

BURGLARS ENTER HOUSES

Robbed the Cellar of C. Sundell Last Night.

THEY TOOK A MIDNIGHT LUNCH.

Helped Themselves to Bread, Butter and Beer, Besides a Good Looking Cake—Attempt at Home of O. L. Hyde Previous Night.

[From Saturday's Daily.]

The home of C. Sundell, 1106 Prospect avenue, was entered by burglars last night and pretty nearly everything in the cellar stolen. The house breakers left just enough of things to eat for the family breakfast this morning. Several loaves of bread were taken by the invaders; a half dozen bottles of Adelin's beer were lifted from a brand new case which Mr. Sundell's brother had only yesterday installed; two pounds of butter was in the house and a great big handsome chocolate cake looked good to the uninvited guest.

The entrance was effected through a cellar door. It is thought to have been done along toward morning, for at midnight everything seemed to be in ship shape and the cellar safely shut. When Mr. Sundell went into the cellar this morning he found that the lawbreakers had had a midnight lunch at his expense.

Home of J. S. Mathewson Robbed.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock last night burglars entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mathewson, 1101 Koenigstein avenue and stole a quantity of bread and meat. No sound was heard. This was in the same neighborhood as the other homes robbed.

Attempt at Home of O. L. Hyde.

On Thursday night burglars attempted to enter the home of O. L. Hyde, who lives in the same neighborhood as Mr. Sundell. A noise was heard at the window and Mrs. Hyde who was alone with her children, began to investigate. "What are you doing?" asked a little boy. "Getting a gun," replied the mother, "to shoot that burglar." And at this remark, the fellow disappeared into the tall timber.

Will Oxniam, clerk at the postoffice, is enjoying a vacation allowed by Uncle Sam of fifteen days. He will spend the latter half of it camping.

The first tall iron columns on the government building now stretch up into the air and the interior portion of the structure will very soon rest upon them.

Word from Miss Pearl Widaman at Denver states that none of the Norfolk party of Christian Endeavorers were in the tent when it collapsed.

W. E. Spencer, formerly in the shoe business in Norfolk, but now running a cattle ranch near Alliance, is in the city meeting old friends and looking after business interests.

The Union Commercial Travelers of Norfolk, together with their families, are enjoying a picnic this afternoon upon the lawn of Otto Tappert, 1295 Madison avenue.

The Norfolk baseball club will cross bats with the team of railroad men at the South Norfolk grounds tomorrow afternoon. Several previous games have been played and the rivalry grows warm.

The campers who have been at Jackson's lake for a week returned last night. They had a good outing. There were: Col. and Mrs. E. H. Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Jacq Koenigstein, Miss Wats, Miss Mette Koenigstein, C. B. Salter, Dr. R. A. Mittelstadt.

"Beets are looking well," says Manager J. N. Bundick, of the sugar factory. "The recent rains, however, have done us no good and we are anxious for a dry spell just now so that the fields can be thinned. At present the water keeps people out of the beets and the weeds are getting up."

Telephone wires in and about Norfolk are in a bad way just now on account of the recent electrical storms. The local exchange was struck by a severe explosion one day this week, which shot a portion of the interior arrangement pretty hard. Reports from out over the district of which this city is the center, tell of damaged cables.

F. E. Barnum has purchased the Madison Chronicle and issued his first edition yesterday. F. W. Wright was the former owner. Mr. Barnum has been on Madison papers for some time and is an experienced newspaper man. He will be assisted by his mother, Mrs. E. P. Barnum, who is now at the old home in Minnesota. Mr. Barnum was in Norfolk this morning.

INDIANS FOUND INTOXICANTS.

[From Saturday's Daily.]

Despite the law which says that no Indians shall buy whiskey, a number of red skinned braves of the Santee tribe, who were in Norfolk all day yesterday, were carrying pretty good "packages" when they boarded the Sioux City train at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Where they made their find, or whether or not they bought the real article at all, is a point that they refused to speak upon. It is not at all unlikely that the contents of lemon extract bottles or of sarsaparilla gave them enough of their longed for fire water to send them into the dreamland of their happy hunting ground. When they are unable to get whiskey, the Indians very frequently get alcohol in this manner. In all ages of civilization, no matter how crude and undeveloped society may have been, there has never been a race of people who could not make or invent or find intoxicants, and the Santees are not exceptional.

FROM HAIL STRICKEN TILDEN.

Later Reports Show Even More Damage Than Supposed.

[From Monday's Daily.]

