Long Courtships In Norway.

Norwegian weddings are almost always celebrated at the close of a short Scandinavian summer, a season which the industrious Norsemen find too short in which to work and from which they would never dream of taking the days that are necessary for the long drawn out festivities of the Norse wedding. So the maidens who are wooed all the year round are usually wedded at the beginning of winter. Norwegian wooings are very frank and very long a-doing. On summer Sundays the lanes. with lovers. Each couple saunters slowly along, not in the least shy, his arm about her shoulders, her arm about his waist. Nor do they untwine their arms if they pause a little to chat with friends, not even if they stop to speak with casual acquaintances. Ten or a dozen years often elapse between the marriage, while a seven years' betrothal is considered of very moderate length .- Woman's Home Companion.

Pens, Paper and Royalty.

Whenever the signature of an English king or queen is required in a visitor's book or elsewhere it is customary to provide a new pen, which is not used by the hosts or the other guests unless it be handed them by the royal visitor. Another point of etiquette connected with pens and paper is that a letter to a sovereign is written on thick white paper, on one side only, and is placed in an envelope large enough to contain the letter unfolded

Cruel Contests. Bird singing contests for money and other prizes are not so frequent in England as formerly. Many of the little competitors, notably chaffinches, were subjected to dire cruelty on these occasions.

To make them sing their eyes were pierced by a redhot needle for the purpose of completely blinding them. This was done to prevent any opposing exstopping their singing, an end which was obtained by waving some object in front of them. Blinded, the birds could see nothing, and they sang.
