THE NORFOLK NEWS: FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1902.

Norfolk Will Get $100,000 Instead of $75,000.

Congressmen Propose to Do the Right Thing by This City-Thanks of the People are Due to Those Responsible for the Bill.

From Saturday's Daily:

Washington, April 25-W. M. Rob-ertson, Norfolk, Neb.: In the public building appropriation bill which will be reported tomorrow, Norfolk gets one the burial is conducted in the morning hundred thousand dollars. J. S. Robinson.

The foregoing tells its own story. Norfolk is to have a public building costing $100,000 instead of $75,000. which is the most that had been hoped for by even the most sanguine. The bill introduced by Congressman Robinson only provided for $75,000, and the amount of the appropriation was raised in the committee on public buildings and grounds, of which Congressman Mercer of Omaha is chairman. Norfolk can not but feel under obligations to Congressman Mercer for the interest he has taken in this matter, which it is understood comes largely through personal friendship for some of the citizens of this place. Norfolk is not in his district but he seems to have looked after the welfare of this place about as carefully as though it formed a portion of his constituency, and the only regret on the part of Norfolk people-will be that they are not so situated that they can not repay his solicitude for this place with their votes the next time he runs for congress. Congressman Robinson is deserving of all the credit that an adverse political situation in Washington will permit. There is no question but that he introduced the bill in good faith and followed it consistently to the end. for which he should have unstinted credit, but the fact is that if Norfolk had not had a republican friend at the head of the committee, the appropriation could not possibly have been se cured at this session.

The telegram announcing the increase in the size of the appropriation was sent last night but it was not received by Mr. Pobertson until this morning. According to the statement given, which is verified by press dispatches from Washington, the appropriation bill will be reported in the house today, and a favorable report of the committee is considered an equivalent to its adoption by the house. Having received the neces sary number of votes in the house it will go to the senate, where there is dose in each case.

The district school entertainment which was to have been held at the Hayes McClary home under the auspices of the Ladies guild of Trinity church last night, was postponed until HANDSOME PRESENT OF $25,000 tonight, the scholars finding it impossible to attend on account of the storm.

They all will be present tonight, however, and will carry out the program that they have been preparing.

The ministers of Omaha have undertaken a movement looking toward the holding of funerals at night, which is done by the city churches further east. The services are held in the evening and of the day following and is private. Several advantages are urged in support of the holding of services at night, among them being that business men who could not attend otherwise are enabled to be present.

Albion News: There is a movement on foot to establish a "rest room" in Albion. This will be a room supplied with chairs and settees, where women especially who come to town to trade, can have some place to go when it is necessary for them to wait for any reason, besides walking the streets and hanging around the stores. It is proposed to have the room comfortably arranged with toilet rooms, etc. Also to be supplied with reading matter. It is also proposed to have the room open evenings as a public reading room where the e can go who have no better place If this scheme can be carried out, it will be greatly appreciated by many, we believe, and will prove a profitable investment for the business men and citizens.

At a recent meeting of the Interstate Mining company with headquarters in Wausa and in which a number of Norfolk people are interested, it was decided that they should put in this season at prospecting their mining land which is located near Sheridan, Wyoming. The task of starting the prospecting work was given in charge of P. F. Sprecher of this city who will leave about the first of June for Deadwood to look over the Homestake mining property and from there will proceed to the company's claim near Sheridan where he will start a gang of about four men on the season's work. after which he will return to Norfolk Last season an effort was made to mine the property, a number going out from Norfolk to work on the job. The results were not highly satisfactory and this year another plan will be undertaken.

Julius Marquardt, brother of C. F. A. Marquardt of this city, died last night at 9 o'clock at his home two and a half miles north of the city, of fatty degeneration of the heart, after an illness of but about a day and a half. Monday afternoon he complained of not feeling well, but looked after some of his farm work. Tuesday he felt so ill that a doctor was summoned and he pronounced his condition serious. Shortly afterward he lost consciousness and was still unconscious when the end came at 9 o'clock last night, not being able to make his last will and testament. He was a strong and large man, weighing in the neighborhood of 350 pounds, and his death came as a surprise to his relatives and friends. He would have been 63 years of age in June and leaves a family of a wife and eight children to mourn his loss. His father who had almost attained the age of 100 years, died on April 4 and in less than a month the son followed. The funeral will be held from the St. Paul Lutheran church Friday afternoon, leaving the house at 2 o'clock.
