DETAILS OF TRAGEDY.

How King and Queen of Serbia Met Their Death.

Belgrade, June 12.—A military conspiracy, which surrounded events show had the sympathy of the majority of the Servian people, was carried out at 2 a. m. and King Alexander, Queen Draga, her two brothers and several ministers were assassinated.

Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, the pretender to the throne, has been proclaimed king by the army, and there is every reason to believe that this decision will be confirmed by the Servian parliament, which has been summoned to meet on June 15.

While the main outlines of the events which took place within the royal palace are known, the details are conflicting, owing to the extraordinary secrecy with which the plot was contrived and carried out. The chief conspirators were all men of high rank, who acted in concert with the army.

The places of business are closed and many inhabitants have left the town. Even with a pass it is difficult to obtain admission to Belgrade, so carefully is it guarded.

The newspapers are almost unanimous in approving the revolution. Some compassion is felt for the unfortunate king, but the people generally admit that no other solution to an intolerable situation was possible.

All remains quiet, an encouraging effect being produced by the absolute unanimity which prevails regarding the choice of the new ruler, whose proclamation as king by the army undoubtedly will be ratified by parliament.

It had been expected that Prince Karageorgevitch would arrive immediately, but it is now stated he will only arrive after he has been summoned by parliament.

Following is a list of the dead: King Alexander, Queen Draga, the queen's two brothers, Premier Markovitch, the minister of war, two aides-de-camp and two other officers.

Nothing definite has been decided regarding the burial of the dead.

Karageorgevitch Ready to Be King. Geneva, June 12.—Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, who has been proclaimed king of Serbia, has been living in Geneva since 1891.

Through the Russian consul, an intimate friend of Prince Karageorgevitch, the Associated Press correspondent obtained the following statement: "Prince Karageorgevitch declares himself innocent of any knowledge of the tragedy at Belgrade."

From other sources it is learned that the prince will leave secretly today for Vienna, whence he will proceed to Belgrade. Rumors have been current here for three days of expected trouble in Serbia, and Prince Karageorgevitch has been receiving an enormous number of telegrams for a week past, many of them from the frontier of Serbia.

During his residence in Geneva, Prince Karageorgevitch went freely into society. It has been a subject of general remark among the aristocracy and the people that he has looked extremely careworn for some months.

Embraces Queen-in Death. Colonel Numovics and the officers then entered the room. Numovics presented to the king a form of abdication for his signature. The document contained the statement that by marrying "a public prostitute" the king had degraded the throne and that he must abdicate.

The officers then with their drawn revolvers fired a hail of bullets and the royal couple fell together to the ground. The king lingered until 4 a. m., when he died.

The warmest welcome was extended to Queen Draga's brother-in-law, Colonel Maschin, one of the regicides. The troops at the barracks received the news with joy.

The prince is a widower, aged fifty-three. He has three children. George, his heir, sixteen years old; Alexander, aged fourteen, and Helene, aged nine.

He lives in an extremely simple manner and occupies a whole house, an unusual thing in Geneva, in the Rue de la Bellotte. The house is elegantly furnished, though the prince is not rich, and keeps only a woman servant and a valet. He has several times proclaimed himself heir to the Servian throne, but has no encourage, as his poverty is known and the presence of a court would have excited suspicion.

Russian money was undoubtedly used in the revolution, which, according to general belief, was planned here. It is recalled that when the Austrian empress was murdered by the anarchist Lucheni in this city, in 1898, Prince Karageorgevitch openly applauded the deed.

Waters of River Have Fallen Over Two Inches.

East St. Louis, June 12.—That the crisis of the flood situation has passed so far as this city is concerned was generally accepted as a fact by the citizens of East St. Louis this morning.

Since the disastrous break in the Illinois Central levee the flood has made no dangerous breaks, although a portion of the Baltimore and Ohio embankment gave way last night.

With the stress of the situation relieved it was possible to make a survey of the flooded district. A trip of several miles showed only a picture of Kansas City and Topeka over again.

The river has fallen two inches since 6 o'clock, the gauge reading 37.3 feet.

During much of the day the city was under quasi-military rule, although Mayor Cook and his chief of police were the guiding heads. It was found, however, that this order of things, necessitating as it did the issuing of permits for visiting threatened portions of the city and for other purposes, was working a hardship on many citizens.

"There has of a necessity been much confusion," said Mayor Cook, "but I believe that we have brought about order and the redemption of the city will proceed with the system which will result in the least loss."
