People generally consider that March was an unusually dry month in Nebraska but the comparisons of the weather bureau at Lincoln show it to have been more wet than the average as far as the state at large is concerned. The average precipitation during March for the past 27 years is 1.16 inches and for 1902 it was 1.18. The greatest precipitation for March during the 27 years, was in 1888 when it was 2.13 inches. The least was in 1882, when it was but .15 of an inch.

The Battle Creek Enterprise says that William Brink and Michael Rooney, jr., of that town started out in search of ducks and geese on a recent Sunday morning and were surprised to find a flock of over 200 pelicans feeding in a slough northwest of town. They were successful in getting within reasonable range and bagged one of the large birds, which measured eight feet from tip to tip of its wings, while the bill and food pouch was over a foot in length. The bird was snow white with the exception of a black edging to its wings. These birds frequent southern waters and northern sportsmen seldom get a shot at one.

Joseph Dufphey of Battle Creek went to sleep with a lighted lantern Wednesday night of last week in his livery barn. During the night the lantern was overturned and but for timely interference he would have been burned to death. When found at 3 o'clock in the morning the clothing was almost entirely burned from his body and in places on his shoulders and back the flesh had been burned to a crisp. He has since been delirious and it is hard to determine what the outcome will be. Fortunately the fire had not burst into a blaze, nor did the oil in the lantern catch fire. The sentiment is unanimous that Mr. Dufphey is an unusually sound sleeper.

Reports from Washington are very encouraging for the early passage of the omnibus public building bill which carries with it an appropriation of $75,000 for the erection of a public building in Norfolk on the government lots at the corner of Fourth street and Madison avenue. The Washington correspondent of the Bee has this to say in today's issue: "The public building bill, commonly known as the 'omnibus building bill,' will be reported by Chairman Mercer on Saturday or early in the week following. Nebraska will fare well in the bill, although not to the extent some of the members of the Nebraska delegation had expected. Hastings and Norfolk will receive the appropriations asked for and in all probability an appropriation will be made for the purchase of a site at Plattsmouth."

Frank Stuffer of Fremont is in the city exchanging reminiscences with Justice C. F. Eiseley, they both having been in business at Hooper during an early day. One of the stories Mr. Stuffer told on himself which he charges Mr. Eiseley with taking part, was when he went goose hunting. He saw all kinds of game and was liberally supplied with ammunition. When time for going home came he had fired 100 shells but not a goose had he bagged, although he had tried them going and coming and at every conceivable angle. The birds were flying low too and in regular swarms. It developed a few days afterward that the boys had fitted Mr. Stuffer out with a supply of cartridges that contained no shot, but he alleged that they made sufficient noise to have scared one or two of the birds to death at the very least.

The report was brought to town this afternoon about 3 o'clock to the effect that E. A. Lawrence had been thrown from his sewing machine wagon at a point west of the city, and was killed, his neck having been broken. It was further said that his team had run away. Another report was to the effect that it was his son, Ray, who had met with the accident. Chief of Police Kane and Dr. A. Bear at once went to the scene of the accident, but found that rumor had erred vitally in one particular. It was E. A. Lawrence but they found that he was far from being dead, and he was taken home by the officer and soon recovered from the effects of the fall. He was considerably bruised and was bleeding some, but it is believed that he will experience no serious effects. This makes the second time Mr. Lawrence's team has run away with him recently.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.

House Will Vote on Cuban Reciprocity and Senate on Chinese Bill.

Washington, April 14.—The leaders of the house expect to see the Cuban reciprocity bill passed during the present week, but they admit that the debate may be prolonged so that the final vote will not be reached until next week. When the measure is thrown open for amendment, a great number of amendments will be offered by the Democrats with a view to opening up a way for amending the schedules of the Dingley tariff law. It is known in advance that all such amendments will be held to be not germane to the bill whose title provides for reciprocity with Cuba. Appeals will be taken from the rulings of the chair on the general tariff amendments, but it is certain that with possibly one exception the attempt will be unsuccessful. That will be the amendment to take the differential off refined sugar. A number of Republicans who are opposing the bill have announced that they will vote to overrule the chair on that proposition and Democrats expect to be able to cast a solid vote for it. The Republican opposition to the bill, as shown last Tuesday on the motion to go into committee of the whole, is in the neighborhood of 40. Added to the Democratic vote, if solidly cast, the opposition would have a clear majority of 10. But the Republican leaders profess confidence in their belief that not enough of the Republican recalcitrants will go to the length of voting to override the chair to make with the Democrats a majority of the house. Moreover, they assert that some of the Democrats themselves will hesitate to adopt this method of getting a vote on a proposition which they contend is plainly not germane. If the danger involved in the amendment to abolish the differential is passed the bill will have plain sailing on its final passage, as a majority of the Democrats will vote for it.

In accordance with the agreement reached on Friday last, the senate on Wednesday will vote on the Chinese exclusion bill and the present understanding is that the Philippines government bill will be taken up immediately afterwards.

REV. T. DEWITT TALMAGE, those who have been associated with him. At 9 a. m. Wednesday the interment will take place in the family lot at Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Many intimate friends, including the pastors of most of the Presbyterian churches of the city, were among those who called at the house. Messages of sympathy from nearly every state in the Union and from England, Russia and other European countries came to the family during the day.

FUNERAL OF WADE HAMPTON. Great Outpouring of People Attend Obsequies at Columbia.

Columbia, S. C., April 14.—In the presence of thousands of people who came to pay their last tribute of love and respect to the body of Wade F. Hampton was buried in the old family lot in Trinity church yard yesterday. Every effort had been made by the family to have the funeral quiet, but those who attended the obsequies of John C. Calhoun, for which preparations were made by the state for a week, declare the demonstration yesterday was the greater. The outpouring of people was spontaneous. Every railroad leading here was forced to run special trains. Veterans, their sons and daughters, military and municipal officials came from every part of the state. During the short time the public was permitted to enter the Hampton house, several thousand people, including a great many negroes, passed by the coffin.

Caution! This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1865 for the cure and treatment of consumption and throat and lung trouble without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe coughs, bronchitis, croup—and especially for consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.
