FRIDAY FACTS.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dederman, on Wednesday, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nitz, Wednesday, a son. The Stanton county board of supervisors has let a contract to the Standard Bridge company of Omaha to build a new bridge across the Elkhorn about half way between that town and Norfolk. The needy families of Norfolk were given cause for thanksgiving by philanthropic citizens. Among the necessities delivered them Wednesday was flour, contributed by the Sugar City Cereal mills and G. A. Luikart. The union Thanksgiving service yesterday morning at the First Congregational church was very well attended. Rev. John Jefferies of the Second Congregational church preached and his sermon was very favorably commented upon. At its regular meeting last night Norfolk lodge, No. 46, I. O. O. F., the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: H. H. Patterson, N. G.; F. H. Beels, V. G.; H. L. Spaulding, secretary; E. J. Schorregge, treasurer, and S. R. McFarland, trustee. The workmen on the new Bishop block considered the weather yesterday too fine to give idle thanks and continued with their work, making good progress. The foundation walls will be nearly completed tonight and allow the laying of the first floor joists the beginning of next week. A number of city people were invited to the hospital Wednesday evening, by Superintendent Stevenson, to meet Mrs. Stewart and Misses McKeighan, Leese and Holland of Lincoln. A very pleasant evening was spent by all present, the time being largely devoted to music and dancing in the amusement hall of the institution. Thanksgiving was very generally observed in the city yesterday. Business at the stores was practically suspended except for a few hours in the morning, the banks were closed and the postoffice kept Sunday hours. As usual the chief observance of Thanksgiving day in Norfolk was through numerous dinner parties. It seemed as though there were few families who did not either entertain or were entertained and the meetings were as pleasurable as family ties and kindred ideas could make them. It was a pleasant day delightfully spent, as a general thing. Dr. P. H. Salter gave a theater party last evening at the Innes band concert, which was quite the most complete affair of the kind that has ever been undertaken in the city. Dr. Salter called for his guests with carriages and took them to the Auditorium, where they occupied seats in the parquet. At the close of the entertainment, carriages conveyed the party to the home of the host on Koenigstein avenue, where an elegant lunch, which in reality was a banquet, was served in courses. The table was beautifully decorated with choice cut flowers, and during the service soft strains from a harp filled the room with melody. Afterward there was song accompanied by the piano, and it was a late hour this morning when the party broke up, each guest vowing that it had been one of the pleasantest evenings of a life time. Those invited were Dr. and Mrs. Nicholson of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Butterfield of Creighton, Miss Butterfield, Mrs. Deuel, Mr. Mayer, Messrs. Parker, C. H. Reynolds, Dr. F. G. Salter and W. N. Huse of this city. Pine Saratoga chips at the Model Bakery. For Sale or Trade. Eighty acre improved farm, 5 miles from the city, 20 acres of natural meadow, 60 acres under plow. Possession can be given immediately. ALFRED OSBORN. Lost—Brown box coat, between Third and Fifth street. Name is sewed in inside pocket. A. J. MIQUETTE, American Express office. Parish Has all you need for your Thanksgiving—fruit cake or plum pudding, citron, lemon and orange peel. Imported Sultana raisins, California seeded raisins, currants, etc., and the finest of everything in spices. Also makes a white and dark fruit cake. It is about as cheap as you can make it and those who have tried it say it is as good. New nuts, cluster raisins, Malaga grapes, lettuce, radishes and celery. Order early and be sure of your supply. The best baled hay that ever came to Norfolk at the Norfolk Feed Mill, one block west Creighton depot. Phone 121. A ticket given on the symphonion at Kiesau's drug store with every $1 purchase and 5 cents placed in the machine. Popcorn at Schorregge's. The Public Library. Something over a year ago, what seemed to many of our progressive citizens a golden opportunity for the establishment of a free public library presented itself in the offering for sale, on the part of the owners, of the old Catholic church building. Meetings of the citizens were held, discussions had, a constitution adopted, and a resolution to purchase the church building for the sum of $300, passed. As a result of these actions, and by the tacit consent of the library committee, Mr. C. G. Somers purchased for the library association the above mentioned building. To reimburse Mr. Somers for the purchase of this building, the proposition of Col J. S. Simpson to secure 150 subscribers at two dollars each, such subscribers to become active charter members, was approved by the association. In conformity with this action of the association Col. Simpson secured 150 subscribers and collected about $300, when the storm of last June, to a considerable extent, wrecked the building. Since that occurrence considerable apathy among its supporters has prevailed. Some feel that extra effort should be made to secure a permanent site, repair the church building and move it to such sight, and open the library. Others believe that it is better to sell the old church building to the highest bidder for cash, and with the proceeds, and if necessary drawing on the library fund of $200 now deposited in the Citizens' National bank for any deficit, reimburse Mr. Somers and begin over again. The latter view seems to have the greater number of adherents. Therefore, it is resolved that unless public opinion expresses itself to the contrary, the old church building shall be duly advertised, sold to the highest bidder, and the proceeds applied to the reimbursement of Mr. C. G. Somers. Expression through the press is earnestly solicited. D. C. O'CONNOR, Secretary. Aprons of all kinds at sale December 4th. WANTED—Plain sewing and mending. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Durland were passengers for Sioux City this morning. