The Norfolk bicycle meet on Friday afternoon, September 27, under the auspices of W. C. Ahlman, promises to be a first-class attraction. A number of first-class riders have signified their intention of participating and the races will undoubtedly be swift and close. Eight events, from a 50-yard slow race to a five-mile handicap, are on the program, for which prizes, ranging in value from 25 cents to $22 are offered. There will be a band concert before the races begin and music between events.

J. W. Reece, formerly in the livery business here, last week succeeded in purchasing a carload of fine horses in Norfolk, which have been shipped to the Chicago market. This is one of the first carloads of fine horses that have been purchased here but there will undoubtedly be others in the near future. Farmers realize that it is profitable to raise fine stock and whereas there has formerly been a demand here for good horseflesh the demand is about supplied and there will undoubtedly be a surplus of horses from now on for the market.

The heavy frost last night was no half-hearted affair—it was virtually a freeze-up and the growing vegetation that withstood its assault was of unusual toughness or had extra good protection. Grass and foliage was frozen stiff this morning while ice to a considerable thickness froze over still water. The freeze of last night and the frost of the night before will undoubtedly retire most vegetation from the field of activity. They were the hardest early September frosts that have been experienced in this part of the country for years. Fortunately much of the produce was so fully matured as to be beyond the reach of frosts, but considerable of the late corn was damaged, while tomatoes, melons and vines of like character were finished completely. It was almost noon today before the frost had entirely disappeared from shady places.

NEBRASKA FIRSTS.

Historical Society Gives Out Some Events of State's History.

The Nebraska State Historical society has prepared some interesting facts which they are pleased to label "A Few Nebraska Firsts" that will be of interest to the people of the state. They are:

The first Nebraska Indians—so far as now ascertained—were a branch of the Pawnees, who inhabited this country 500 or 1000 years ago. They lived in lodges made of poles and sod, built on the tops of rounded hills, generally overlooking a valley. They made pottery from clay mixed with pulverized clam shells; they opened up limestone quarries in order to get the flint from the limestone. The remains of their homes and works are found beneath three to ten feet of soil in Cass, Douglas, Lancaster, Otoe and other eastern counties, sometimes with large oak trees above them. Further study of them now being made by the State Historical Society is expected to yield more information.

The first white men on Nebraska soil who left a clear and undisputed record of their visit were the Mallet brothers, Frenchmen, who in 1739 came up the Missouri, wintered with the Pawnees on the Loup near Genoa, and the next spring followed the Platte to the forks, then up the North Platte some distance, then across to the South Platte, and up that stream to the vicinity of Denver, thence south to Santa Fe. The Colorado expedition in 1540 and other Spanish expeditions from Santa Fe undoubtedly came near Nebraska, possibly came into it, the question is not certainly settled.

The first white settlement in Nebraska was Bellevue, named in 1805 by Manuel Lisa, a Spanish trader; established in 1810 by the American Fur company, of St. Louis.

The first white child born in Nebraska, whose name and date of birth are definitely known, was Samuel Pearce Merrill, son of Rev. and Mrs. Moses Merrill, Baptist missionaries to the Otoes. He was born at Bellevue, July 13, 1845.

The first army post in Nebraska was Fort Atkinson, established in 1819, abandoned in 1827. It was on the site of what is now the village of Calhoun, Washington county. There were no doubt children born and marriages made at Ft. Atkinson, but the record of them has not been preserved.

The first Nebraska newspaper was the Palladium, set up and printed at Bellevue, November 14, 1754, published by Thomas Morton and D. E. Reed.

The first Nebraska court house was erected in July, 1855, at Calhoun, Washington county.

The first steambot to navigate Nebraska waters was the "Western Engineer," in 1819, carrying Lieutenant Long's party of explorers to the mouth of the Platte.

The first Nebraska school began November 25, 1833, at Bellevue, taught by Mrs. Moses Merrill. The school children were mostly Otoe Indians and half-breeds.

The first Nebraska railroad opened to the public was the Union Pacific. Ground was broken at Council Bluffs, December 2, 1863. The first regular train was run March 13, 1866, from Omaha to North Bend—60 miles.

Dr. H. L. Scoggin left today for Mitchell, this state. He has rented his house in the Heights to J. H. Oxnam and has discontinued his dental office at Stanton, storing the office fixtures in Norfolk.

