

WEDNESDAY WRINKLES.

F. E. Hartman was in the Sugar City yesterday from Stanton.

Mrs. J. M. Alden of Pierce was a visitor in Norfolk yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Lecian of Pilger were Norfolk guests yesterday.

Rev. L. W. Scudder and family left today for their new home in Laurel.

Sheriff J. J. Clements and John Jones of Madison were city visitors yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Raebford were Norfolk visitors yesterday from Gross, Boyd county.

Miss Edith Morrow entertained the teachers of the Lincoln school at ten last evening.

Miss Jessie Bridge left on the early train for Omaha and will visit friends there and at Fremont for a week.

J. W. White will leave for Wisconsin Monday where he goes to tenant the farm owned by H. H. Harrison of Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hammel of Sioux City are here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hammel's brother, Fred Brummond.

Mrs. H. J. McManus, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. N. Huse, left this morning for her home in Hawarden, Iowa.

Miss H. E. Wood and nephew, Arthur Gibson, arrived last night from Mankato, Kansas, for a visit with Miss Wood's many Norfolk friends.

Guy Cooley has severed his connection with the Fair store and will remove his family to Wisconsin, leaving for their new home next Monday.

Mrs. S. L. Gardner went to Omaha yesterday morning and will return tonight with Mr. Gardner who has been attending the United States court in the capacity of jurymen.

E. C. Hitch, of Hastings, supreme deputy of the Loyal Mystic Legion of America, is here for a week or ten days to assist the members of the local lodge in awakening an interest in that order.

The funeral services for the late Fred Brummond will be conducted by Rev. J. C. S. Wells of the Episcopal church and will be held from the family residence on Madison avenue tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Clyde Hammond, who has recently completed a six-month's term of school in Boyd county, left this morning for Fern to attend the commencement exercises of the state normal school and will attend the summer school to be held there.

Richard Zeische, who has for several years been associated with his brother in the manufacture and sale of cigars here, left yesterday morning for Pierce where he will go into business on his own motion and will manufacture and conduct a retail business in cigars.

The concert given by H. Augustine Smith at the First Congregational church last evening drew out a large and enthusiastic attendance of Norfolk lovers of high grade music and they were well repaid for their attendance as Mr. Smith has a remarkable tenor voice and favored the audience with a program of selections that was of a high and unusual order of excellence.

Rev. Franklin Baker aided in balancing the program and entertaining those who attended with a couple of readings.

Police Judge Hayes is thinking of starting a picture agency or adopting some other means of disposing of a wholesale lot of engravings of Admirals Sampson and Dewey which he accumulated about a year ago from a peddler who turned over his stock in trade as security for a fine which he was assessed for violating one of the city ordinances. It is probable that if some agent or someone desiring to become such will apply at the police court he might get a start in business at a cost to defy competition.

At Butte, Boyd county, Dick Frost lately confessed to having set the two fires that recently startled the people of Lynch and has kept them uneasy at night owing to their undoubted incendiary origin. Circumstances pointed strongly to the guilt of Frost and as he was undoubtedly demoted a charge of insanity was filed against him, with the result that he was sent to the home for the feeble minded at Beatrice. The Lynch Journal says: "Before the examination he confessed to setting the fires and told how he had proceeded in both instances, giving as his only reason a desire to see the fire burn, stating that he liked to see fires and watch them burn."

The Sioux City Elks are planning to hold a fair in that city for a week during the last of September or the first of October and have already appointed committees to arrange for the event. They expect to secure the excellent attractions from the Minneapolis Elks' fair which is to continue for two weeks following June 2. The Elks want two or three blocks of streets in the main part of the city to be given over to their use and think that the property owners will be glad to give them the space needed. The attractions they expect to secure will be of the best in the country and will consist of many vaudeville feats and other excellent midway features.

The telephone people have seen a vivid picture of a cloud of impending trouble hanging over them because of an error in the telephone directory that was recently distributed. In the book the residence phones of both Burt Mapes and Jas. Stitt are given as H77 when Mapes' number should be G24. Mr. Stitt believes an explanation of the situation justifiable. He insists that he is not county attorney, is not a farmer, does not keep Jersey cows or fighting chickens, neither is he a base ball crank. The one call he cheerfully answers that may be intended for Mr. Mapes is anything in reference to bowling—there he claims to be as much at home as is Mr. Mapes. All other inquiries, kicks and like matters should be referred to telephone G24 where Mr. Mapes may be reached.

