French Guns Throw Shells Into Their Reported Killed.

Beni-Ounif, Algeria, June 9 .- The French artillery opened a preliminary fire at 5:30 a. m. on Figuig, the stronghold of the rebellious Zenaga tribesmen, who recently attacked and tried to ambush Governor General Jonnart and his escort, of whom thirteen were seriously injured. The actual bombardment began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted until 11 a. m., when a great destruction of houses had been wrought. The mosque was destroyed and it is believed a great number of natives were killed. The destruction of the mosque is expected to have a great moral effect. The Moors, concealed in the palm groves, replied with artillery to the French bombardment, but without effect. All the women and children le.t the town before the action. The French fired a few Melinite shells at distant parts of the oasis in order to impress the Moors with the power and range of the French guns. Throughout the engagement there was no loss on the French side,

General O'Connor commands the pnnitive expedition, consisting of 4,000 men of the foreign legion and a strong force of artillery, armed with guns firing Melinite shells. General O'Connor's plan was to advance on Figuig in three columns and post his artillery on commanding hills surrounding the rebels' stronghold.

The French troops occupied Juive hill and another eminence, strategic positions, by a surprise movement. The ramparts of the town were then 1,200 meters distant and, like the houses, which were half a mile behind them, built of compressed earth. From these hills the artillery made excellent practice, the Melinite shells making a big breach in the ramparts and estroying a multitude of houses, the inhabitants of which had fled at In all there are thirty-nine unions in the first shots. Finally the fire was concentrated on the mosque, which was much venerated, and the edifice was blown to pieces.
