigid note asking, "Which is the west end of a boy?"

It took only an instant to reply—"The end the son sees on, of course."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Some Undertaking.

The official undertaker of a small town was driving through the county on one of his regular missions. A woman came out to the gate of a farm yard and hailed him.

"I don't seem to recall your name, madam," he said.

"That's funny!" she said. "It ain't been more'n a year and a half ago since you undertook my first husband."

Just to Make Sure.

"How shall I express my sentiments toward you?" said the young man, tenderly.

"On paper, please," said the girl. "Then there can be no chance of your wriggling out of it."

Two Women.

"I'm going to Vassar and try for a degree this year. Better come along."

"Thaks, dear, but I'm going to Reno and try for a decree."

THE LITTLE WIDOW

A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman, from San Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In 2 months my weight increased from 95 to 113 pounds, my nerves had steadied down and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly, and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change.

"My 4-year-old boy had eczema very bad last spring and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the eczema disappeared and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries. New View of It.

"I envy the man who believes that superstition about Friday," said Mr. Grewcher.

"I consider it depressing."

"Not at all. A man ought to be mighty comfortable who can feel sure there's only one unlucky day in the week."

Many people have receding gums. Rub Hamlin Wizard Oil on gums and stop the decay; chase the disease germs with a mouth wash of a few drops to a spoonful of water.

It's humiliating to discover that the folks who we imagine despise us never even think of us!

The Human Heart

The heart is a wonderful double pump, through the action of which the blood stream is kept sweeping round and round through the body at the rate of seven miles an hour. "Remember this, that our bodies will not stand the strain of over-work without good, pure blood any more than the engine can run smoothly without oil." After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. R. V. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the glyceric extract of certain roots was the best corrective. This he called