Reports from Tilden papers show that last week's hail storm, whose first report appeared in The News, was fully as destructive as, or even worse than at first supposed. Much of the territory contains desolated and completely ruined fields. Orchards were stripped. As far as can be seen, says the Citizen, crops are entirely obliterated and fields have the appearance of newly plowed and rolled ground. A strip of country fifteen miles long by seven wide will produce nothing marketable this year.

SMALL AUDIENCE HEARD MUSIC.

Charles E. Watts Gave a Highly Delightful Program, However.

[From Saturday's Daily.]

While the lecture-recital of Charles E. Watt, of the Chicago Piano college, at the Congregational church last night was highly successful so far as the music went, the entertainment was a grand disappointment to persons interested because of the very small attendance. As a pianist, Mr. Watts was quite superior and the few who did hear him were very well pleased. Of the many music lovers in the city, however, but a comparatively handful of auditors listened to the program. There was music in the air down town at the merry-go-round and at different places, which all seemed to be pretty popular, but the classical did not draw.

During yesterday afternoon Mr. Watts listened to a recital given by music students of Mrs. George N. Beels. He expressed his pleasure at it and congratulated them upon their playing.

Emil Kehl.

[From Monday's Daily.]

The funeral of Emil Kehl, who died Friday at his home five miles northwest of the city, was held yesterday afternoon. Mr. Kehl had been ill for three years previous to his death. He leaves a family. He was the son of Carl Kehl.

An invitation has reached the board of control of the Knights of St. Eob-Ragus to participate in the parade given by the Royal Tigers at Norfolk on the night of July 23, during the state firemen's tournament. Adelegation of Knights will probably go to Norfolk for that purpose.—Fremont Tribune.

CROWD BIGGER THAN EVER.

Track Recovers Surprisingly From Morning Rain.

SEVERAL NEW TEAMS ENTER.

Some Pretty Runs Were Made by the Contesting Teams—Change in Running Arrangements, Teams Going It Individually.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

Though the track was still a bit soft from this morning's rain, it was nevertheless in surprisingly good shape for the start at 2 o'clock. A larger crowd than that of yesterday, enough to comfortably seat the grand stand, had assembled before the trap was sprung for the initial run.

The air is much more comfortable today for the racers than during the first afternoon, and the athletes before the program started thought that they would make some good marks. The outcome has not been moved, according to yesterday's plans.

Pierce is a newcomer in the association today. A team has just arrived for entrance in hook and ladder races, class "B." Albion also has a new team in this field.

A change has been made in the running arrangement today. In order to give more precise timing and to give each team the same chance, they are running individually, against time. This makes only three timers necessary. In order to avoid all possible partiality, separate timers will have charge of class "A" and class "B." They are: Class "A"—C. A. Hillebeck, of Holdrege; W. B. Vail, Norfolk; George Thomas, Nebraska City.

The judges are the same as yesterday, Shick and Smith. Starters are the same, Hull and Appleby. At promptly 2 o'clock Harrison's band began the program of today's events with an introductory number. The first race was the regulation horse race, class "A," for 250 yards. The teams running, and their order, were: York, Fremont, Stanton, Seward and Kearney.

York made the run in good shape, but failed in coupling and lost out. Their time, as caught from the outside, was about 33 3/5. This is the first time their coupler has ever failed. He has been at all tournaments, and is considered sure. The hose was not laid just right for him.

Fremont made a beautiful run and a very pretty coupling in 34 1/5.

The Seward team is one of the lightest on the grounds, but are possessed with the proper spirit to win and are hard workers, individually and collectively. They are getting their full share of the prize money through their energetic work.

A great many Norfolk people were in the grand stand this afternoon.

There was considerable betting over today's events. After York lost the regulation, her backers were flashing much currency in the track and grand stand.

Kearney made a good enough run but were slow in coupling, making the time for their race 38 flat.

Stanton made a run in about 35 but got no time because Al Marks, of whom much was expected, failed to put the coupling for three threads.

Seward made a beautiful run and tied the time of Fremont, 34 1/5. The coupling was very pretty.

This gives a tie on first money, and the money will be divided between Seward and Fremont.

Timer Hillebeck had a coat and pair of shoes stolen yesterday at the grounds.

The Championship Tomorrow.

As to the championship race tomorrow, which promises to be the big feature of the three days, and for which many outsiders are expected on the noon trains, there is still much difference of opinion. York on her very speedy team, which won nearly everything yesterday and from whom great things are expected because of her record so far, is willing to place her all. Fremont is equally ready to back her team and Stanton thinks that they have a good show of taking the belt. Al Marks is usually very fast, and the team certainly can run. Seward has a swift aggregation, too, and the Kearney boys think that if they can get into shape, they will show some worth while speed.

