Democrats in congress are, as has been their custom for generations, proving themselves excellent obstructionists. An observer of their proceedings has declared that when you find a democrat with constructive tendencies he is not a good democrat.

The Omaha jobbers have been making merry with their customers in the south half of the state. If the north Platte country had a little better connection with St. Joe and Kansas City the Omaha wholesalers might see the advantage of making an occasional visit to this part of the state.

In his candid admission that the American Sugar Refining company has undertaken to dispose of the beet sugar industry as a dangerous rival, it is considered that President Havemeyer has made a good opening for the prosecution of his company under the federal law for violation of the Sherman law in restraint of trade. It is evident that he talked too much and injured rather than benefited his company.

There is one fact in connection with this trust question that those opposed to such combinations are inclined to overlook, which is that in order to make money the people must have money to buy their products and their greatest prosperity naturally depends on the greatest prosperity for the people. They can no more squeeze blood from a turnip than can a single individual or company, and it stands them in hand to see that the source of their wealth is unimpaired by favoring methods by which the common citizen may profit to the greatest degree.

At last night's council meeting Mayor Koenigstein, in entering the year, presented a message reviewing the conditions, past, present and future of the city. He felicitates the city upon its improving financial condition and the work that has been done toward its betterment during the past year and makes some recommendations that will receive the hearty approval of the people generally. He recommends that the ordinances be revised and published in book form and, considering that they were last printed almost a decade ago, the necessity for such revision and printing is apparent. Many of the ordinances in the old book are now obsolete and many new and important ones since passed are not available for reference by the public. The necessity for a permanent gutter down either side of Main street is also apparent. During the fall, winter and spring months the need of such improvement is especially pronounced. The mud holes should be eliminated from in front of the business houses and inasmuch as the business men have shown a purpose of doing what they can for the betterment of the street by putting in permanent walks, the city government should do its share toward placing the thoroughfare in proper condition. This work has been too long delayed and should be undertaken at once. Sidewalks should be built and kept in repair wherever the requirements of pedestrians create a sufficient demand. His desire that the water commissioner and the engineer at the pumping station do not work at cross purposes is likewise a worthy one and an adjustment of possible differences should be undertaken. The lighting question is pertinent and some settlement should be made that would be satisfactory to the people. There is an unquestioned demand for better lighted streets but there has been an undeniable change in sentiment as to how the matter should be settled since the last bond election. The suggestion of more thoroughly informing the people on the subject is a fair one and those on either side of the question should be willing that such knowledge be furnished that will enable them to arrive at a just conclusion regarding the matter. It cannot be hoped that there will be satisfaction with the present number of street lights and with no understanding as to what should be done to an adjustment of the difficulty. It is desirable that the expense of another election be saved if that will not settle the matter, but if it will permanently dispose of the controversy it should be undertaken. It might be possible to adjust the question without such expense but a settlement is demanded in some way, and perhaps a thorough investigation of municipal lighting by an unprejudiced committee of councilmen would result in such settlement. This would be more economical than an election, but if an election is found necessary, the people could vote with an understanding that would enable them to reach a just and satisfactory conclusion.

MOTHER SEES AWFUL SIGHT.
 Crippled With Rheumatism, She Is Unable to Help Burning Child.
 New York, May 16.—Crippled with rheumatism and unable to move from her bed, Mrs. William Wagner of Newark, N. J., saw her daughter Edna, 2 1/2 years old, burn to death within a few feet of her bed.
 Mrs. Wagner has been unable to get out of bed for a month. While her nurse was absent the child procured matches, and, while playing with them, set fire to her clothing and the curtains. Mrs. Wagner screamed loudly, but the child was fatally burned before assistance arrived. After the fire, which had spread about the rooms, had been quenched, Mrs. Wagner was found to be unconscious.
