at Lincoln. A beautiful horn chair on exhibition in the window of Leonard's drug store has been attracting considerable attention during the past day or two. It is from Pocatello, Idaho, where it was made by the Indians and is a gift from

Ed Grant, formerly of this city, to Phil. Hull.

The committee of the Northeast Nebraska Teachers' association will meet iu Norfolk tonight and tomorrow to prepare a program for the annual meeting of the association which will be held here during next April. Prof. W. G. Hirons of Pierce is chairman of the committee.

There was not a very large attendance at the emancipation proclamation celebration held last night in Shurtz hall by the colored people but a very good time was enjoyed by those who did attend. The program was good, likewise the music and a fine supper was served, the tables having been nicely decorated.

Ed Zeillmer, who sold his farm and all his personal property last July and went to Germany, intending to make that his future home, found that his western experience and the changed conditions in the Fatherland were not agreeable companions and has returned. He has decided that Nebraska is good enough for him and will undoubtedly make this state his permanent home. The Thum candy kitchen and restaurant was closed today under mortgage. The particulars of the transaction are not obtainable but it is hoped by Mr. Thum's friends that he will be able to adjust his difficulties and reopen at an early day. He appeared to have built up a very good business and this move will be a surprise to those who considered that he was doing nicely. Winside Tribune : Hiram Oman, the oldest son of P. W. Oman, died at his home adout nine miles southeast of Winside last Friday at about one o'clock with pneumonia. Mr. Omen leaves a wife and children. His death was quite unexpected as he was only sick a week. The funeral services took place on Sunday at Wayne in the M. E. church conducted by Rev. Drais of Winside. His remains were laid to rest in the

ARMOUR & CO. ADVANCE.

The Norfolk Branch to Have New and Commodious Ouarters.

Armour & Co., who established a business house in Norfolk a year ago last August under the management of W. A. Hemleben, have decided that larger facilities were needed here. Their business has been largely that of buying and dressing poultry and has been conducted in the old frame building on North Fifth street near the Dudley livery barn.

Mr. Hemleben today closed a lease with J. W. Ransom for the Bruggeman information cheerfully furnished upon block on east Main street and expects application. to take possession on or about February 15. Improvements to fit the building for the business will be commenced as soon as possible and both floors of the block will be used. This will give the company much better facilities for handling their growing Norfolk trade and offers the hope that they will be considerably extended and enlarged as business warrants. Heretofore the company has handled

He was always month or six weeks in Florida, after long on dinners, and often short on tobacco. So it is easy to see where the trade came in. A piece of mince pie was easily exchanged for half its area in navy plug, and four square inches of candwiched bread and butter brought a square inch of the good tobacco that came all the way from Pittsburg. And mother used to wonder at the amount of dinner that boy could eat, and still come home from school hungry.