"Unless we fall on the coupling," said a York man, "we have the race clinched." The team did not run last year.

"We have the belt clinched by all odds," said a Fremont supporter.

The prospects are excellent that tomorrow will be the largest and best day of them all. With the championship races, and the street events, to conclude with the pageant of the Royal Tiger club in the evening, it is fully expected that the crowds will be as much greater over those of today, as today has been over yesterday.

Late Events Yesterday.

The closing of the afternoon yesterday brought the best features of the day. The state record for the coupling run was broken by 1-5 of a second in the run of the York team, time 33 3/5. The turn was simply superb and those who saw the state record smashed cheered lustily. This race gave a prize of $50 to the winner. Fremont was second in 34 3/5 and Seward third in 34 4/5. Stanton made a good run but was slow in the coupling.

In the first heat of the firemen's handicap foot race for 150 yards, Halmer of York won, time 15; Bobbie Burg took second, time 15 2/5 and J. E. Benish, of Norfolk, took third, time 16.

In the chief's race, Al Marks of Stanton ran the 100 yards the best, in 10 2/5. There was but one prize, a lantern valued at $25.

Miss Ella Curas and Miss May Willis of Battle Creek spent Sunday in Norfolk, the guests of Miss Anna Hermann.

Trains are getting back to schedule time. The passenger from the west was but one hour late this afternoon. No. 3, from the east, was three hours late last night.

E. M. Huntington went to Tilden this morning to examine his farm lands south of that place and to investigate the damage done by the recent hail storm.

About twenty-five of the German young people of Norfolk drove out to the Lupke home seven miles west of the city last evening and enjoyed a pleasant time, returning at a late hour.

Another steam carousal has located on east Main street, so that the children visiting Norfolk during the tournament need not be crowded out of a ride on the painted steeds.

In a repaired and remodeled building, Wm. Berner opened up for business at his former number in Norfolk avenue this morning. The place is much improved in appearance by its new dressing up.

F. E. Barnum, the new editor of the Madison Chronicle, telephoned to correct the impression that his mother will assist in the enterprise as stated by this paper. He is exclusively interested in the business and his mother has returned to her home in Minnesota.

Fritz Asmus returned yesterday noon from Omaha, where he left his father in the St. Joseph hospital. Mr. Asmus was feeling very comfortable at the time his son left him. He will be absent several weeks, during which time he will undergo an operation for gall stones.

The Sunday Illustrated Bee contains the likeness of Miss Edith McClary of this city who has been chosen the lady of Kloftron for the Royal Tiger club parade Thursday night. The Sunday World-Herald presents the likeness of Miss Ella Flynn of York, who is to be queen of the tourney.

This is a busy day for the concessionaires who will be in Norfolk during the firemen's tournament. Stands and concessions are going up rapidly on the spaces available and there will be a large number of attractions represented. Fruit, candy, temperance drinks and other stuff that the crowd will want will be obtainable anywhere along Main street and on the grounds.

A new publication has just been launched in Norfolk under the name of "The Exposer." It is published by the Exposer Publishing company and its editorial announcement is signed by B. E. Calkins and George Hillenbrand. The object of the publication, which is to be issued monthly, is to show up the department stores, catalogue houses and oppose the parcels post and rural mail delivery.

The decorators have commenced to put Norfolk in gala attire, and before the first race is on tomorrow morning it is expected that the business and residence houses will be gaily bedecked in the yellow and brown of the Tiger Club and the red, white and blue of the nation. Window decorations were made during today and this will be followed by the colors that will adorn the exterior of the buildings. Some of the decorators are making clever combinations out of the colors that will be popular during the tournament.

RAIN FALLS ON TOURNEY.

Second Day Ushered in Amid Gloomy Clouds.

HOW THEY PASS THE MORNING.

Hotel Corridors Were Thronged With the Firemen—Rain Sent the Midway Display Curtains Under Cover—People Slept in the Street.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

The second day of the tournament of Nebraska's fire fighters was ushered in amid dark, discouraging clouds in the heavens, which contained any amount of rain water and dropped a goodly portion of it upon the city. For three hours this morning the moisture beat down upon the tourney and kept the ladders indoors, with no chance for carrying out the forenoon program. At 9 the storm began to break and fair weather returned.

In the hotels, where hundreds of the runners lounged about during the rain, the racing was the principal topic of gossip among the visitors. The dampness hardly affected their spirits. The firemen are good fellows, and "it's always fair weather when good fellows are together."