Mathewson post, No. 109, G. A. R., has prepared an excellent program of exercises for the observance of Memorial day, next Friday. It is one of the best for years and an opportunity is presented for all patriotic citizens to show their loyalty, and honor the memory of the dead heroes who gave up their lives for their country during the memorable civil conflict between the north and south in '61-'65, and those who survived the war but have since followed their comrades to the great beyond. The procession to the cemetery is outlined, which will leave the G. A. R. hall at 10 a. m., and the exercises when the home of the dead is reached are given. These will include ritualistic services of the post and corps and the decoration of a monument to the unknown dead and the graves of soldiers buried here. At 2 in the afternoon exercises will be held in the Auditorium with an address by Dr. F. M. Sisson. Singing at the cemetery will be by the choir of the M. E. church and at the Auditorium by a male quartet led by C. C. Gow. The entire program of the day will be published tomorrow.

In anticipation of that base ball game tomorrow which is to open the season in Norfolk, the base ball cranks of the city wear that nervous, restless, unsatisfied air which nothing but a good game has ever been successful in effacing. They talk base ball, speak of the achievements of league clubs, discuss the qualities of the men composing the teams that will meet tomorrow and otherwise give that indication of pent up enthusiasm which only a hot game can open up. The game will be called at 2:30 and it is anticipated that it will be closely contested and exciting. The Genoa Indians have a reputation for base ball that ranks high among the amateur teams of the west and those who saw the Norfolk team play last season realize that they will meet with some snappy opposition. The members of the Norfolk team are assembling. Captain Joe Wilkins, Dad Turner and others are here and the balance of the team is expected tonight. Two are coming from Nebraska City. Another from Kansas City, Mo., and they will be gathered from the best base ball towns of the west and retained here during the season. The grounds and grand stand are undergoing finishing touches and it is anticipated that the season will open with an enthusiasm and under favorable auspices that will presage an enjoyable and profitable season for the association.

A HEAVY PENALTY.

It is a Dangerous Undertaking to Destroy Rural Mail Boxes.

The postoffice appropriation bill passed by the present congress and which has received the approval of President Roosevelt and is now a law, contained a paragraph which places a heavy penalty for the destruction, mutilation or tampering with mail boxes on rural free delivery routes. The postoffice department has acquired a reputation of detecting people who destroy its property where private corporations and police officers fail, and it will be an exceedingly risky business hereafter to meddle with those little boxes on a rural route. There was a penalty before this law was passed but this is very much more severe than any law yet made to apply to the offenses spoken of. The paragraph reads as follows: "Whoever shall hereafter willfully or maliciously injure, tear down, or destroy any letter box or other receptacle established by order of the postmaster general or approved or designated by him for the receipt or delivery of mail matter on any rural free delivery route, or shall break open the same, or maliciously injure, deface, or destroy any mail matter deposited therein, or shall willfully take or steal such matter from or out of such letter box or other receptacle, or shall willfully aid or assist in any of the aforementioned offenses, shall for every such offense be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than three years."

Does it Pay to Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get Green's Prize almanac. Asa K. Leonard.

Yellowstone National Park. One of the most delightful spots on the American continent and more easily reached via Union Pacific than via any other line, is the Yellowstone National Park. The stage ride from Monida by the palatial Concord coaches of the Monida & Yellowstone Stage company is through scenery hardly inferior to the park itself.

Side trip from Ogden, Utah, or Pocatello, Idaho, via Monida and Monida & Yellowstone Stage Co., in both directions, will be furnished holders of all tickets (one way first and second class, regular tourist or special round-trip excursion tickets), sold at Denver, Cheyenne and points east, passing through Ogden or Pocatello to points in the states of California, Nevada, Oregon, Washington and that part of British Columbia lying north of the state of Washington, upon application to O. S. L. agents at either Ogden or Pocatello, at the very low rate of $49.50.

This rate will include rail and stage fare covering seven and one-half days trip, including all meals and lodging beyond Monida.

