FRIDAY FACTS.

A daughter was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. P. O'Toole.
Rev. L. W. Scudder will preach in the Presbyterian church Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock. Sabbath school at 10 o'clock.
W. H. Rish has secured the contract for furnishing plumbing supplies to the Norfolk hospital for the insane for the quarter beginning July 1.
Rev. J. P. Ashley, Ph. D., of Fostoria, Ohio, will arrive this evening to remain about a month and during that time will have charge of the services at the First Congregational church. Dr.

Ashley comes highly recommended as a minister and pupil orator as well as an educator, having served one of the eastern colleges in the capacity of president. He will be a guest at the home of Col. S. S. Cotton during his visit to Norfolk.

A fire alarm this afternoon got a quick response from the department although the signal at the pumping station was somewhat confusing, the first indicating a blaze in the Fourth ward and the second in the Third. The fire was finally located in a refuse heap in back of the Freeland barn in Hayes addition. But one company, the Queen City, got to that locality. The members succeeded in extinguishing the blaze with little difficulty.

B. Harrison, father of Mrs. H. J. Cole, suffered a partial stroke of paralysis Thursday morning and is still seriously affected. When called in the morning he failed to respond and investigation developed that he was partially paralyzed. He is conscious at times and able to converse to some extent but no material change is shown in his condition since yesterday morning. He is well along in years and his age will undoubtedly make recovery more slow than though he were younger.

Today's press dispatches state that the Gentry trained animal show which is billed to exhibit in Norfolk tomorrow, suffered disastrously from a wind storm that swept over Grand Island yesterday afternoon. Some of the reports state that the show sustained a loss of about $5,000 to tents, poles, seats and other paraphernalia. One of the leading men of the company is quoted as believing that the show will miss about three dates as a result of the disaster before the damage can be repaired. If this is true Norfolk would be one of the places missed, but as nothing has been heard from the company regarding the cancelling of the date it is to be presumed that they intend to be here and fill the engagement. The street parade is announced to take place at 11 o'clock and performances will be given afternoon and evening.

The Ladies Industrial room will open again in the basement of the Congregational church, July 13.

A meeting of the Senior class, Norfolk High school, is hereby called for this evening at the High school building, to attend to the sale of the Milestone.

THE FOURTH CELEBRATED.

Picnics and Lawn Parties Were Popular.

NEARBY TOWNS ASSISTED.

Celebration for Hospital Patients Was a Success. Several Fourth of July Accidents Added to the List in Norfolk and Vicinity.

Norfolk had no public celebration of the nation's birthday, but her citizens very generally observed the day in one way or another. The weather was of the kind popularly attributed to the day—hot, with threats of showers and thunderstorms during the afternoon. There were picnics and family parties in abundance, while a great many went to neighboring towns where celebrations were held.

Perhaps the largest number of people went to Madison and assisted county seat citizens in an enthusiastic observance of the day. Many drove over and the 11 o'clock Union Pacific passenger was crowded with excursionists. The town was nicely decorated and a vigorous effort to show visitors a good time was put forth. A parade was one of the features of the day and the usual exercises of music and speaking were held. Judge W. M. Robertson of this city made the oration of the day and those who heard him, speak in flattering terms of his address. A ball game between the Madison and Norfolk junior leaguers was a feature of the sports, the former team winning by a score of 6 to 2. A fine display of fireworks in the evening caused a number of Norfolk people to miss their train, it having been reported that the train would be held until after the display. Those who drove came in during all hours of the night, some not getting home until this morning.

The officers, employes and patients of the Norfolk hospital for the insane observed the day in an enjoyable and patriotic manner, a number of people from the city participating. A base ball game between a nine composed of the patients and a picked nine of employes and others was witnessed by the other patients and employes with much interest. Lawn tennis was among the sports enjoyed, there being games during the forenoon and afternoon. The magnificent new flag, one of the largest in the state, was raised and allowed to float during the day from the flag staff of the institution. It had been planned to serve the patients with supper on the lawn but the threatening weather interfered and they were served with an extra spread in the dining room. Guests of the officers were served in the parlor of Dr. and Mrs. Teal. After the supper the patients were assembled on the northwest corner of the grounds where a fine display of fireworks was shown. A large number of Norfolk people drove out to see the display and were well repaid for their attendance. The display was not as large as might have been had not sparks ignited one box of the explosives and caused an independent and somewhat mixed discharge not down on the program. The patients appeared to thoroughly enjoy every feature of the celebration and the officers feel that their efforts in behalf of the state's charges were not in vain. Similar exercises, by direction of the state board, were held at all like institutions of the state.

Taft's grove, south of the city, was a popular resort for picnickers and besides the family and neighborhood picnics there was a large and well planned affair participated in by members of B. B. lodge No. 1, of South Norfolk. This organization was formed at a social some time ago with a membership of 30 and its rolls now disclose about 90 members with more applications to act on. It was formed for social purposes, parliamentary practices, etc., and is composed largely of young people. C. J. Chapman is a leading and enthusiastic member of the society. It now has several degrees of secret work and more are to be added soon. They went to the grove well prepared for a day of pleasure but the storm that threatened cut their pleasures short and they returned home early in the afternoon. Before eating their picnic dinner the officers of the lodge were installed with impressive and interesting ceremonies Mr. Chapman acting as installing officer. Original odes were sung and the exercises were highly interesting, all the picnickers in the grove being invited to attend.

A party of about 50 people from the West Side picnicked at Taft's until the storm threatened early in the afternoon when they returned to town and finished their celebration on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Bunkick. Another picnic party that started the day on the banks of the Northfork river finished their celebration on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Durland.

Fourth of July Accidents. Norfolk and vicinity furnished a share of the usual accidents to young America growing out of a celebration with explosives.

Walter Scudder, son of Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Scudder, was celebrating in a large dry goods box at the home of his parents on North Eleventh street. He had a can of powder in the box beside him and was lighting a piece of punk. A spark from the match or the punk fell into the powder and a serious explosion resulted. The little or fourth finger was almost entirely torn from one of his hands, the bone being broken and he was otherwise burned and injured, the hair being singed from his face. The finger was not amputated but the wound was dressed with the hope of saving the member.

Leo Horrisky had his face filled with powder and was otherwise quite badly burned through the explosion of a toy cannon the powder from the vent having done the damage.

Spencer Butterfield was also slightly burned through the premature explosion of a toy cannon.

A son of August Nenow, who lives two miles north of Pierce, had his hand badly lacerated by the explosion of a cannon cracker while celebrating in Pierce. His nose was also injured and his hat torn. His hand was dressed and amputation may not be necessary.
