The grand lodge I. O. O. F. meets in Kearney next Tuesday for a three-days' session. H. L. Spaulding and S. R. McFarland will represent the local lodge.

The Madison Star says that at a joint meeting of the democratic and populist central committees recently held in Battle Creek the name of Henry Riekenberg, populist nominee for commissioner in the Second district, was withdrawn and the name of Simon Finnegan ordered placed on both tickets.

Returning delegates to the state federation of women's clubs at Wayne, to the number of 35 or 40, were taken by Superintendent Reynolds in his private car to the sugar factory, upon their arrival from Wayne yesterday morning. Manager Bundick showed them through the factory and explained to them as far as was possible in the short time allowed how granulated sugar is produced from beets.

Two connected bulbs with little whirligigs running inside, each in an opposite direction, have attracted considerable attention to the window of Vail's jewelry store recently and there have been many guesses made as to the power which rotates them. Some assert it is the heat, others the light and others the air. Mr. Vail says he will permit the people to guess for a while and will then inform them what causes the motion.

The following potato story comes from Burt county and was published in the Tekamah Burtonian: "A farmer from near the Missouri river, brought a bushel of potatoes to town last Saturday and traded them for groceries. He received a sack of flour, a side of bacon, 10 pounds of sugar, a nickel's worth of peanuts and a pound of 'Battle Ax.' He informed us that he intended to bring in two bushels but was glad he didn't as he would not have been able to carry his groceries home."

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Adams and son, Clyde, returned on the noon train from Blair where they had been attending the Baptist state convention. Mr. Adams reports a very enjoyable and instructive session and believes that much good for the church was accomplished. Rev and Mrs. H. E. Ryder did not return, owing to the fact that Mrs. Ryder was sick. Mr. Ryder will therefore exchange pulpits tomorrow with Rev. C. E. Tingley of Blair who will preach here, morning and evening, at the usual hours.

Lyons Sun: A score or more of Burt county people have purchased a piece of land in Minnesota, north of Minneapolis, upon which there is a beautiful lake with a magnificent beach. There is an abundance of shade along the shore and the lake contains an abundance of all kinds of game fish. It is the intention of the owners to erect cottages and utilize the place for summer outing. The location is ideal and the plan is highly commendable. Mr. Conkling of Tekamah and John F. Piper of Lyons are prime movers in the enterprise.

The republican caucus was held last evening at the city hall pursuant to call. Organization was effected by the election of W. A. Hemleben chairman and M. C. Hazen secretary. S. W. Hayes and C. F. Eiseley were placed in nomination for justices of the peace, James M. Covert and W. H. Livingston for constables, H. G. Bruggeman for assessor, Wm. Raasch for road overseer of district No. 8, and Ernest Boldt for road overseer of district No. 1. Before the convention adjourned the precinct committee was authorized to fill any vacancies that may occur.

Miss Irma G. Allen, general worker for the Nebraska Children's Home society, with headquarters in Omaha, is in the city in the interests of that society. Miss Allen is enthusiastic for the work of the society which is accomplishing much good. Through it many homeless children have been provided with comfortable homes and many childless homes have been provided with children. Miss Allen related a couple of instances illustrating her work and the work of the society. In one a little 7-year-old boy was taken from a squalid, filthy home. When taken he was wretchedly clothed and had a sore on his leg resulting from a burn that had not received proper attention. The child was taken to a hospital, where his wound was dressed and is now in a comfortable home. In another case two little girls were taken from two women and an aged couple that had been traveling through the country and begging for several years. The old couple was taken to a poor farm, one of the women was taken to a home for the feeble minded and the other was sent to friends while the two children were taken in charge by the society and have been comfortably cared for. Miss Allen says they are now interested in finding homes for girls of 12 to 14 years of age. She says the society has had an especially busy year and has worked throughout the entire state. The local board is represented by C. S. Hayes, president, and Miss Josephine Durand, treasurer. Anything that will aid the society will be thankfully received from the people of Norfolk and vicinity.

