

PRINTING THE BALLOTS.

Tickets for Coming Election Being Made.

CANDIDATES AND AMENDMENT.

The Finished Product is a Lengthy Document—The News is Doing the Work for Six Counties, 50,000 Ballots Being Required.

The News force is busy just now with its annual rush of ballot printing that comes on at this season of the year. The job undertaken this fall is to supply six counties with the necessary official and sample ballots for the coming election, the number required being about 50,000, each precinct in the six counties requiring a change of form, so that it means considerable composition as well as press work. The ballots this fall are about as lengthy as any that have yet been printed under the new law. Some of them attain a length of 44 inches and tax the capacity of the large press of the office to accommodate.

There are four parties represented on the state ticket, three on the congressional and two parties generally on senatorial, representative, county and precinct. In addition to this there are the four circles at the head of the ticket for a straight party vote, and at the end of the ballot is the form by means of which voters may register their preference for or against the proposed amendment to the constitution of the state.

The candidates and the parties they represent, of interest to the voters of Madison county, are as follows, being the order in which they are printed on the ballot:

For governor—John H. Mickey, republican; William H. Thompson, fusion; Samuel T. Davies, prohibition; George T. Bigelow, socialist.

For lieutenant governor—Edmund G. McGilton, republican; Edward A. Gilbert, fusion; Isiah Lightner, prohibition; Andrew D. Pugh, socialist.

For secretary of state—George W. Marsh, republican; John H. Powers, fusion; D. D. Norton, prohibition; J. Phipps Roe, socialist.

For treasurer—Peter Mortensen, republican; John N. Lyman, fusion; Wesley H. Maddox, prohibition; Wm. Stolley, socialist.

For auditor of public accounts—Charles Weston, republican; Charles Q. DeFrance, fusion; John Dale, prohibition; T. P. Lippencott, socialist.

For attorney general—Frank N. Prout, republican; Jefferson H. Broady, fusion; W. Burt Clark, prohibition; James R. Burleigh, socialist.

For commissioner of public lands and buildings—George D. Follmer, republican; James C. Brennan, fusion; James M. Dilworth, prohibition; W. E. Adams, socialist.

For superintendent of public instruction—William K. Fowler, republican; Claud Smith, fusion; R. E. Howard, prohibition; George H. Spencer, socialist.

For congressman, Third district—J. J. McCarthy, republican; John S. Robinson, fusion; Charles C. Beveridge, prohibition.

For senator, Eleventh district—J. M. Alden, republican; D. J. Koenigstein, fusion.

Following this comes the representative, county and precinct tickets, the ballot being completed with the constitutional amendment proposition, headed:

“Constitutional Amendment—Vote For or Against”.

“For amendment to the constitution, relating to the manner of submitting and adopting amendments to the constitution of the state of Nebraska.”

“Against amendment to the constitution, relating to the manner of submitting and adopting amendments to the constitution of the state of Nebraska.”

MADISON BALLOTS.

Circle for Straight Vote Will Appear Five Times.

From Monday's Daily.

The News this morning commenced on the ballots for Madison county, the copy for them having been retained until today by County Clerk Winter because of rumors of changes. The eight days allowed for any such changes contemplated closed with today and there is no longer an opportunity to change the personnel of the ticket should such change be desired. There has been some question about the form of the ballot at the head where the circles are provided for a straight party vote. The sample sent out by the secretary of state provided for but one circle for the two fusion parties. It was shown that in some counties where there was no fusion it would be impossible for either of the parties to use the circle to indicate a straight party vote as it could not be told whether the voter desired to register for the democratic or peoples independent ticket. The secretary of state compromised the matter by leaving it in the discretion of the county clerks. Mr. Winter desired that the ballots for Madison county be printed with the two circles, one after the democratic and one after the peoples independent party at the head of the ticket. Although there is very complete fusion here, there are some candidates in the county whose vote might be affected by the use of but one circle and to take no chances Mr. Winter ordered that the two circles be used.

