Senatorial Convention.

The republican electors of the Eleventh senatorial district of Nebraska are requested to send delegates to a convention to be held at Norfolk, Nebraska, on Tuesday, September 2, 1902, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for state senator from said district, to select a central committee and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. The basis of representation shall be one delegate for each county and one delegate for each 100 votes, or major fraction thereof cast for W. W. Young for state senator in 1900. The several counties are entitled to representation as follows: Madison, 1; Pierce, 2; Stanton, 2; Wayne, 15. It is recommended that county conventions empower the delegates in attendance to cast the full vote of the county at the senatorial convention, and that no proxies be admitted.

A. F. ENOS, Chairman.

Omaha is up-to-date and is to have a ping-pong parlour. And yet some of the papers are claiming that all games of chance have received their quietus in the metropolis.

It may be safely left for the republicans to see to it, after they have been made to realize the importance of the beet sugar industry, that the democrats, backed by the refinery's trust are not permitted to force an issue that would be contrary to republican teaching and detrimental to the industry.

After the coal miners get through striking and the price is raised away out of sight it will be time for the consumers to strike. If the miners are to get more wages the consumers must pay for it. The operators have the advantage, coming or going, and either the miners or the consumers must stand for it.

The strike situation in the east is getting to the point where shots are being exchanged between the strikers and the guards, which may ordinarily be taken as the beginning of the end. A resort to force indicates that patience is exhausted and caution is cast aside, and the next thing will be a settlement by force or the giving up of one side or the other.

President Roosevelt was called out on deshabille at Nashua, N. H., the other morning and an exceedingly clever reporter found that he wore white socks and "unmentionables" which should be pleasing intelligence to the public which might have gone on thinking that the president was so far above the common people that he could afford to wear none at all, or if he did, that they might have been of royal hue and texture.

Those who are minimizing the production of sugar in this country are talking very much like the democrats did in 1890 when they were decrying the tariff on tin. It is interesting to note that we are now making our own tin, instead of importing it from Great Britain, and we are at the same time exporting more goods than ever before to Great Britain. What we did with tin we can do with sugar.—Fremont Tribune.

The Omaha papers are still engaged in the business of denying or proving that there is gambling in the metropolis. Both sides have an easy proposition. There is gambling and there is not gambling. Perhaps all the public gambling has been disposed of, but there is always gambling, especially in a city the size of Omaha, that the best and most vigilant police force in the world cannot cope with, and it is destined to be with the city as long as it exists. It is a helpful idea for those for or against the administration and the papers will probably never cease their discussion of it.

Bixby says that a scientist has found that "pie frequently contains spores of anacrobic non-pathogenic bacillus balyricus, the spores of bacillus mesentericus vulgaris, and staphylococcus albus of at least two different kinds." He must have examined a mince pie, in which event no one will be surprised. A non-scientific investigation of that delicacy will reveal that it contains a little of everything, and the scientific names do not add any to its terrors. The Lincoln philosopher advises people at all events to eat no pie unless it has first been boiled or copiously saturated with formaldehyde.

The democrats will exert their best endeavors this fall to have the people elect a congress of that faith and if successful, two years hence they will present the argument that now they have the congress they will need the president in order to accomplish anything. Such a scheme will not go with the people, however. The thought that they will have another do-nothing congress for the coming two years will cause many voters to cast their ballot for the republican ticket. The republicans have the president and will be given the congress if the people desire activity regarding national affairs. Vote for McCarthy.

It being understood that during the past year there was barely enough produced in America for home consumption it is not astonishing that the exports fell off considerably. With favorable weather conditions from now on there will be enough produced in this country again this year to feed the country and a large proportion of the balance of the world. One off year does not determine permanent conditions, by no means, and if any of the foreign competitors are inclined to rejoice at the apparent downfall of American commercial supremacy they will be wise to reserve their felicitations until another year has rolled around.

Sam Small has been considered a reasonably good man and evangelist as long as he has been working in states where the liquor traffic is licensed and run more or less "wide open" but he recently went into prohibition Vermont and there it is stated he acquired a jag that damaged his reputation as a reformer quite a considerable. How men can hope to make converts and not practice what they preach is a serious proposition. It is probable that the Rev. Small's days of usefulness as a reformer are passing, as did those of the fusionists of Nebraska who won out by decrying the pass evil and then took the first opportunity of filling their pockets with the pasteboards when the temptation came their way.

Union Pacific Strike Affairs Are Quiet.
Omaha, Aug. 29.—Union Pacific strike affairs have again relapsed into a quiet routine in which there is no indication of concession from either side. The importation of nonunion men for the shops is still kept up by the company and this is taken as evidence that the officials are not contemplating an early settlement. The strikers are proceeding with their plans for a whole winter's campaign if necessary.

Eating Nightingales.
As exemplifying the pitch to which Roman epicureanism was carried and indicative of a truly barbaric nature, a dish consisting of the tongues alone of some thousands of the favorite songsters of the air was requisitioned at immense cost to satisfy the inordinate cravings of one of the emperors. One can hardly avoid the reflection that such a being must have been extremely untimely. The liver of a capon steeped in milk was thought a great delicacy, and of solid meat pork appears to have been most relished.

