Apples are a valuable crop, especially this year, and the man who has an orchard with apples on it is about as fortunate as the man with a corn field bearing ears.

Judge Barnes and his friends have every reason to be proud of his showing before the republican state convention, although not successful on the main point they feel that the developments of the convention fully repaid them for their efforts and they have learned that Madison county has tried and true friends among her neighbors.

Speaking of the queer flukes of luck in the goldfields of Alaska, a writer in Ainslee's Magazine says: "Often after the 'pile' is made accident, disease or death steps in to prevent its legitimate enjoyment."

The plunk favoring the return of Ba-tley to prison is especially commendable, being handled without imputing the motive of the governor, who is given credit for an endeavor to serve the best interests of his constituents.

The demand that custodians of public monies give true and faithful accountings of the various funds entrusted to their care, is a demand which should have the hearty endorsement of all voters, regardless of party.

The demand for fair and equitable taxation will appeal to the justice of every property owner, regardless of his holdings, who must recognize that a fair distribution of taxation is not only just, but that all will be benefited thereby.

Irrigation, under state and national laws, is given unqualified encouragement and it is recognized that with the party back of this matter the state will one day be the garden spot of the country, if not of the world.

The nomination of Hon. S. H. Sedgewick of York, for supreme judge is evidence of the ability of the party to gracefully surmount difficulties with unalloyed credit. The convention was handicapped with an abundance of good material. It is an easy matter to select a worthy candidate when there is but one who stands head and shoulders above all others in point of fitness and ability, but when the field is composed of all good men the difficulty is to make a choice that will meet with popular approval and leave no dissatisfied persons on the part of other candidates or friends. The convention did this and did it well. There is probably not a candidate before the convention but will pull off his coat and do his utmost for the success of the ticket and there are none to question the ability of the one named for the position. It was a happy settlement of an intricate matter.

The candidates for regents are good men and true and there is no outcome of the convention but that men of the party can support with confidence and fervor. Enemies of the party are put to rout and they cannot pick a flaw that will stand the light of investigation.

Wishing to make a study of a portion of the swamp near El Akewa, in Egypt, I set up my easel on the edge of a pool where the ground seemed a little firmer than the rest. Quickly becoming engrossed in my work, I did not notice that I was slowly sinking until I found that my sketching stool had nearly disappeared and my legs were imbedded in the mud almost up to my knees.

Though really quite clear, the water was so alive with mosquito grubs as to appear almost opaque. By thousands every moment the grubs would come to the surface, either crawling up the rushes or floating, and the outer shells soon cracking in the sun left the little insects at liberty. A few seconds sufficed to dry their wings and give them life and strength, and then with him and buzz they joined their brothers in the air, hovering in thousands like a cloud of black smoke over the stagnant pond from which they sprang.

"One man dropped dead when at the weighing of the first clean up he found himself a rich man. There was something wrong with his heart. He had the physical strength to make the fight against bad food and water, to endure the back breaking toil of developing and working out and all the strain of the uncertainty that went before. The supreme moment of success was more than he could stand, and the use of the gold passed from him with its acquirement."

"A certain James Meade lay down with typhoid fever in an outlying camp just as he was starting for home with the accumulations of the year, and he and his bag of dust entered Dawson together on a litter. It took six men to bring him in—alternating four to carry and two to rest—and he paid each man $15 a day. Once in Dawson Meade seemed to grow better, and when his sailing day came he walked to the boat. He reached the wharf and fell dead as he was about to go aboard."

"Brudder and sistahs," sternly said good old Parson Woodlawn after the collection had been taken up upon a recent Sabbath morning, "before the hat was done parsed I expounded the request dat de congregation contribute accawdin to deir means, and I sho expected dat yo' all would chip in magnanimously. But now, upon examination de collection, I finds dat de concocted amount contributed by de whole posse ob yo' am only the significant and pusillanimous sum of sixty-free cents. And at dis junction dar ain't no 'casion for yo' all to look at Brudder Slewfoot, what done circumambulated de hat around, in no such auspicious manner, for, in de dust place, Brudder Slewfoot ain't dat kind of a man, and, in de second place, I done watched him like a hawk all de time mulsel. No, sixty-free cents was all dat was flung in, and I dess wants to say dat, in my humble opinion, instead ob contributin accawdin to yo' means, yo' all contributed accawdin to yo' meanness. De choir will now favor us wid deir reg'lar melodiousness."

According to the Hartford Courant, that paper in 1777 was owned and edited and managed by a woman, whose name comes down to modern days as "the Widow Watson." She had "exclusive charge" of the journal. After a couple of years Mrs. Watson married a leading citizen of Hartford, and after that date she no doubt let him advise and assist in the conduct of the paper. But she holds the record for the first woman editor in the country.

Despite all the attacks upon machinery, an age without tools is an age of drudgery and degradation. If once men toiled 16 hours a day, with a single stroke Watt's engine cut off two hours in the morning for rest and two hours at night for reading. The modern home, with a thousand and one comforts, is the gift of tools. We now compel steel fingers, steel knives, steel wheels and steel wires to do our work. Take away our tools and civilization would go back 100 years.—Newell Dwight Hillis in Woman's Home Companion.

