

The Norfolk News

One week more of city politics and election. You might try planting winter radishes—the season should be favorable. It is not impossible that "Four more years of Grover" will be the democratic slogan during the coming presidential campaign.

The machines, which will become a part of every officer's equipment. The disciples of Isaac Walton can wander forth Thursday without a fear that some game warden or others interested in enforcing the game and fish laws will pounce upon them and make their fishing cost them a pile of money. They will still be compelled to observe some sort of decorum, however, as there are restrictions on the methods of catching fish that hold good the year round.

The army of the unemployed in England is causing a great deal of trouble, while in Germany the industrial decline is steadily growing worse. The people of this country should be sympathetic and all that, but there are few who should desire that conditions be reversed and the laborers of this country permitted to suffer while they of England and Germany prosper.

The Norfolk Hospital. A sense of victory, with its feeling of relief, gratification and joy, prevailed in Norfolk last evening when it became known that the bill for the rebuilding of the hospital for insane at this place had passed the senate.

BALLOTS ARE COUNTED Chicago Election Commissioners Ignore Restraining Writ. BOARD IN A STATE OF SIEGE. Commissioners, Fearing a Possible Coup, Sit Continuously in Their Offices, With Hundreds of Officers Guarding the Building. Chicago, March 31.—In spite of Judge Haney's injunction in the Lorimer-Durborow contest, and in the face of threats of contempt proceedings, the election commissioners opened and counted the ballots cast in the precinct of the Sixth congressional district, in the election of last November.

Young Plants Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same, but some plants are weak and others strong. And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Fairfax, S. D., proposes to have more excitement this spring and summer than the opening of a bunch of reservations would bring.

The department of agriculture has found it necessary to promulgate some official information regarding "corn-wheat," having received numerous inquiries from farmers and others regarding the alleged cereal that someone has been introducing to the uninformed.

The legislature will be in session long enough to prevent the members from participating in the municipal campaigns of their home towns.

Several of Norfolk's leading citizens were on the ground early and late and exercised a strong influence in behalf of the appropriation. Their efforts were largely because of local pride in winning something for Norfolk.

St. Louis, March 31.—Two indictments returned against Police Captain Samuel Boyd of the Fourth district were nolle prossed and a new indictment was returned by the grand jury. The new charge is identical with the old ones, except that it is more comprehensive in its scope.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed. Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Medical science has so improved that it is said that a baby born now has a better chance, by about three times, of living through its first year, and a five times better chance of living to be five years old, than had the babies who were born a dozen years ago.

With the national and state governments each putting $100,000 into new buildings in Norfolk this summer it is safe to believe that there will be something going on here even though the city or the people of the city make no movement for the advancement of the town.

The robins and meadow larks are here, but if you want to be absolutely certain that spring is here wait until the martins and the wrens arrive.

The people of Norfolk and north Nebraska are highly pleased with the outcome of the efforts put forth and to the house and the senate and especially those who have worked untiringly for the passage of the measure their sincere thanks are due.

Hector MacDonald Buried. Edinburgh, March 31.—The body of Major General Sir Hector MacDonald, who killed himself at the Regina hotel in Paris on Wednesday, was buried in Dean cemetery here shortly after the arrival of the London train.

Tired Out "I was very poorly and could hardly get about the house. I was tired out all the time. Then I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it only took two bottles to make me feel perfectly well."—Mrs. N. S. Swinney, Princeton, Mo.