The stanch Roman who did not take his pleasure homeopathically reclined during dinner on a luxurious couch, his head resting on his left elbow, supported by cushions. Suetonius draws attention to a superb apartment erected by the extravagant Nero, in which his meals were partaken, constructed like a theater, with shifting scenes changing with every course.

The Lightninglike Loon.
The loon is the quickest living creature. A loon that has had experience can dodge the flash of a gun. You see a loon on a lake, but long before you see him he sees you and has taken a mental inventory of you and your belongings. If you have no gun, you may perhaps approach within 100 yards before he laughs at you with that horrid shriek which gives him his name and disappears under the water, but show a gun and he does not stop to laugh—he goes instant. When in a sportive mood, he sometimes waits until he sees you about ready to fire, when, at the flash, he dives, and you see the shot spatter the water where he has just gone down.

Diamond Fields of India.
Diamond fields in India were known from the very earliest times. In the sacred books of India eight localities are mentioned as yielding diamonds, and of these three have been identified at the present day—Matanga (Kistna and Godavary), Pauda (Chota Nagpur) and Vena Gunga (Wairaghar). The diamondiferous area of India, so far as is known, is perhaps more extensive than that of the rest of the world, and nine-tenths of the famous jewels are Indian stones.

Cooking Ham.
Ham is frequently too salt to fry without previous preparation. Put the slices in tepid water and let them stand on the back of the range to soak out the salt, not to boil, for about half an hour. Drain dry between towels, then fry in a hot spider. When a whole ham is to be baked or boiled, let it stand overnight covered with cold water.

The Great Parks of Colorado.
Bear an important relation to the state in all her diversified interests. They constitute one of her chief glories. They are not, as many suppose, small areas of level ground closely hemmed in by neighboring hills, and beautiful with evergreens and flowers, but they are vast territories of country almost as large as some states. They contain fields, forests and plains, where the herds of the cattlemen have succeeded the herds of buffalo; they are watered by creeks and rivers, and contain villages and farm houses; they have springs and lakes, where hotels and other places of entertainment have been built for settlers, for tourists, hunters, campers and others seeking remote places of resort in the heart of the Rocky mountains.

The low rates put in effect via the Union Pacific, enable you to reach these great parks without unnecessary expenditure of time or money.

Superb Climate.
In Colorado all the conditions of health are met. There is a sufficient altitude to cause lung and chest development; there is the dry, exhilarating mountain air, with an almost absolute absence of malaria; there is the tonic effect of a bracing climate, without its rigors; an atmosphere filled with ozone; cool nights in summer, a bright, sunny sky almost every day in the year, conducive of cheerfulness and bringing a new pleasure every morning, constantly stimulating both mind and body.

To enable persons to reach these favored localities without unnecessary expenditure of time or money, the Union Pacific has put in effect very low rates and splendid train service, three trains leaving Missouri river daily for Denver, one of which is "The Colorado Special," the finest and fastest train in the west. Accommodations are provided for all classes of passengers on these trains, the equipment including free reclining chair cars, dining cars, buffet, smoking cars, drawing room sleepers and day coaches, etc.

How Scissors Are Made.

Though no complexities are involved in the making of scissors or much skill required, yet the process of manufacture is very interesting. They are forged from good bar steel heated to redness, each blade being cut off with sufficient metal to form the shank, or that destined to become the cutting part, and bow, or that which later on is fashioned into the holding portion. For the bow a small hole is punched, and this is afterward expanded to the required size by hammering it on a conical anvil, after which both shank and bow are filed into a more perfect shape and the hole bored in the middle for the rivet. The blades are next ground and the handles filed smooth and burnished with oil and emery, after which the pairs are fitted together and tested as to their easy working.

They are not yet finished, however; they have to undergo hardening and tempering and be again adjusted, after which they are finally put together again and polished for the third time.

In comparing the edges of knives and scissors it will be noticed, of course, that the latter are not in any way so sharply ground as the former, and that in cutting scissors crush and bruise more than knives.

Zeal and Knowledge.

The Outlook crowds an unusual amount of practical wisdom and good sense into the following paragraph: "Zeal without knowledge, often condemned, is more valuable than knowledge without zeal, often commended, for zeal without knowledge inspires life, and life acquires knowledge; but knowledge without zeal sits in its study, plays with its books and does nothing. All the greatest things in life have been accomplished by enthusiasts whose zeal was greater than their knowledge."

All ballots used at such election on such amendment or amendments shall have written or printed thereon the following: For proposed amendment to the Constitution relating to (here insert the subject of the amendment) and, against proposed amendment to the Constitution relating to (here insert the subject of the amendment) and the vote of each elector voting on such amendment or amendments shall be designated by the elector by making a cross with a pen or pencil in a circle or square to be placed at the right of the lines the words "For or Against" the proposed amendments, as he shall desire to vote thereon, or by indicating his preference on a voting machine when such machine is in use.

I, Geo. W. Marsh, secretary of state of the State of Nebraska, do hereby certify that the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the State of Nebraska is a true and correct copy of the original enrolled and engrossed bill, as passed by the Twenty-seventh session of the legislature of the State of Nebraska, as appears from said original bill on file in this office, and that said proposed amendment is submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Nebraska for their adoption or rejection at the general election to be held on Tuesday, the 4th day of November, A.
