Minnesota is politely entreated to take it back.

Four more days of it then April—with perhaps some more.

Grover Cleveland is likewise to give the enemy's country a try.

The weather clerk might readily be convicted of doing it with malice aforethought.

The weather is butting into the bock beer season in a manner that some of the lusers can neither forget nor forgive.

It is up to Madison county to either build steel bridges over the Elkhorn or dig into the bridge fund more frequently.

Emperor William says the American navy may play in his back yard, which is taken as further proof of the friendliness for this country in the fatherland.

Fifteen below freezing and the ground coated with a couple of inches of sleet and snow on the 27th is all the evidence required that the month proposes to be antamed to the last.

The Nebraska legislature seems inclined to leave it to other like bodies to wrestle with frank measures. If any have appeared they have been promptly floored by the committees or sidetracked before they reach the committees.

C. E. Bentley, not unknown to state politics, in connection with his party, has accepted the prohibition nomination for mayor of Lincoln. He will probably come as close to an election in the capital city as he has during state campaigns.

Miss Roosevelt has demonstrated that she has inherited some of the Roosevelt strenuousness and endurance by shaking hands with the Porto Ricans for a straight stretch of two hours. This is a test that even her father might wish to avoid.

Mr. Bryan should make up his mind to submit with the best possible grace to a visit by Mr. Cleveland to the silver champion's home state. Mr. Bryan has been intruding on Mr. Cleveland's political preserves for several years and the ex-president has but undertaken to return the compliment.

They have had a revival at University Place and one man whose heart was touched has undertaken to pay his debts that have been long past due and some of which have not been exactly honest or honorable. If all converts would be thus influenced there would be a greater demand for evangelists than at present.

Center, the new county seat of Knox county, cannot be realizing the boom that was expected for it. The Outlook has announced that it would suspend publication, and a town without a paper is not much. In this age of railroads it will be found rather difficult to build up a county seat or any other town at a distance from the railroad.

Plans are being made for the adoption of electricity as the motive power for the railroads of Sweden, the proposed system having originated with an American engineer, H. Ward Leonard, of New York. With the Swedes acquiring a system that is calculated to give greater speed and efficiency to their railroad traffic it will stand the American railroad men in hand to see that they are not permitted to acquire an American method of greater advantage than this country is enjoying. It would never do to permit the Swedes to boast of better railroad advantages than America possesses.

A late issue of a popular magazine contains an advertisement for cigarettes made especially for women—mild flavored, and alleged to possess other desirable qualities for those who wish to be up in society fads and acquire the habit. When the advertiser sees a source of profit in this sort of announcement it may well be believed that the habit is acquiring a standing with the women, and the statement that they will be sent in a plain wrapper makes it much easier for the readers to fall in with the scheme of the advertiser. It is something of a slam on reform when the women who have been industrious in their efforts to break the men loose from vile habits during several generations are finally induced to acquire one of the worst obtainable.

Bixby of the State Journal does not very often make a serious mistake, but he made one in Thursday's issue when he said in Daily Drift, "Grind out a few measures of poetry if you think it is such an easy job." He will realize his mistake when the doggerels and monogrels and sonnets and songs begin to flow in upon him. This is the season of the year when everyone is impressed with the belief that they have the divine afflatus and can write poetry or that which they allege to be poetry, and the Journal man is quite likely to have his waste basket full and running over as soon as the invitation spreads. It may not be poetry of the kind Bixby writes, but the authors will consider it equal if not superior to that which appears in Daily Drift. Bixby may assume to be judge of these efforts but those who write will never be convinced that they cannot.

SUCCESSFUL SMUGGLER.

The Schemes He Worked to Deceive the Customs Officials.

"There is money in smuggling," said the retired dealer in precious stones as he leaned back, "but it is dangerous to carry on the business, as possible suspects are carefully watched and, if necessary, traced till they are finally caught. However, I knew one man who pursued the trade of diamond smuggling for fifteen years and was able to retire to respectability. He was a buyer for one of the large business houses in New York, and his business sent him to Europe two, three and sometimes four times a year. Every time he returned he had with him from $10,000 to $20,000 worth of gems which he did not declare. "His trick was perfect simplicity combined with ingenious boldness. His hair was scanty, and at the top of his head he had a most delightful little bald spot. Customs officers as they came and went all knew him, and as they knew him he had a most pronounced way where his other acquaintances saw a bald spot. That was a work of art, made of wax and gum, and it contained two or three big stones that would have been a find for the men on the pier. "The good cigar that he had just lit and allowed to go out held a few more, and sewed in the handle of the grip that he carelessly turned over to the inspection of the officers were the rest of them. He never varied the trick, and he never lost. Each trip was worth a couple of hundred dollars to him and a great many hundred more to those who employed him. Now, that man considered himself strictly honest. He would not steal a cent from an individual, yet he schemed and plotted to rob the government."—New York Press.

OFFERS TO REFUND BONDS

Secretary Shaw Announces Important Monetary Measure.

COMES AS SURPRISE TO BROKERS

Action is intended to Provide Basis for Increasing Circulation in Case of Stringency in the Money Market. Secretary Shaw Cuying Silver.

Washington, March 27.—The secretary of the treasury published a circular, announcing that on and after April 1, he will receive for refunding, on an amount not exceeding $1,000,000, any of the bonds of the 3 per cent loan of 1903 and the 4 per cent funded loan of 1907. They may be surrendered at prices yielding to the investor an income of 2 1/2 per cent per annum, and the new bonds will be issued in exchange at a premium of 2 per cent.

The secretary stated in explanation of his action that he desired to put out a larger amount of 2 per cents, which could be available to increase circulation in case of a stringency.

Secretary Shaw purchased 250,000 ounces of silver at 49 1/2 cents an ounce, delivered free at the Philadelphia mint. The purchase was made on account of the Philippine coinage act.

New York, March 27.—The offer of Secretary Shaw seemed to come as a surprise to bond brokers, some of whom professed to be unable to understand its scope or purport. It was generally looked upon as an emergency or relief measure, inasmuch as the offer will release from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000, the amount depending entirely upon the proportion of 3s or 4s turned in. One broker thought the proposition was designed to induce banks to increase their circulation. Nobody could trace any connection between the offer and the coming Panama canal payment.

FOXY GRANDPA

Including all the merry pictures contained in the two volumes, entitled "Adventures of Foxy Grandpa" and "Further Adventures of Foxy Grandpa" in his head.

Mr. Schultz said to me one day at lunch: "What do you think of a series of comic drawings dealing with a grandfather and his two grandsons?"

"Let the grandfather be the clever one of the trio. In most of the other cases the young folk have been smarter than the old people upon whom they played their jokes. Let's reverse it."

The next morning he came to my office with sketches for half a dozen series, and with the name "Foxy Grandpa" in his hand.

The success of the series in the New York Herald was instantaneous, for who has not heard of "Foxy Grandpa" and "Bunny"?

The jolly old gentleman, dear to grown people as well as children, might almost be called the Mr. Pickwick of comic pictures.
