LOCAL LUMININGS.

Judge Ewing of Chicago will give a free public lecture on the subject of Christian Science at Odd Fellows' hall Friday evening, October 15, under the auspices of the local church.

Mrs. J. W. Humphrey is suffering from an injured foot which may prove rather serious. She stepped on a nail and ran the sharp point through the sole of her shoe and into her foot. The pain has been intense and the wound requires a great deal of care. The little thunder storm of last night dropped enough moisture to lay the dust and did not affect the lovely Indian summer salubrity that has been a prevailing feature of the weather for several days. The lightning flashes and the thunder were vivid enough to remind the people of June and July, and the showers were vigorous, but of short duration.

Captain S. Alberti, ex-officer, engineer and ex-convict of Siberia, Russia, arrived in the city today and will lecture in the M. E. church tonight, under the auspices of the Norfolk Masonic lodge, telling of his experiences in Russia and Siberia, and presenting word pictures, true to the life, of the habits, customs and environments of the people who are prominently before the public eye. He carries a fine stereopticon with which to illustrate his talk, and will give views of the scenery, buildings and people of far-off Russia, including a number of moving pictures. He has numerous excellent recommendations as an entertaining speaker, and the people of Norfolk will have no reason to regret it if they fill the church to capacity this evening.

DEATH OF MRS. CAMPBELL.

Former Norfolk Woman Died at Sedalia, Mo., September 26.
The following communication from Sedalia, Mo., tells of the death of Mrs. A. E. Campbell, who formerly lived in the Collamer house, 112 South Eleventh street, and previous to moving here had made her home at Meadow Grove.

Mrs. A. E. Campbell, formerly of Norfolk, Neb., died at her home in Sedalia, Mo., on Saturday, September 26, 1903, of stomach trouble. She had been ill the greater part of a year, but the disease did not develop dangerously until five weeks before her death. Mrs. Campbell had suffered at times for years with stomach trouble, and two years ago had gone from Nebraska with her family to spend the winter in Kentucky in hope of improving her health, and a year ago Mr. Campbell settled his family in Sedalia, anticipating a long and happy life together, but now the Death Angel has claimed the beloved mother of his home, leaving the family broken hearted. Their one consolation is that their loved one was a devout Christian and died with a sweet trust in her Heavenly Father.

Mrs. Campbell's maiden name was Mary Frances Jameson and her girlhood home was near Springfield, Ill., where she was born December 29, 1851. In 1873 she was married to Abel E. Campbell of Leon, N. Y. After spending ten years of their married life in Illinois they made their home in Nebraska until the fall of 1901.

She was the mother of four children, a son and three daughters, the son dying in infancy. There are left to mourn, a husband and three daughters: Mrs. A. H. Bohannon of Elgin, Neb.; Miss Grace and Miss Ethel who reside at home, all of whom were with her when the end came.

The funeral services were held at the family residence Monday, September 28, conducted by the Rev. Dudley M. Claggett of the Broadway Presbyterian church of Sedalia. The music for the service was conducted by Mrs. W. D. Steele, president of the State Music association, and a talented vocalist. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Interment took place at Sedalia.

SALE OF BLOODED STOCK

Stockmen and Farmers Buy Fancy Cattle and Hogs.

Canvass Erected in the Livery Yard

A Large Crowd of Buyers Were Present for the Sale at Krantz Yards. The Handsome Animals Brought Good Prices for the Most Part.

A tentful of men interested in blooded stock gathered Friday afternoon to attend the dispersion sale of Daniel Kerr's herd. The auctioneering began promptly at 1:30 o'clock and the animals went fast after that. A number of especially fine individuals were put up to sell and they generally brought pretty good prices. Some of the animals for which Mr. Kerr had paid a half thousand dollars each, failed to bring quite as much as that in the sale. Others, though, ran pretty well up.

All through the morning stockmen from this section of the state passed through the barns examining the cattle which were to be sold, and getting the pedigrees. Pedigree counts for much in this sort of sale and the catalogues contained a description of each animal to be sold.

All preparations for the sale of Daniel Kerr's herd of pure blooded Scotch and Scotch-topped shorthorns, together with a magnificent lot of Poland-China hogs, had been made by noon today and prospects were good for a mammoth attendance at the tent this afternoon.

A great canvas had been stretched in the Krantz yards, and here, in a ring surrounded by amphitheatre seats, the blooded animals, one at a time, were led and sold under the hammer. A large crowd of stockmen from over the entire section were present. Tom Callahan acted as auctioneer.

Wanted—Girl for general housework. Only three in the family, no children. Wages, $4 per week. Mrs. G. B. Salter, 111 North Ninth street.

AT THE THEATRE.

"An American Hobo" Pleased a Crowded House Last Night, the Second of the Week.

Norfolk people are going to the theatre this winter. That is evident from the fact that they have filled the Auditorium twice this week, two nights apart. Last night the house was crowded for "An American Hobo," a comedy melo-drama in four acts which is filled with soul-stirring situations, blood curdling moments and a current of sparkling humor throughout.

John Porter, known as Happy Jack, a relic of the circus, as taken by J. H. W. Bryne, was all that the ordinary American hobo is, and more. He won out with the audience early. Virginia Melville, as Della Dooley, a friend in need, played the Dooley part of the game, even to the singing of "Mr. Dooley, in clever fashion. She was typical to a degree and was given a hand at every appearance.

"An American Hobo" is a play with a plot and the audience was pretty well pleased with the whole performance. The next attraction is "Queen of the Highway," on Monday night. This is an immense spectacular event, for which are carried several horses trained to the stage, and other animals that appear.

The box office sale opens at 12:30 on the date of the show.