The services that were to have been held in Trinity Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, will be held at 10 in the morning, instead, on account of the meeting of the Ladies guild in the afternoon.

The high school foot ball team is arranging with Columbus for a game here either on the 5th or 11th of October. The boys expect to provide a number of good games this season if they are given proper encouragement but will require the financial aid of citizens toward meeting the expenses of visiting teams.

The work of putting in the new steel bridge across the Norfolk on Main street is progressing very satisfactorily. The steel casings that are to be filled with small stones and cement to form the piers are being leveled up and the work of placing the girders will soon commence. The old bridge is still in place and being used.

The base ball game of yesterday afternoon was not a magnificent success, having wound up in a row at the end of the eighth inning, the Creighton players being dissatisfied with the result of the game which was 7 to 5 in the Norfolk team's favor at the time it ended. Because of the chilly and unsettled weather and a lack of interest on the part of the people it is probable that there will be no other games on the home grounds this year and the season will close with the two games at Stanton Friday and Saturday.

Wayne Republican: Some of the boys hung Czolgosz in effigy on Main street sometime during Saturday night. The first persons on the street Sunday morning were greeted with the figure suspended from a rope drawn across the street from an electric light pole in front of Goll's meat market to a telephone pole on the opposite side of the street. The figure was labeled "Czolgosz" and fastened to its feet was a card bearing a warning to all anarchists. All day Sunday the figure remained suspended until sometime during the following evening when it was burned down.

Miss Marie Bryan has resigned her position as Sixth grade teacher at the Lincoln building to accept a position in the Anaconda, Montana, schools at a salary of $80 per month. Miss Bryan has been visiting at Anaconda the past several weeks and began her work at that place last Monday.

HOLLENBECK FOR JUDGE

Democrat Named to Head Fusion Ticket in Nebraska.

FUSION OF FORCES IS EFFECTED.

J. H. Bayston and F. H. Hawxby, Populists, Are Selected as the Candidates for University Regents—Adjourn in the Morning.

Lincoln, Sept. 18.—Fusion between the Democratic and Populist parties of Nebraska was effected by their state conventions after sessions held in separate halls, beginning shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Tuesday, and continuing until 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. As a result of the agreement to fuse the Democrats are given the head of the ticket, supreme court justice, and the two regents of the university go to the Populists. The ticket is: Justice of Supreme Court—Conrad Hollenbeck of Dodge county.

Regents of University—J. H. Bayston, Frontier county; Fred G. Hawxby, Nemaha county.

Both conventions were well attended, but the Populists' proceedings were apathetic compared with previous state gatherings. The Democrats, on the other hand, showed more of their old-time vigor. Absolute faith in the leadership of W. J. Bryan marked the speeches and resolutions and the mention of his name was the signal for hearty applause. Hostility was declared to reorganization of the party on any line of policy different from the present.

Partisanship, owing to the tragedy at Buffalo, tempered the speeches and resolutions in both conventions and feeling references to the dead president was made by each chairman.

Convention Called to Order.

At 2:40 o'clock, at the Funke opera house, Chairman Hall of the state central committee called the Democratic convention to order. He introduced as temporary chairman Hon. W. H. Thompson of Grand Island. Chairman Thompson began with a tribute to President McKinley and a declaration against anarchy and anarchists and continued in part as follows:

"I am glad to greet a Democracy that knows no surrender. Would that there were more of us; that those who left us in the last two campaigns were of us. Why should they not return? Behold the ruin which followed in the wake of their disloyalty to party. Through their assistance the declaration of independence is made a mockery; the Monroe doctrine crippled, if not robbed of much of its virtue; a colonial system fastened upon us, with its wars and rumors of wars; a menacing standing army, with its increased burdens; an income tax swept away and a prohibitory tariff in its place, fostering trusts and stifling competition. These are some of the wrecks that lie in the pathway of this suicidal policy, and all for what? That a gold dollar might be said to be the unit of value instead of the historic silver dollar.

"The grand old Democratic party is willing to be reorganized, if need be, by Democrats, loyal and true, but those who have been beating the snare drum in the Republican band are not the fellows who should handle the cornet in the Democratic procession.

"May I ask why all this talk of reorganization? If we are to reorganize on what line?