There has been no change in the representative ticket since the convention. F. L. Putney's name appears as the republican candidate, and the name of T. F. Memminger, who was nominated by the democrats and populists, appears in that capacity. D. J. Koenigstein's name is on as the fusion candidate for state senator, and that of H. S. Daniel appears in the place of Mr. Koenigstein as fusion candidate for county attorney. The balance of the ticket is the same as decreed by the various conventions with the possible exception of a few minor precinct offices.

PROF. MOXIE SHOT.

Son-in-Law of Levi Beemer in Precarious Condition.

Mrs. Edward Millner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Beemer of this city, left this morning for Denver, Col., where she goes to care for her husband, who has been giving hypnotic exhibitions under the name of Prof. Moxie. He lies in a Denver hospital in a dangerous condition from wounds received at a town west of Colorado's chief city. It will be remembered that an exhibition was given by him in Norfolk some time ago. The story of how he received his injuries is told by a special under date of September 28:

“Prof. Moxie, the hypnotist, was shot and fatally wounded last night in Harry Downs' gambling rooms by a man by the name of Harry Gates of Sioux City, Iowa. It seems that Gates made some remarks in regard to Prof. Moxie's wife, who it is claimed by Moxie, is at Ft. Washlike, Wyo. Moxie slapped Gates' face then drawing a knife told Gates that he was going to kill him if he did not take back his words. Gates apologized and left the room but returned in a few minutes and fired two shots at Moxie, one taking effect in his left shoulder and the second through his hip. Little hope is entertained of his recovery. Gates has fled and has not yet been captured. Prof. Moxie seems to be a perfect gentleman. Neither of the men were under the influence of liquor.”

It seems that Mrs. Millner has but just learned of the condition of her husband, who it is feared cannot live long, and took this morning's train to be at his bedside, doing what she can for he who defended her at his own loss.

Home of Mrs. Box Robbed.

Some housebreaker must have seen Mrs. George W. Box, of 909 Jackson street, put $12.75 on a shelf of her cupboard Wednesday night for when Mrs. Box went to get the money yesterday it was gone.

The screen door had been torn open and the kitchen door had been forced. Besides that the kitchen girl had seen suspicious persons about the house the night before.

“I have little doubt,” said Mrs. Box yesterday, “that when I put that money away I was observed by burglars. The curtains were up and persons on the outside could have seen me easily. One of the boarders had just paid me the money. It is very evident that they knew where the money was for they disturbed nothing else in the house.”

When Mrs. Box returned home about 9 o'clock Wednesday night Miss Keith, who has a room above the kitchen, told her of two men whom she had seen in the alley acting suspiciously and when Mrs. Box opened the house at 6 o'clock in the morning she found the screen door and kitchen door in the suspicious condition stated. She did not discover her loss, however, until the butcher came about 8 o'clock. When she went for the money to pay him she found it not.

The theft was reported to the police at once.—Sioux City Journal.

Reason for the Alarm.

The fire company is as often called for imaginary dangers as real ones. A bucket of water often extinguishes the fire before their arrival. Their duty to be at the fire is never questioned.

To those in front of the blaze on the hill Thursday at the time the alarm was turned in the danger seemed imminent. The roaring of the flames, the smoke, and the wind coming with such a velocity as to give the appearance of the fire being in the cornfield directly adjoining the barns. Had it been there the time spent in “ascertaining the cause” would have been fatal to the barns and horses.

The property owners thank the fire company for the prompt response and assure them that under the same circumstances they would receive another call notwithstanding the “cost of the city.”

Card of Thanks.

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to the neighbors and friends who were generous in their expressions of sympathy and their kindly acts during the sickness of my mother, Mrs. Christiana Schroth, and the last sad rites following, also wish to especially thank those who sent flowers.

ANOTHER CUTTING SCRAPE

Joe Phipps' Jugular Has a Close Call.