Edmund George and Night Watch Herman Koch had a dispute last night in which George came out quite seriously battered. George went into the Surf Exchange restaurant for his supper and sat down to one of the tables without removing his hat. The proprietor requested that he uncover his head and conduct himself in a gentlemanly manner as there were ladies present, which George refused to do and started in on a highly respectable language that both head and hat were his property and he would do with them as he saw fit. The dispute continued until it got quite noisy and a fight threatened, when the restaurant man went to the door and called Officer Koch. The officer proceeded to take George into custody and when out on the street the officer's authority for making the arrest was questioned, and George refused to accompany him to the jail, whereupon the officer knocked him down and those who witnessed the trouble said that he clubbed him when he was down. The officer finally got the man in jail and a surgeon's skill was required to dress the wounds in his head ten or a dozen stitches being required to close up his scalp. This morning George was charged with disorderly conduct and will have a hearing in police court. As usual there are two sides to the question. If George had been inclined to conduct himself properly no trouble would have resulted. The officer, also, should not have lost his temper and been unnecessarily severe with his prisoner. Bystanders assert that there was sufficient help at hand to have taken George to jail without undue violence. The officers of the law should be upheld in performing their duty but they should form no extravagant opinion of that duty nor employ harsher measures than the circumstances require.

People Believe In It

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising nowadays. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one—Perry Davis' Painkiller—has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says, but upon what the remedy does. There is but one Painkiller—Perry Davis'.

Joseph L. Underwood, 77 years of age, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Tacker, on South Thirteenth street, of abscess of the left lung, Friday, and was buried yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. E. Tingley of the Blair Baptist church, who exchanged pulpits with Rev. H. E. Ryder yesterday, conducted the funeral.

The Nebraska School of Agriculture is especially planned to suit the needs of the farm boy. It opens for a six-months' course on November 11, 1901, at a time when the boy can be spared from the farm. This course gives boys and girls some knowledge of English and mathematics and at the same time gives them instruction in the practical subjects which are essential to successful life on the farm. Write to the University of Nebraska for information.

Carl Johnson observed his 13th birthday Saturday by inviting a company of young friends to a shinney party at his home, corner of Tenth street and Koenigstein avenue. Carl's guests enjoyed the occasion very thoroughly but the youthful host was struck on the head above his eye with a shinney stick and a wound laid open that required three stitches by a surgeon to close. Carl is now convinced that the 13th is an unlucky birthday on which to give a party and will never do so again.

The C. St. P., M. & O. train due here at 10:30 this morning was derailed at Emerson and the train service was somewhat interfered with and delayed. The train that left here this morning at 6 o'clock and got as far as Emerson made the return trip, arriving here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon, bringing the passengers and mail that should have come at 10:30. It is not known how serious the accident was but it is probable that little damage, outside of the interruption of the service, was done.

Farm lands are becoming high priced and competition is every day becoming more and more severe. We are learning that good crops or bad crops are not the result of chance, but largely our ability to control all the conditions which influence crop production. So we are learning that the farm boy cannot get too much knowledge of the business he is to follow as a profession, and that the School of Agriculture at Lincoln is a good place for him to start along this line. The school opens November 11, 1901.

Pierce Leader: The famous wild man of Foster and Willow Creek precincts has been captured at last, and his apprehension is due to the bravery of Ike and Mac Spar, Star Vinson and others. He was captured Saturday and proved to be Fred Lesner, a well known unfortunate of Willow Creek precinct, who made periodical escapes from home. And this is the prosaic ending of all those thrilling, hair raising and dime novel stories told of the wonderful wild man of Foster. The human family is a mixture of gullible, superstitions and childish creatures. The wild man of Foster can now be laid away with the mountain lion of South Branch.

Sessions & Bell received a telephone message today from a Lincoln undertaking firm stating that the body of Mary Duncan, daughter of Q. A. Duncan, would be shipped here for burial. It is expected that the body will be received here tomorrow night and will be buried in Prospect Hill cemetery Wednesday morning, without public services. Mr. Duncan, who is a traveling man, lived here a number of years, moving to Lincoln in 1896. Mrs. Duncan and her father are both buried here and the daughter is to be buried beside them. Norfolk friends of the family will undoubtedly extend their sympathy and offer what assistance may be necessary.