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Bundick were passengers on the early train for Omaha. Miss Irene Dexter went to Columbus this morning to visit friends for a few days. E. H. Luikart was down from Battle Creek to spend Thanksgiving and hear Innes. Miss Alice Mills of Omaha spent Thanksgiving with her sister, Mrs. John R. Hays. Mr. and Mrs. Willis McBride and children came over from Madison to spend Thanksgiving. H. E. and D. M. Owen came home from their contract work in Wyoming to spend Thanksgiving. Miss Gao Stanton left this morning for St. Bernard, near which town she is engaged to teach school. Roy Carter came down from St. Paul, Minn., on the football excursion and enjoyed his Thanksgiving at home. Mary Deering came from Wisconsin to attend the funeral of the child of Fred Leu, which was held yesterday. Mrs. O. R. Eller came up from Lincoln yesterday and will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Matrau, until Monday. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Michels of Sherman, Wyo., are visiting at the home of C. C. Elgin, on their way home to Illinois. Mrs. Cornelius of Grand Island is in the city caring for her husband, who was recently injured at the sugar factory. Mrs. Brown of Missouri Valley, who visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bates, over Thanksgiving, returned home today. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Butterfield, who came down from Creighton to spend Thanksgiving, went to Omaha this morning. They will return Saturday and spend Sunday in Norfolk. Mrs. Judge Sullivan, the Misses Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Hart of Columbus, visited friends at the hospital for insane yesterday, and remained over to attend the Innes concert last evening. Miss Otelia Pilger was home from Green Garden precinct, where she is teaching, to spend Thanksgiving. Her sister, Miss Bertha, returned with her to Green Garden, and will visit over Sunday. MR. INNES AND HIS BAND.

Entertained a Norfolk Audience Last Night. PROGRAM WAS CLASSICAL. Audience Incapable of Full Appreciation. Lighter Numbers Were Well Received. Manager Spear Handles the Attraction with Great Credit. Perhaps the entertainment was somewhat too deep for a Norfolk audience and the majority of the people composing it would have been more highly entertained with something of a lighter nature, but certain it is that Innes and his band met a reception here last night that closely resembled coolness, the one spontaneous and enthusiastic exception being the demonstration accorded "Prince Charming," the great musician's new two step. Other numbers were applauded and encored, but in a manner which seemed to indicate a desire on the part of the audience to "get their money's worth" rather than from any special pleasure received. Anyone present, however, will testify to the assertion that harmony and tone were perfect and that they were listening to an organization composed of soloists under the direction of a great leader. While unable to understand perfectly they could appreciate the music to a greater or less extent, but many would have preferred a "tune" occasionally instead of classical flights. Regarding the grand opera singers there was probably not one who could understand what their attempts were, let alone the foreign tongue in which they were rendered. The audience was more impressed by Mme. Noldi's sweet voice and handsome appearance than by the two gentlemen, but probably understood her no better than they did the men. The scenes from "Faust" may have been scenes for a number in the audience but to many they proved rather more tiresome than appreciable. "The Village Blacksmith," the number which held out the strongest inducement to the non-musical members of the audience, proved disappointing, owing to the failure of the electrical effect. The blacksmiths hammered, musically too, but no sparks sprang from their anvils owing to some fault with the electric connections. While the volume of sound was at times too great for the building it was apparent to all that Mr. Innes has accomplished wonders in organizing a band in which much of the blame has been eliminated, and the effect produced more resembled that of a large orchestra than the popular conception of a brass band. It was also apparent to the most uncultured mind that the band was under excellent control and played as though they were one. Perhaps with more frequent entertainments of this character the average audience would be educated up to a plane where they could understand and appreciate, but that time has not yet arrived as far as Norfolk audiences are concerned. It was clearly beyond their grasp. With "Prince Charming" there were two other numbers that were quite fully appreciated. The one was the encore number following the overture in which popular and national airs were harmoniously blended. The other was the number introducing the zither solo. There were no doubts but that the program was cleverly and perfectly executed. Manager Spear is deserving of unlimited praise in his efforts to get Innes, and his success in getting an attendance to fill the Auditorium. That they were unable to understand was no fault of his—he did well his part. The special train from Columbus and the regular train from Creighton brought in a crowd that helped the attendance out very materially. From the Columbus line nearly 100 passengers were secured—10 from Columbus; 11 from Platte Center; 37 from Humphrey and 18 from Madison. They were returned home after the performance by special trains. Innes and his band arrived from York on a special train, reaching the Creighton depot shortly after 8 o'clock. Baggage wagons were waiting and the instruments and other paraphernalia were taken to the Auditorium and the band was in readiness for the rising of the curtain fifteen minutes after their arrival. They left at 9 this morning in a special over the Union Pacific for Kearney where they will entertain this evening. The next attraction billed for the Auditorium is a farce-comedy "Where is Cobb?" which will be given Friday evening, December 7. The Best baled hay that can be got at the Norfolk Feed Mill, phone 121. Popcorn at Schorregge's. Free water colors and medallions at Macy's.