"Is a Democratic principle to be deserted simply because it has met defeat at the polls. If a platform is the consensus of opinion of the majority of a party, and if the minority should yield to the will of the majority so expressed, can there be a question as to where the Democracy stands today?"

With the addition of George W. Phillips of Columbus as secretary, the temporary organization was made permanent. While Chairman Thompson was selecting the committee on resolutions and one to confer with the Populists, William J. Bryan was called to the platform and spoke for a few moments. He paid a tribute to President McKinley and declared that every loyal Democrat condemned the assassination. He urged the Democrats to remain firm in the faith and said victory would yet come to them.

Proceedings of Populists.

The Populists at the same hour, in the Lincoln Auditorium, were called to order by State Chairman Edmisten. Out of the 2,117 delegates provided for in the call, only 400 or 500 were present. E. Thomas of Omaha was selected as temporary chairman. Mr. Thomas made a short speech. The convention by a viva voce vote declared its adherence and humiliation at the assassination of President McKinley; bespoke its sympathy with the sorrowing widow and relatives, and denounced the crime of the anarchist, Czolgosz, and demanded the enactment of laws defining anarchy and providing adequate punishment. After the appointment of a committee on resolutions and one on conference with the Democrats the convention, as a further mark of respect to the president, adjourned until 5 o'clock. Nominations were declared in order after reconvening by the chairman and E. O. Kretsinger was selected on the second ballot and declared the nominee of the convention, coalitioned, however, on ratification by the Democrats.

Hollenbeck to Head Ticket.

The evening session of the Democrats was held in representative hall at the state capitol. The committee on conference with the Populists announced that an agreement had been reached whereby one party was to have the judgeship and the other the two regents of the university in such manner as the committees should decide. Nominations for supreme court judge brought out the names of W. D. Oldham, Judge Grace, Judge Conrad Hollenbeck, E. P. Duffie, W. H. Kelleger and W. G. Hastings. The first ballot resulted: Oldham, 151; Grace, 15; Hollenbeck, 426; Duffie, 332; Hastings, 154; Kelleger, 5. Necessary to a choice, 542. Judge Hollenbeck of Fremont was nominated on the second ballot, receiving 542 1/2 votes, a half vote more than necessary. His nomination was made unanimous, subject to the approval of the Populists. The committee on conference announced that the Populists had named E. O. Kretsinger as its candidate for judge. The convention called for the report of the platform committee. The Democratic platform, as reported and adopted, so far as it deals with national issues, is the shortest on record in this state, being confined to two short planks. It says:

"We declare our unflinching allegiance to and belief in the principles of the Democratic party as enunciated by our great leaders from Jefferson to Bryan and as explicitly set forth in the platform adopted by the national convention at Kansas City in 1900. While we believe, now, as in the past, that the United States should continue to be an asylum for oppressed of all European nations who come here with the honest purpose of becoming citizens and to share in the blessings of a government based on the consent of the governed, yet we demand more stringent immigration laws, so devised and executed as to exclude anarchists of all countries from entering American territory and we demand such legislation, both state and national, as will suppress anarchy in this country."

Over 500 words are devoted to state issues, the most notable declaration being in condemnation of the parole from the penitentiary of former State Treasurer Bartley by Governor Savage.

The Populist platform, which is very long, renews allegiance to the principles contained in former platforms. At 10 o'clock balloting was resumed on supreme judge, each convention holding out for its respective nominee.

Soon after 1 o'clock the Populists receded, accepted Judge Hollenbeck as their candidate and he was made the nominee of both conventions.

J. H. Bayston of Frontier county and Fred G. Hawxby of Nemaha county, nominated by the Populists for regents, were endorsed by the Democrats, and at 2 a. m. the conventions adjourned.

CRUSHED UNDER HORSE'S BODY.

Cowboy in Pawnee Bill's Show Fatally Injured in Grand Entry at Hastings.

Hastings, Neb., Sept. 18.—While the grand entry of Pawnee Bill's show was in progress yesterday afternoon one of the cowboys was thrown from his horse and seriously injured. It is doubtful if he will live. The accident was caused by one of the horses catching a shoe of the horse in front of it. Both rider and horse were thrown to the ground. Before the man could be rescued the horse rolled over the man's body, crushing his chest.