GHAUSTLY EVIDENCE FOUND

Arm and Leg Discovered in Cave Near Ward's Cabin.

MAY BE PART OF KIRK'S BODY.

Fifty Men Searching Premises Near Pluma for Further Traces of the Missing Man—Brother of Alleged Murderer Arrested.

Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 30.—An arm and a leg of a human body were found in a small cave at the rear of Ward's cabin, near Pluma, yesterday. To all outward appearances the members of the body had been placed there recently, and it is generally supposed that they are a portion of the body of Kirk Shepard, the second brother, who has been missing for over a month.

At Ward's preliminary hearing a witness stated that Ward had told Harley Shepard, a brother of the two who have disappeared, that in case the bodies of the two were found on his premises Harley would be blamed for it and that he ought not to have run away.

CLAIMS ARE CONFLICTING.

Officials Say Mills Are Filling Up. Strikers Deny This.

Pittsburg, Aug. 30.—Officials of the mills of the United States Steel corporation that were closed by the strike of the Amalgamated association stated that they are receiving many applications from former employes for work. The announcement that the company would start the mills nonunion has, the officials believe, caused a weakness in the ranks of the strikers. The strikers claim that their ranks are unbroken and strong as ever.

Reports from outside points indicate no change whatever in the strike situation. Much interest is being taken at McKeesport over the announcement that the Demmeler plant will surely be started on Monday, and the strikers say every possible effort will be made peaceably and lawfully to prevent the company making a success of its venture.

The plan of arbitration for the settlement of the great steel strike, offered by Simon Burns has been rejected by President Schwab of the steel trust. Another proposition will be submitted to him by Mr. Burns. President Shaffer denies that Amalgamated lodges are voting on any proposal for calling the strike off.

Adopt Resolutions at Hazelton. Hazelton, Pa., Aug. 30.—With the adoption of the report of the committee on resolutions, the United Mine Workers practically finished their work. The recommendations recommended written instead of verbal agreements with all the coal companies, strict compliance with the present contract, continuation of the card inspection system as now conducted, and instruct President Mitchell and the district presidents to confer with the coal companies regarding card inspection and violation of agreements and to arrange for a joint conference. These officers are invested with power to declare a strike if contracts now in force are not lived up to.

Mine Owners Employing Guards. Fort Scott, Kan., Aug. 30.—In anticipation of a serious strike at the "Big Four" coal mines in southeastern Kansas, the companies have representative nonunion men or those who refuse to strike. The company furnishes them with arms and will, it is said, station them inside the stockades built about the different mines. It was with the assistance of such that the companies were enabled to successfully combat the strikers two years ago. The feeling is becoming stronger daily that a majority of the 45,000 men in the district will go out on Sept. 1.

Francis Eludes Pursuers. Kansas City, Aug. 30.—Bossie Francis, the murderer of Miss Mary Henderson at Columbus, Mo., on Tuesday evening, has thus far eluded his pursuers, and the large posse that has been searching for him partially disbanded, discouraged over the failure of the efforts, after having been, as they supposed, at the point of capturing the negro.

Jensen-Wiobe Wedding. Beatrice, Neb., Aug. 30.—Miss Katherine Jensen, daughter of Hon. Peter Jensen, special United States commissioner to Russia, was married to Gerhardt Wiobe, a merchant of Beatrice, at the home of the bride's parents at Jensen, Neb., yesterday afternoon.

Convict Commits Suicide. Lansing, Kan., Aug. 30.—William Johnson, a four-year convict, committed suicide at the state penitentiary here yesterday by drinking a large quantity of alcohol. He was sent up from Dodge City and had three years to serve.

Textile Strike at Columbia. Columbia, S. C., Aug. 30.—The strike of the textile union continues. Yesterday showed no signs of weakening on either side. The mill officials and their operatives each predict defeat for the other.

Coler, Peabody and Low Named. New York, Aug. 30.—The conference committee of the Citizens' union selected three out of the six names to be recommended to the committee of 107, and later to the general conference of the anti-Tammany organization for the fusion nomination for mayor of Greater New York. The three names selected are: George Foster Peabody, banker, Independent Democrat; Bird S. Coler, comptroller, Democrat; Seth Low, president of Columbia university, Republican.

Fire Raging at Scranton, Ia. Des Moines, Aug. 30.—A message from Scranton, Ia., received this morning, says a fire has destroyed 17 business houses, a loss of about $50,000. The fire is still beyond control.

In an accident due to a spreading rail on the Southern railroad near East St. Louis Thursday, Frank Haech, chief car inspector of the road, lost his life, Elmer Drum, fireman, was fatally and Scott McElroy, engineer, seriously injured.

The Ring-bills. The ring-bill does not disdain an insect diet. Beetles, grasshoppers, locusts and termites are all readily devoured, as well as ticks and bots picked from the hides of cattle. I have sometimes amused myself by watching the bold yet cautious and gentle manner in which one of these ravens will approach a reclining ox and, after a preliminary course of soothing caresses, accompanied by a soft "cawing" note, insert his head into the ear and dexterously extract the ticks. These birds always seem to have a good understanding with the older and more experienced oxen, who will, at a hint from one of them, lie down and place themselves in the most favorable position for the extraction of their parasites.—Stark's Birds of South Africa.
