JOHN H. MOREHEAD

Candidate for Governor.

The life story of John H. Morehead is the story of a man who has succeeded by his own efforts, not only in reaching a high place in the estimation of his fellows, but in achieving a fair measure of business success. Born on an Iowa farm in 1861, Mr. Morehead endured the hardships of pioneer farming and secured the rudiments of a common school education in the then poorly equipped district schools of a pioneer state. He came to Nebraska in 1883, locating in Nemaha county, where he taught school for two years. Having saved a little money he engaged in the general merchandising business at Barada, Richardson county. Early in 1895 he was nominated for county treasurer by a majority of 235 votes in a county then overwhelmingly republican. Two years later he was elected by a majority of 825—an evidence of his popularity and good service to the people. In 1900 he was elected mayor of Falls City. In 1908 he was delegate to the Denver convention from the First congressional district, and at the election in the same year was elected to the state senate from the First senatorial district. He was elected president pro tem of the senate, and is now acting lieutenant governor. In the senate he at once became a leader recognized for his ability, his conservatism and his industry. In 1899 Mr. Morehead was elected cashier of the First National bank of Falls City, serving for nine years. He is now president of that institution and of the State Bank of Barada. Although interested in the banking business, Mr. Morehead is even more interested in farming and stock raising, to which he devotes much of his time and attention. He knows the farming and live stock industries thoroughly, and is well acquainted with their needs. Because of his high business standing and qualifications, and because he has not been allied with any faction or clique of his party, Mr. Morehead was asked by thousands of democrats to become a candidate for the nomination for governor. After due deliberation he consented, and his candidacy has been filed. If nominated and elected he will give Nebraska the same kind of a business administration that he has given to his own affairs with so much success. Free from any and all influences that might hamper his candidacy, Mr. Morehead is desirous only of giving Nebraska a clean, business-like administration, marked by absolute fairness to all legitimate interests. Senator Morehead would make a strong candidate, and one well calculated to lead the ticket to success.

The Only "Dolly" Type Machine Made

That has absolutely no operating mechanism attached to the sides or top of the machine.

Equipped with specially designed reversible wringer, which is operated by the same motor that operates the machine, and enables the washing and wringing to be done at the same time.

The motor, together with all operating mechanism, is mounted on a metal frame underneath the body of the machine, out of the way of the operator. This metal frame is rigidly attached to the legs and insures perfect alignment of the gearing and reduces the amount of power required to operate the machine to a minimum.

Only one Lever to Operate

The machine and reversible wringer under positive control of the operator. The wringer may be operated at the same time or remain stationary while the machine is washing the clothes. The only Dolly type machine fitted with special 1-inch drain faucet at the bottom for drawing off the waste or making permanent connection with the waste drain, if desired.

GRAND JURY IN SESSION THIS WEEK

The Sheriff and Deputy Have Been Busy Making Arrests.

Instructions to the Jury

The Following Persons Compose the Grand Jury:

District court convened Monday morning and the grand jury was empaneled and sworn to do their duty. Sheriff Rosseter and his deputy, Clem Hahn, have been busy the past few weeks getting witnesses and prisoners before the court and numerous arrests have been made of persons charged with breaking the peace or the laws and will be arraigned before the court or grand jury in due course of time as they are called. Judge Westover read instructions to the grand jury as follows:

Gentlemen of the grand jury:

For the first time in more than twenty years a grand jury has been called in Cherry county. You have been empaneled at this time, not solely for the reason that an extraordinary condition of affairs exists in Cherry county, but because the legislature of 1911 saw fit to provide that a grand jury should be drawn at the first term of court of each year in the various counties of the state, unless otherwise ordered by the district judge. This law indicates quite clearly that it was the judgment of the legislature, the law making branch of our state government, that each county ought to have a grand jury at least once each year.