QUARREL OVER A CARD GAME

Man Who Did the Cutting Was a Stranger and Disappeared Soon After the Affray—Stranger's Hand Also Cut.

What came very close to being a second edition of the sensation of ten days ago when George Hodges, colored had his throat cut from ear to ear, took place in the city Saturday night, and Joe Phipps, the colored hostler, was the victim, his assailant being a stranger who has been working on the gas line excavations, who claimed Battle Creek as his home. Phipps' throat was cut and the knife used to do the cutting barely missed severing his jugular vein.

The trouble grew out of a game of cards in which three were engaged. It is said that Phipps won some of the stranger's money and that the stranger then asked him to set up the drinks. This Phipps refused to do and his refusal drew some hot words from the stranger, for which he was struck by Phipps. The stranger then drew a knife and in the scuffle the colored man's throat was cut and the hand of the stranger also sustained a severe cut. Thinking that he had cut Phipps fatally the stranger gathered up his personal belongings and left the city by the shortest possible route.

Phipps bled freely from his wound, but after having it dressed by a physician is in a fair way to recover unless blood poisoning sets in. He was able to be about as usual this morning and appeared to be very well fixed financially as a new suit of clothes and a new hat adorned his person. His physician says that if the cut had been a quarter of an inch deeper, Phipps' jugular vein would have been severed and he might have bled to death.

No arrests have yet been made in connection with the trouble. Both parties to the fight are probably very willing that it should be allowed to go by default.

NIEGENFIND ON TRIAL.

Slayer of Anna Breyer and Her Father is Before Court.

From Tuesday's Daily. The trial of Gottlieb Niegenfind, the Pierce murderer, is on at Pierce before District Judge J. F. Boyd of Neligh and much interest is being taken in the case. The trial was called for 1:30 yesterday afternoon and the time up to the last reports was consumed in selecting a jury.

The panel of 24 jurymen has been exhausted, six of them being discharged because they were opposed to capital punishment. The judge has issued an order for the sheriff to summon a venire of 48 men to serve as jurymen. It is considered that it will be very difficult to secure a jury as almost everyone in the vicinity of Pierce has formed an opinion regarding the case.

Judge N. D. Jackson of Neligh is prosecuting, assisted by County Attorney H. F. Barnhardt of Pierce. The defense will be conducted by J. H. Berryman of Creighton and Geo. T. Kelley of Plainview.

Niegenfind made quite a stir in court when he appeared. He shows no effect of the wounds he received during his capture and has lost the limp that was caused by one of the wounds. He appears quite unconcerned regarding the outcome of the trial and seems to feel confident of his acquittal.

It is considered that it will be several days before the interesting phase of the case is reached.

A Modern Ursus.

A dispatch from Fremont says: Frank Uehling, son of Louis Uehling, a well known farmer residing in Logan township, in this county, has equalled the feat performed by Ursus, as related in “Quo Vadis.”

Young Uehling and his two brothers were driving a number of bulls along the road, when one of the animals broke into a cornfield.

Uehling pursued the bull and became separated from his brothers. After running some distance, the angry animal suddenly turned and charged upon the young man.

Uehling had no weapons and there was no time to run. He grasped the bull by the horns and an exciting struggle took place.

When his two brothers came running to the scene, they found that Frank had succeeded in throwing the ballad was sitting on the neck of the prostrate animal, awaiting their arrival.

The bull was not injured, although it was evidently much surprised.

Brace Up, Norfolk.

Norfolk is doing a great injustice to itself and the neighboring towns by allowing gamblers and prostitutes the privilege of remaining undisturbed in that city. There is seldom a robbery committed unless the thieves can be traced to that town. Stanton and Pilger have had several robberies of late and two men who were living in Norfolk are now in the penitentiary, sent there by the courts and keen-eyed officials of this county. It was a great expense, but our people must stand it because our sister city entertains liberal (?) views regarding vice.