California

Has numerous natural bridges, caves etc., of no little interest. The Mammoth cave of Calaveras, discovered by miners in 1850; the Alabaster cave; the Crystal Palace cave, containing a number of attractive subterranean apartments, such as the Bridal chamber, the Crystal Palace room, and a curious apartment called the Music hall, where the deposits of aqueous origin not only take the form of organ pipes, sounding boards, etc., but also emit when struck musical sounds and vibrations. Near this cave are two natural bridges which the tourist can visit and return to the railroad within half an hour.

The only natural way to reach these scenes of interest is via "The Overland Route," comprising the Union and Southern Pacific, now really one line. The only line running through trains to San Francisco from Omaha. Three trains daily, the fast trains arriving 15 hours ahead of all competitors. RYE BREAD AND COFFEE.

This is the Staple Food of Workingmen in Germany.

The workman in Germany must have coffee, and plenty of it, and a little meat. Butter is practically unknown to him, lard being used in its stead. He rarely uses milk, eggs or white flour, and he never thinks of buying any of the better cuts of meat. Canned goods, familiar to every American worker, are absolutely unknown to him.

His staple food is rye bread, which he buys in enormous loaves. His wife or his little girl goes to market for this bread and brings it home clasped in her arms unwrapped. I have seen a little tot of a towheaded girl staggering homeward with a loaf almost as big as she was, and as she walked she gnawed lustily at the flinty end of the loaf. Indeed I have heard it said that the eating of this hard crusted bread gives the German workman teeth of unequalled excellence.

And this bread is good, thoroughly good. The government, which supervises everything and everybody, guards the rye bread of the people with jealous care. The bakers are watched, compelled to give full weight and make good bread. I have eaten it in a number of different towns, and it was always sweet to the taste and wholesome. This bread is fairly cheap, costing usually from 35 to 50 pfennigs (9 to 12 cents) a loaf, though it, too, has risen in price with increased demand.

Upon this great loaf the German employe may be said to rest. All Germany has grown up on it. In one form it is the basic ration of the German army, and many a peasant can live very well for a considerable time though he has nothing else to eat.—Outlook.

COMPLETED PROVERBS.

"Labor overcometh all things," even the laborer.

"Only that which is honestly got is gain," the rest is velvet.

"Ignorance is the mother of impudence," no father is named.

"Let a child have its will, and it will not cry," but its parents will.

"Pity is akin to love," but kinship does not always signify friendship.

"Whatever is best administered is best" for the one who administers.

"Employment brings enjoyment" when it brings the means to enjoy.

"Possession is nine points of the law" and frequently all the profits.

"A man who will not flee will make his foe flee," but what if his foe be made of the same metal?

"Every man for himself, and the devil take the hindmost," is the cry of those who are well in front.

"A wise man is moved from his course neither by force nor entreaty," but the same often applies to a mule.

"It is hard to pay for bread that has been eaten," but not so hard as to get bread to eat that has not been paid for.

"In matters of taste there can be no dispute," for every man is so firmly convinced that there is no standard by which his taste can be measured.—L. de V. Matthewman in Era.

Why Big Fish Get Away.

It is perfectly plain that large fish are more apt to escape than small ones. Their weight and activity, combined with the increased trickiness and resourcefulness of age and experience, of course greatly increase their ability to tear out the hook and enhance the danger that their antics will expose a fatal weakness in hook, leader, line or rod. Another presumption which must be regretfully mentioned arises from the fact that in many cases it is the encounter with a large fish which causes such excitement and such distraction or perversion of judgment as leads the fisherman to do the wrong thing or fail to do the right thing at the critical instant.—Grover Cleveland in Saturday Evening Post.

Jenny Lind and the Trill.

Jenny Lind, after years of steady practice, believed that the much coveted trill was for her an impossibility. She practiced hours a day, but was unable to accomplish the feat. One day, thoroughly discouraged, she was sitting in her garden when all at once she looked up into a tree. Above her a bird was trilling. She at once went to her piano and through some magic or power of imitation began the trill and from that day never had any further difficulty.

Henry Ward Beecher's Wit.

On one occasion as Mr. Beecher was in the midst of an impassioned speech some one attempted to interrupt him by suddenly crowing like a cock. The orator, however, was equal to the occasion. He stopped, listened till the crowing ceased, and then, with a look of surprise, pulled out his watch. "Morning already!" he said. "My watch is only at 10. But there can be no mistake about it. The instincts of the lower animals are infallible."

There was a roar of laughter. The "lower animals" in the gallery collapsed, and Mr. Beecher was able to resume as if nothing had occurred.