The midway shows had to haul down their gorgeous curtains to keep the beautiful ladies from getting faded and discolored; the lemonade man had to lock up the joint and get within; the merry-go-rounds were still and gloomy and at the shooting galleries there was nothing doing.

Many of the firemen got out upon the streets as soon as the skies cleared a bit, and they entertained themselves. Some of them bought tiny umbrellas of red and white, others joshed the "beautiful ladies" and the rest of them killed time generally.

On account of the rain, there will be in all probability a portion of the program to be carried out after tomorrow. The afternoon races can be managed all right, but those that ought to have come during the forenoon will likely go over.

The outcome of the track has been moved until it is squarely in front of the judges' stand. There will not be the delay hereafter that was experienced yesterday. Fines will be imposed after this. The receipts yesterday were $225.

As a sign of the number of people who are in Norfolk, the lack of beds may be noted. Every hotel is clucked full and overflowing, hundreds of extra cots were taken and some even slept out upon the streets, rolled in blankets.

A large number of persons arrived this morning for today's events, several hundred coming from the west. Tomorrow's crowd will be the biggest yet, on account of the championship race. York seems to have a good chance at the winning, although Fremont claims to be able to carry away the prize. Other teams, too, from Kearney, Grand Island and Seward think they can put up a good proposition.

TUESDAY TOPICS.

Mrs. A. P. Pilger is in the city from Madison.

Mrs. George Davenport is here from Sioux City for the tournament.

A. C. McFarland of the Lynch Journal came with the delegation from his town.

Miss Alvina Koerber of Madison, Wis., is here visiting her brothers, F. W. and J. Koerber.

J. B. Donovan of the Star-Mail and F. E. Barnum of the Chronicle, came over with the Madison crowd.

J. H. Logeman, formerly in business in Norfolk but now of Inman, is in the city renewing acquaintances.

Mrs. Chas. McDonald and children of Pierce are the guests of Mrs. H. L. McCormick during the tournament.

Miss Kathryn Witzgman of Meadow Grove is in the city, a guest at the home of Dr. N. J. Hoagland, North Tenth.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Corby of Neigh, pioneer settlers of Antelope county, came down with the delegation from that place. Mr. Corby saw Norfolk when it boasted of but two stores and a mill.

Miss Victoria Neilson, who has been renewing the acquaintances of Fremont normal friends at O'Neill, returned last evening.

Frank Crockett, of Sheldon, Ia., is in the city visiting his sister-in-law, Mrs. C. H. Vail, landlady at the Oxnard, and seeing the tournament.

Fred Keller, head miller at the Sugar City Cereal mills, left today on a month's vacation. He will visit his parents who live at Spokane and will stop at other places in the west.

H. W. Winter, finding that the tournament funds were running low, made a personal solicitation among the saloon men of the city and secured an additional $10 from each.

Miss Hattie Marquardt came home yesterday from Clearwater to remain until after the firemen's tournament, when she will return to resume her work as trimmer in a millinery store.

The den of the Royal Tiger club, just west of the Fuesler tailor shop, is a center of attraction to a good many visitors, especially the firemen who are or may become members of this auxiliary organization.

J. L. Speck, who is to be custodian of the property at the Norfolk hospital for the insane, is at present engaged in making an invoice preparatory to accepting it from his predecessor the latter part of the week.

H. E. Owen left yesterday for his mining camp in Wyoming. Mr. Owen had just arrived from Missouri, where his company are putting in a great deal of railroad track. He thinks his mining prospects are excellent.

In the ball game at the Junction grounds Sunday afternoon between a team of up-town players and one composed of railroadmen, the latter team took the game by a score of 9 to 6. A large number of spectators witnessed the play.

Archie Donovan, son of Editor Donovan of Madison, is mascot of the Madison fire department. Leigh McGinnis is mascot for the Madison band. In their nifty little uniforms they are a good pair to draw to.

The Oxnard has a double force on for the tourney, and has been turning people away.

As an after dinner treat The News was favored with a very superior concert selection today by the Madison band which headed the delegation from that city and were attired in very neat uniforms. The membership of the band is not large but is composed of thorough musicians and the music rendered by them is indicative of high-class leadership and continuous practice. It is hoped to hear them frequently during the tournament.

The News was serenaded by Harrison's Grand Island band this morning, one of the selections given being an original composition entitled "The Jolly Elks," by Fred L. Harrison, one of the members of the band. The piece was written for use at the institution of the Grand Island lodge of Elks, and has proven so popular that it has been published and is now being played all over the United States. The band is a finely uniformed organization, consisting of twenty-five members, of whom six are Harrison's.
