Pierce Leader: F. H. Grunwald received a letter on Tuesday from an uncle in Germany, Franz Hinrich Grunwald, that was read with great interest. The uncle is over 100 years of age, being born April 8, 1801, and it is marvelous that so aged a gentleman is able to write a letter. F. H. says that the old gentleman is in full possession of all of his mental faculties, except that of hearing.

Madison Star: Charlie Clute, who for the past 27 years has resided in Madison county, left with his family for Boyd county Monday, where he will make his future home. Mr. Clute and John Frisch brought to Madison with an ox team the first timber that was ever sold out of a lumber yard in Madison. The Star is extremely sorry to see Mr. Clute and his estimable family leave this community.

The pupils of the Fifth grade in the Lincoln building, Miss Edith Morrow teacher, have raised the money necessary and purchased a bookcase as a start for a school library. They already have 100 books in their library and expect to add more from time to time. This is a commendable movement and people having desirable books to spare could perhaps do no better than contribute them and thus encourage the children in their efforts.

The side walk on North Fourth street leading to the Auditorium is in a condition that might result in injury to someone and a damage suit against the city. There are several broken planks that should be repaired. Recently a little girl stepped into one of the holes and hurt her leg, but fortunately she sustained no serious injury. There are other walks in the city that need the same sort of treatment and a tour of the side walk inspector and repairer would undoubtedly result beneficially.

The Pierce Call relates an instance of an Omaha citizen who was visiting there and became impressed with the price at which sewing machines were offered by a local dealer. He went home and learned that the Omaha dealers were offering the same machine at a cost of $10 or $15 more than the Pierce merchant asked and immediately sent in an order to the Pierce merchant for a machine. This should be of advantage to people who have the impression that they can buy goods cheaper in Omaha or other large cities than they can at home.

A. Miller, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Perhaps You Wonder

if the tormenting cold that made last winter one long misery will be as bad this year. Certainly not, if you take Allen's Lung Balsam when tickling and rawness in the throat announce the presence of the old enemy. Do not expect the cold to wear itself out. Take the right remedy in time. Allen's Lung Balsam is free from opium.

Some of Norfolk's early risers report that a splendid rainbow overspread the eastern heavens this morning at 5:30 o'clock, before the sun had risen. The moon shone brilliantly, however, and was responsible for the unusual display.

Miss Mary Wacker returned this noon from a three-months' visit to her old home in Kirkingen, Germany. She enjoyed a very pleasant trip and had a good visit but was delighted to get back to Norfolk. Her sister, Theresa, returned with her.

Fred Rothenburg died Friday of cancer of the stomach at his home 12 miles north of the city and was buried today from Hoskins. Shortly before his death Mr. Rothenburg had purchased a farm near the sugar factory and expected to take possession soon.

After a week or more of splendid weather that was heartily appreciated the storm king again took possession last night and almost an inch of rain was precipitated. It cannot be said, however, that the people were thankful for the moisture as the roads were just getting in fair condition and outdoor work has been delayed.

Creighton Courier: A deal was closed last week whereby John Conway, of Holt county, purchased the Creighton Roller Mill of J. L. Packard. Mr. Conway will take possession about the first of November. Jake Coe who has been employed for the past four or five years in the Lower Mills, will take charge of the Creighton Mill under the new management.

The horse attached to the laundry delivery wagon took an extra spurt this morning on West Madison avenue when the driver was not handy and delivered laundry in its own way which would be far from satisfactory either to the laundry management or its customers. The packages were scattered promiscuously along the muddy street while the animal exerted his best speed in reaching his barn.

The Fremont Commercial club is at present interested in improving the roads leading to that city and expects soon to be advised by a government expert as to how the roads in this part of the country can best be improved. The merchants of that city value the patronage of the farmers in the neighborhood to the extent that they will do all in their power to have the city accessible at all times regardless of the weather.

Stanton Picket: As husking progresses it is found that corn is yielding better than expected. Herman Draube says that his which is in the valley, is husking out 45 bushels to the acre. Other fields are yielding various amounts but nearly all of them more than was expected. Loebe Bros. have finished gathering one field which made 25 bushels per acre. It was their poorest corn and latest planting and at one time many believed that it would not make any corn.