Don't Drink During Meals.

Be careful to limit the amount of water and fluids which you take during meals, since large quantities of these, especially ice water, hinder digestion. Not more than one glass of water should be taken during each meal. In order to quench the thirst which is so apt to clamor for water at meals an eminent authority suggests taking a glass of hot water fifteen or thirty minutes before meals. This acts especially well in the morning, as it cleanses the stomach.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A good friend is one's nearest relation. One's greatest relation is not always a good friend.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Diplomacy a Fine Art.

Diplomacy is a fine art, and in its successful practice much depends upon the observation of social conventions. Some of the most successful diplomats seem to spend most of their time at dinners and parties, apparently doing nothing but enjoying themselves, but in reality serving well their countries. In truth, the reputation of a country at a foreign court and oftentimes its welfare in important issues depend very largely upon the social abilities of its minister, for the man who is popular socially is very likely to drive a better international bargain than his unsocial brother. This is well understood at Washington, and the selection of a chief for one of our foreign embassies depends in no small part upon his social culture.—Edward Page Gaston in Woman's Home Companion.

Black Mirrors.

Crystal gazing is still popular, but the very latest thing in use is a black mirror, in which the sibyls say they can see many things. These little black mirrors come from India, where a spot of ink has always been a favorite vehicle for divination. The native boy who has "the second sight" is told to look fixedly at a spot of ink, which is poured into his hand. The black mirror is said to be every bit as good as the ink, and it is certainly more cleanly. It is made of a piece of black glass set in a wooden frame and is small enough to be held inside the hand.—London Chronicle.

Two Good Whist Hands.

Once upon a time two young men and two young women were playing whist, and quite frequently one of the young men and one of the young women found that their fingers were intertwined under the table, out of sight.

This finger contact did not in the least disconcert them—in fact, they appeared to enjoy the play much more than did the other young woman and young man.

Moral.—The enjoyment of the game depends on the hands that are held.—New York Herald.

A Table Decoration.

At a banquet given recently in Paris by a French countess the guests received a most astounding surprise. In the center of the table was what appeared to be a huge pile of roses, and just before soup was served the roses parted, disclosing a large birdcage. This suddenly opened, revealing a beautiful young lady adorned with wings. She remained in her strange position during the dinner and introduced each new dish by singing a couplet.

The Greyhound.

Various explanations have been given of the origin of the term greyhound, some authors claiming that the prefix grey is taken from Gralus, meaning Greek; others that it signifies great, while still others say that it has reference to the color of the animal. In no other breed of hounds is the blue or gray color so prevalent, and consequently the last mentioned derivation seems the most plausible.

Lifelike.

Sir Robert Peel was once going through a picture collection with a friend where there was a portrait of a prominent Englishman who was famous for saying sharp things.

"How wonderfully like," said the friend. "You can see the quiver on his lips."

"Yes," replied Sir Robert, "and the arrows coming out of it."—Youth's Companion.

All Over Again.

"Here are half a dozen prescriptions I would like to have you fill as soon as you can," wheezed Rivers.

"I can see they are all for the cure of a cold," remarked the druggist, looking them over.

"It's this way," explained Rivers. "When I had the other cold, I tried all these. One of 'em cured me, but I can't remember now, confound it, which one it was!"—Chicago Tribune.

Of Two Evils the Lesser.

Papa—Didn't I tell you, Willie, if I caught you playing with Tommy Jink again I would whip you?

Willie—Yes, sir.

Papa—Then why were you playing with him?

Willie—Well, I got lonesomer than I thought a hikin would hurt, so I just went over and played with him; that's why.—Detroit Free Press.

A Strange Pond.

Hicks pond, in Palmyra, Me., is a strange body of water. It is only twelve acres in area, but it is more than 100 feet in depth. It has no visible inlet, although a fair sized stream flows from it into Lake Sebasticook. The volume of its water is not materially affected by either drought or freshet, and the water is always cold.

How He Took Her Refusal.

"What did Mr. Strongnervie say when you told him you would be a sister to him?"

"Why, he had the impudence to say that was 'better still!' Then he kissed me, lighted a cigar and asked me to please mend his gloves for him."—Cincinnati Commercial.

Caution! This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of consumption and throat and lung trouble without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe coughs, bronchitis, croup—and especially for consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.