A distressing accident occurred late Saturday night on Madison avenue between Twelfth and Thirteenth street, that resulted in the death of a horse belonging to Mr. Denninger, who lives southwest of the city. The night was dark and Mr. Denninger and a friend were on their way home, when at the point indicated they drove onto the embankment of dirt thrown out of the ditch dug for the waterworks extension. One of the horses rolled into the ditch and when rescued yesterday morning had one leg broken and was so weak that it was found necessary to kill it. The two men worked hard Saturday night to release the horse from its perilous position and were at it bright and early yesterday morning but their efforts were unavailing and the condition of the animal when taken out made the killing necessary. The city is blamed by many for the accident, because the ditch was not fenced nor was there a light posted to warn people of the danger. The ditch was dug early this summer on the assurance of the water main manufacturers that the pipe for the extension would be here by the time the trench was ready. Since then they have met with oft repeated excuses of the manufacturers and have kept the trench open, believing that it would be a useless expense to dig it again after the pipe arrived. They have now been notified that the pipe was shipped on the 2nd and it is expected here some time this week. The ditch has been cause for dread and worry to people living near it, but this is the most serious accident that has happened thus far, and the city is likely to suffer nothing worse than to repay the owner for his loss. It would seem that the least the city could do would have been the posting of danger signals along the ditch and the only excuse for not doing this was that the lanterns were stolen. However, the value of a horse would have been sufficient to purchase many lanterns and that they were stolen and the thieves not apprehended, was scant excuse for not protecting the public. Different stories are told as to how the accident happened. One is that the horses became frightened and ran into the ditch and another is that the driver was of the opinion that he was on a high grade and was endeavoring to turn down into the road. The matter will be investigated and it is probable that the owner will be reimbursed without the expense of a suit, if it is not found that he was more at fault than the city.

Yesterday was a rare and pleasant fall day and the weather was all that could be wished, but today Old Brens is again asserting himself and hurrying the housewife with her fall cleaning and preparations for winter.

An Antelope County woman won an eight-pound ham in a corn exhibit contest. The male men might do well to imitate the lady's style of farming. They should be permitted to sit on the fence and watch her plow, at least one day during the coming spring.

Neligh is after a curfew ordinance that will keep children off the streets after dark. There are few towns left but that have a law of this kind and while it may not be strictly enforced it has undoubtedly been beneficial in correcting an evil. There are now few Norfolk children on the streets after 9 o'clock unless they have business.

It is reported that the newly constructed power dam in the Elkhorn at Stanton was taken out yesterday by high water. This is the dam that has been building by the citizens of Stanton for power purposes, at a large expense, and if the work of the people of the enterprising little city on the east has gone for naught they are entitled to the sympathy of all their friends in Norfolk and elsewhere. It is hoped that the report may not be true, or if true, that the loss may soon be replaced.

Tilden Citizen: Last year George Maynard lost all his hogs except eight sows. From this remnant he has sold $19 worth of pork and still has three of the original sows left. The average age of the young hogs was a little less than 8 months and the average weight something over 250 pounds. When one considers that the pigs were born in January and that 49 out of 50 live ones were saved and safely fattened, it is readily seen that something else beside "luck" was responsible for the good showing.

The telephone district under the control of Manager G. T. Sprecher of this city is the largest in the state and is constantly expanding. Within a few weeks it is hoped to have connections made at Ewing with towns west of there and after this is completed an exchange will be established at Stanton. Owing to increasing business that way another circuit is to be established between this city and Creighton as soon as possible. The office at Newman Grove has been recently opened, thus giving connections with towns south of here.

Columbus Telegram: The most ardent advocate of irrigation in Nebraska would hardly claim more extravagant returns from irrigated soil than the products derived this year by Olin Cox from a four-acre garden patch on his place two and one-half miles east of Columbus. The record reads that Mr. Cox obtained from one and a half acres of strawberries $114 and from two and a half acres of watermelons $373, a total of $487 from four acres of land, which would have been practically barren in a season like last summer. The application of fundamental arithmetic will determine the average returns to be $196.72 per acre.

From Hot to Cold.

Dysentery is prevalent everywhere in summer and is due to miasmatic poisons, and begins abruptly with inflammation of the mucous lining of the large bowel. In America the disease is common, but properly treated does not result as seriously as in the tropics. Perry Davis' Pain Killer is the best known remedy and the most efficacious in the treatment of dysentery.

WANTED—15 head of horses and 6 head of cows to winter. If good milk cows would winter them for their milk. Leave word at this office.

Blood.

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor.

There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high, we are being refreshed, bone muscle and brain, in body and mind, with continual flow of rich blood.

This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood, is food, to keep the blood rich. When fails, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It sets the body going again—man and child.

Have you not tried it, send for free sample, desirable taste will surprise you.