The game warden made a raid along the Platte river Wednesday near Louisville and in a 10-mile trip captured and destroyed 24 nets and liberated over 2,000 fish from boxes. The majority of the fish were small, but several weighed as high as 10 pounds apiece. Twenty-two of the nets were found in one place. They were piled up on the bank and burned. It is very evident from this that an effort to protect the fish and game of Nebraska was begun none too soon.

The Ainsworth Star Journal speaks in highly complimentary terms of an elocutionary entertainment given by Miss Esther Mason of this city at the Brown county court house on the evening of the 21st under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church. Among other things the Star-Journal says: "Miss Mason is a finished elocutionist, has a good voice, splendid facial expression, and as an impersonator is one of the best we have listened to in years. Her 'Village Gossip,' 'The Deacon's Ride,' and other readings were the very acme of perfection, while her Scotch dialect pieces would outdo a canny Scotsman himself."

Friends of the home patronage movement will recognize the pertinency of the suggestion that an important home industry is a good flouring mill and cannot fail to understand that the patronage is a factor in maintaining such an industry and that through it much good accrues to the town. For instance the Sugar City Cereal Mill company pays about $1,000 a month for help and about $10,000 a month to the farmers for the grain used. Merchants, who receive a large amount of the benefit from this source, can afford to be reciprocal, and anyone who desires their money kept at home to the advantage of the city will favor the home manufacturer as far as possible. There is no industry perhaps, in the city, that comes as near keeping the money it receives at home as does the mill.

The fire department responded to an alarm Saturday evening and experienced some difficulty in locating the fire but were finally informed that it was at the home of E. M. Clement in the Glendower house in the western part of the city and that their services were not required as the fire was out. The blaze started in a barrel of household articles in a storeroom and is supposed to have been caused by mice. It was successfully smothered with a blanket. Norfolk has again been remarkably fortunate this year in regard to fires, the loss of Mr. Pettitt's barn perhaps being the most serious and could not have been more than a few hundred dollars. This result is due largely to the fact that Norfolk has a very efficient volunteer department and while the members do not pretend much on their style or a dress parade showing they are at all times available when property is threatened and have an ability and promptness in coping with the flames that gives them small chance to effect serious damage.

Norfolk lodge No. 97, A. O. U. W., observed the thirty-third anniversary of the founding of that order yesterday by a delegation of its members attending the morning services at the M. E. church on invitation of the pastor, Rev. J. F. Poucher. They were well repaid for attending and were treated to a very eloquent and earnest discourse on fraternity, with charity and the religious teachings of secret societies as the ground work. The Bible lesson was I Corinthians 13 and the text from II Timothy 2:15—"Study to show thyself approved of God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." The uncertainty of life and the absolute certainty of death were impressively presented and religious as well as fraternal lessons were pictured in glowing phrases. Many who attended were flattered in their comments on the sermon and avowed it to be the best they had ever heard on a similar occasion. The attendance of members of the order was somewhat disappointing but those fortunate enough to be present were gratified at the satisfactory way in which the occasion had been observed.

Women and Jewels.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure-all, but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. Green's reliable remedies at Asa K. Leonard's.

Get Green's special almanac.

Barnum's Monkeys

"All well—all happy—lots of fun". That is the regular report from the monkey cage of Barnum's Circus ever since the keepers began dosing the monkeys with Scott's Emulsion. Consumption was carrying off two thirds of them every year and the circus had to buy new ones.

One day a keeper accidentally broke a bottle of Scott's Emulsion near the monkey cage and the monkeys eagerly lapped it up from the floor. This suggested the idea that it might do them good. Since then the monkeys have received regular doses and the keepers report very few deaths from consumption. Of course it's cheaper to buy Scott's Emulsion than new monkeys—and that suits the circus men.

Consumption in monkeys and in man is the same disease. If you have it or are threatened with it can you take the hint?

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.
