Runaway Team Threw Him Out Last Evening.

William Deering was frightfully injured; though not dangerously, in a runaway near the gravel pit west of the city about % o'clock last evening. With a badly bruised leg, a mashed arm, a jellied nose and a loose rib, the injured man is doing as well as could be expected today. He was taken to the home of his brother-in-law, Ed. Braasch, on North Seventh street.

This afternoon Deering was found to be internally injured. His injuries are not fatal, however.

Mr. Deering was driving home in a wagon and at a point about a half mile west on Norfolk avenue his horses became frightened and gave a lurch forward. This threw Deering backward upon his head. After a time he regained his position and was in good way to control the terrified animals, which were running furionsly, when suddenly the wagon tongue dropped to the ground, stuck and threw vehicle, and driver forward headlong. William Raasch saw the days when they were together with the accident and went to Deering's assistance at once. Shortly after he was picked up, the man became unconscions. He was brought to the city by Mr. Braasch and his wounds cared for.
