friends that he should become the nominee for governor. Other good men for the position have been mentioned but the people in north Nebraska know Mr. Robertson to be all that could be desired as a governor of the great state of Nebraska. He has the force, the executive ability, the diplomacy, the polish that would become a governor. He comes from a section of the state that has never been honored with the governorship and he will have a 22 position from this section, and all other sections can well afford to unite with it on this occasion. Friends of the candidate are not asking something unreasonable. They are not attempting to foist upon the convention a man who, which he is qualified in every way to fill. What they ask is as much for the state as it is for Mr. Robertson.

Their desire is that a good man for the place be nominated for governor and they present that man with the desi e grounds tomorrow and Sunday. that his ability shall be recognized. The convention will reap honors by placing W. M. Robertson at the head of the game today. ticket, and he will make a campaign that will be certain to result in an election

You May Learn Something From Everybody You Meet.

One of the most useful success habits one can form is that of learning something from everybody with whom he comes in contact. No information which can be acquired is too trivial to be ignored.

Constantly measure yourself with the men you meet. You will find that every Originals on the Fourth. one can teach you something which you did not know before and which, perto learn again if you did not acquire it from him.

Daniel Webster once made a great hit in arguing a case before a jury by thing of a question whether or not he repeating a story which he afterward will be able to play here tomorrow and said he had not thought of since he Sunday. heard it fourteen years before. But Webster was always picking up something for future use. His famous reply to Hayne, the greatest speech ever delivered on the American continent, was largely made up of little reserves which he had picked up here and there in his reading, from studying men and from observation.

Many a prominent novelist has collected material for his stories by making notes of his conversations with those he has met and by observation.

Someone has searched the newspaper columns in vain for any mention of Webster Davis since the Boers have surrendered. He seems to have dropped from sight very effectually.

A boom for Ed. T. Kearney of Jackson as the democratic candidate for congress in the Third district has been started at Dakota City. His friends state that he has never held an office and has never been a delegate to a convention, but why this should qualify him as a candidate for congress is not stated.

Tomorrow, June 14, is flag day. It is the anniversary of the date on which the present design of the national emblem was adopted by congress and with the exception of adding a few stars in the blue field as other states have been added to the union, there has been no change. On the anniversary of the day it would seem fitting that loyal citizens should display the emblem that all love if they observe the day in no other way.

Senator Hoar announces that he will the fact that he has been making democratic and anti-republican speeches on the Philippine question. It is understood that the democratic campaign committee will print and circulate a million copies of his recent speech, which will probably be more effective as coming from a republican than a democrat. Perhaps no one can object to the old gentleman calling himself what he pleases in a political sense, but it is certain that on one of the leading questions of the day the senator is distinctly and unquestionably a democrat.

Civil government is being rapidly established in the Philippines and the prospects are that when the time comes that the democrats could make the best use of an issue coming from the archipelego there will be no issue for them to use. It has fr. quently resulted thus and the democrats are getting calloused to the bitter disappointments of raising an issue that would seem to be acceptable only to have the party in power adjust the questions as the people desire, thus robbing the objectors of all opportunity for political thunder. The crying need of the democratic party is an issue that will stick and they will undoubtedly pay a liberal reward to the person who will provide them with a subject that will answer these qualifications.

But a few days remain until the republican state convention meets, and matter for some of his novels in this way.

One young man will go to a lecture and after spending an hour listening to the helpful, inspiring words of some prominent man will leave the hall or lecture room without having derived any benefit from the address. Another young man will attend the same lecture with an ambition to learn some thing. He will drink in the speaker's sentences as if he were never to hear such words of encouragement and inspiration again. At the conclusion of the address he will determine that he the future: that he will read more. think more, study more, be more than comes in contact with and from everybody he talks to. The Rev. Dr. Mackenzie of San Francisco was once calling on a new pa continue to be a republican and will re- rishioner who had a "limb" of a boy. fuse to become a democrat regardless of She had invited the doctor to dine. "Willie." she said to her hopeful, "pass Dr. Mackenzie a potato."

Willie seized the potato between thumb and finger, and before his mother could utter a horrified remonstrance he had tossed it across the table and squarely into the good man's lap.

"Judgment!" cried Willie. "One strike!" quoted the quick witted clergyman.

"Willie, leave the table!" stormed his mother.

"Madam," said the minister, "do not judge him harshly. See how beautifully he put the sphere over the plate." And from that time there wasn't a more earnest worker in all the big Sunday school than that same Willie.