The safe-blowers that worked at Pilger were traced to Norfolk. Clean out the gamblers and thugs, Norfolk. Common decency demands it.—Stanton Register.

RUMORS OF A MYSTERY.

Reports of a Man Seriously Injured Sunday Night.

NO DIRECT INFORMATION.

Officers Have Been Investigating, but Could Learn Nothing—Either a Hoax or the Injured Man is Carefully Hidden by His Friends.

It has been persistently rumored that some man had received serious injuries between here and the Junction sometime during Sunday night, but the case, if there is one, is shrouded in mystery. Officers were informed that a man had been severely injured in the yards at the Creighton depot and an investigation was made at 2 o'clock yesterday morning but the injured man was not found nor were there any clues to his whereabouts.

Later it was reported that a man, badly cut and unconscious, was lying in the Dawson barn in the outer edge of South Norfolk. Officers and a physician at once went to the place indicated but the man had disappeared. One story is that he recovered his senses and proceeded down toward the river and another is that he was removed by companions or those responsible for his condition. A doctor could not be found who had attended such a case, and the conclusion is either that the officers and others interested are victims of a hoax or that the injured man has been skillfully concealed.

It is also stated that a deliveryman for one of the grocery houses has knowledge of the case; that he assisted in carrying the wounded person into a house and stated that he was horribly mangled but the identity of the deliveryman is a subject for conjecture.

The case is on a par with one at Silver Creek, where a man was fatally shot through the body below the shoulder but could not be induced to say anything about himself or who might have been responsible for his condition. He was seen earlier in the day with another young man who was arrested at Columbus, but he also is as mum as an oyster and the officers will have difficulty in probing into the case if they continue to maintain silence. The Norfolk officers haven't even this much of a clue, but something may be developed later.

THE BALKY HORSE.

A Little Trick That, It is Said, Will Start Him Every Time.

For the benefit of those who have been caused a great deal of anxiety by a balky horse, lost trains as well as tempers and sometimes even ruined the horse, the next time they have the experience to run across a balky horse, no matter how bad he is, let me tell you how to start him ninety-nine times out of a hundred.

Of course it may fall one time in a hundred. When a horse balks, no matter how badly he sulks or how ugly he is, do not beat him. Don't throw sand in his ears, don't use a rope on his fore legs or even burn straw under him. Quietly go and pat him on the head a moment. Take a hammer or even pick up a stone in the street, tell the driver to sit still, take his lines, hold them quietly while you lift up either front foot, give each nail a light tap and a good smart tap on the frog, drop the foot quickly and then chirp to him to go. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the horse will go right on about his business, but the driver must keep his lines taut and not pull or jerk him back.

If I have tried this once, I have tried it 500 times, and every time I have suggested it people have laughed and even bet $5 and bottles of wine that I could not do it. So far I have won every bet. This may make you smile, but a horse has more common sense than most people are willing to give him credit for. The secret of this little trick is simply diversion. I am a firm believer that with kindness and proper treatment a horse can be driven with a string.—Horse Shoers' Journal.

Another Flame.

A man who had lost his much-beloved wife consulted a stone mason in regard to the erection of a tombstone with a suitable epitaph. After having a number of lines suggested, he finally selected the following: “The light of my life has gone out.”

A short time afterward the widower fell in love with a very charming girl, to whom he became engaged. He immediately felt concerned about the epitaph upon the tombstone of his former wife, and again consulted the stone mason, to whom he explained the circumstances, and stated that the epitaph would have to be changed. He intended to leave town, returning on the day of the wedding, and implored the mason to take the matter in hand and alter the epitaph so that the feelings of his prospective wife would not be hurt. This the mason promised to do, and when the widower returned he visited the grave at once, finding that the mason had been true to his word, the epitaph now appearing: “The light of my life has gone out, but I have another match.”—Philadelphia Times.