The oath which you have just taken imposes upon you and each of you an obligation of secrecy, that is, during your deliberations you must keep your work absolutely to yourselves. No grand juror can disclose any of the work of the grand jury room, unless called upon to do so in a court of justice. This means that you are not permitted to tell any person what any witness testified to, or what any grand juror says or does touching any matter which may be before you as a grand jury. It also means that you must keep secret the results of your deliberations; how the members vote on the question of finding indictments or refusing to find indictments based upon the evidence before you. In fact, no juror can disclose anything that transpires in the grand jury room without violating this part of the oath that you have taken. Your oaths further provides that you shall present no person through malice, hatred or ill-will. This part of your oath means that even although a grand juror may have ill-will or hatred against some individual, he must not use that condition of feeling for the purpose of securing an indictment against that individual. It means that in all of your deliberations and work, that your personal feelings must be laid aside for the time being, and that in all your presentments they must be based upon evidence of witnesses, or competent evidence which may be presented to you. Your oath further provides that you shall not leave any person unrepresented through fear, favor or affection, or for any reward or hope thereof. This part of your oath means exactly what it says, and should be strictly observed by every grand juror during all your deliberations. It matters not who the person may be; what his station in life may be; what official position he holds, or what public influence he may wield, if the evidence shows that he has committed any crime, or violated any law, this part of your oath means that you must indict him in order that he may be put upon trial in this court.

In your deliberations you will bear in mind that in order to find a true bill of indictment against any person, twelve of your number must be in favor of finding such bill. In voting upon a proposition of that kind, if less than twelve vote in favor of finding a bill, then no bill can be found and returned as a true bill in this court; but if twelve vote in favor of it, then the indictment should be endorsed "a true bill" and signed by your foreman.

Ordinarily the county attorney is the legal advisor of the grand jury, and otherwise assists in presenting the evidence. However, at this time it has been deemed wise to have at least a part of the investigation which will be made by you, conducted by a representative of the attorney general's office. And in view of the conditions which you will be required to investigate, I deem it my duty to request the attorney general to either be present personally, or furnish an attorney from his office to conduct the investigation which you will be required to make at this session. It is desirable by all parties that your investigation be impartial and that it be thorough, and that it be conducted in a way to merit the confidence of every honest citizen of Cherry county. And for the reasons, and others too numerous to mention in these instructions, the attorney general has consented and has arranged for a representative of his office to have charge of at least a part of the investigations which you will make at this session. He, of course, supersedes the county attorney, and will be your legal advisor as well as your assistant during the progress of your work.

It will be the duty of any grand juror on this panel, if he knows or has reason to believe that any crime has been committed in Cherry county within the statute of limitation, that is, within three years if the cases are felonies and within eighteen months if they are misdemeanors, to make disclosure of all he knows to the other grand jurors; and when this is done, the grand jury ought to direct that all witnesses or persons who are believed to have any information concerning the matters disclosed, be subpoenaed and brought before the grand jury for investigation. Any citizen of Cherry county has a right, and it is his duty, if he knows that any crime has been committed within the statute of limitation, to appear before the grand jury without being subpoenaed to do so, and make disclosure of what he knows. And the grand jury is instructed that should anyone ask to be heard, and make disclosure to them, even though he has not been subpoenaed so to do, it will be your duty to hear him, and then pursue an earnest, honest and conscientious investigation of matters pertaining to whatever he may disclose.

There are certain things which the statute requires me to call your attention to, and to give you specially in charge. First—It will be your duty before you adjourn to make a thorough examination of the county jail, and to make a report thereon; which report will include any suggestions for improvement in conditions which you may believe ought to be made.

Section 6386 of the statute, makes it your duty to examine buildings of more than two stories in height for the purpose of determining whether adequate fire escapes are provided.

Section 6381 of the statute make it your duty to examine hotels and lodging houses within the county, to ascertain whether the provisions of the statute are being complied with by keepers of such places.

Section 10380 makes it your duty to inquire whether or not the school lands of the county are being trespassed upon, and if any of said lands have growing timber or trees, whether or not such timber has been molested by trees. (Continued on last page)
