NEBRASKA POULTRY EXHIBITION

Water Fowl Club of America Has a Display of Birds in Conjunction With State Poultry Fanciers.

Lincoln, Jan. 18.—The annual exhibition of the Nebraska State Poultry association opened in this city today and will continue until the end of the week. In conjunction with the poultry exhibit is being held the annual meeting and show of the Water Fowl Club of America. Included among the features seen for the first time is an exhibition of the new stuffing and feeding machines warranted to convert the poorest fowl that ever walked in the barnyard into a plump and juicy specimen in the short space of ten days. A large and elaborate exhibit of dressed poultry is also among the interesting features of the show.

LATER DETAILS OF THE TRAGEDY

Ramus is Alleged to Have Interfered in a Fight and to Have Rustled Cattle.

Springview, Neb., Jan. 19.—Special to The News: The tragic killing of the quarter-breed Indian Jim Ramus on the Rosebud reservation north of here by Dan Roby Sunday morning, was the result of a row over the rustling of cattle, and it is thought that Roby's plea will be self defense. His case will be a matter for the adjudication of the federal court, and Roby, who is at present in the charge of the sheriff of this county, will probably be turned over to the United States marshal as soon as he arrives.

When Roby came on the scene he found Ramus pounding Charles Wakefield, to whom Ramus was indebted for some money. Roby at once interfered and Ramus turned on him, swearing that he would kill him. Roby shot twice in the air in an effort to frighten the threatening quarter-breed. Ramus continued to advance on him, however, and the third time Roby shot, he shot to kill and the death of his assailant was almost instantaneous.

Roby left the body of the dead man in charge of Walter Kenaston and came to Springview where he told what he had done and placed himself in the hands of the officers.

Roby also states that Ramus was attempting to make off with some of his cattle, which he gives as another cause for the shooting. Roby will be held by the sheriff, pending the arrival of the United States marshal.

HOW MAY WHEAT CAME ABOUT

The Conditions Which Regulate the Buying and Selling.

Now that Edwards, Wood & Co. have established their commission house throughout this section of the state, many inquiries as to just how grain is bought and sold on the board of trade, are being made. It is quite interesting to note the cause for "May" wheat, and the meaning of "futures" on the market.

In explanation of the terms, one of the firm said to a reporter today: "Years ago, before the era of railroads, practically our only means of transportation was by water.

"The earliest settlements, which were the starting points of nearly all of our larger cities, were necessarily along our navigable rivers or lakes.

In the earlier days the trader, who was later replaced by the merchant, exchanged necessities, such as groceries, clothes, guns, ammunition, etc., for furs. This was before the settlers had commenced to raise grains more than enough for their own consumption, and the only things he had to exchange for his necessities, in those days, were the furs from the animals he killed, and with which the country abounded. As the country grew older and more thickly settled, the fur bearing animals became scarce and the settlers turned their attention to agriculture. The fur trader disappeared, and in his place the country merchant, who had only a small stock of the principal necessities, and a few luxuries, to exchange for cash, grains or other produce.

"This was all very well for the country merchant during the summer months, when the rivers and lakes were open and he could get his grain and produce down the river to market, but when the winter set in and the rivers and lakes were frozen, he could get no more of his grain or other produce to market until after the ice had disappeared from the rivers and lakes the next spring.

"These circumstances brought about the first necessity of selling grain for future delivery.

"The country merchant, knowing that he could not get any more of his grain down the river to market until the following spring, sold the dealer farther down the river so many bushels of grain, to be delivered after the opening of navigation the following spring. This was the first future on wheat, and as the time for delivery was in May, it was therefore May wheat.

"This system of selling grain for future delivery has been extended since the advent of the railroads, to nearly every month of the year. The practice of selling grain for future delivery has reached such a scale that it has become a commercial necessity. At the present time our flouring mills and grain dealers could not exist and conduct their business profitably were it not for the fact that they can now buy and sell grains for future delivery.

MATT SHAFFER BREAKS HIS ARM

Two six-round glove contests will complete the program for the evening. Mike Bartleman will have a go at Fred Spaulding and Tommy Sullivan will give Al Madsen some scientific touches. The contest is scheduled to start at 8:30 and there will undoubtedly be a large and enthusiastic attendance.

OMAHA GRAIN EXCHANGE.

Will be Opened for Actual Trading on February 1.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—February 1 is the date set by the Omaha Grain exchange to begin trading, if the big trading room in the Board of Trade building can be secured at that time. Secretary Harding thinks that grain men now occupying the rooms can be moved so as to allow the Grain exchange to get to work.

W. F. Heyl has been engaged by the exchange as chief inspector and weigher of grain. He has been engaged in a similar work for local grain men and is highly recommended for the place.

A committee of publicity, consisting of A. L. Reed, G. W. Wattles and Amos L. Merchant, was appointed to give out such news as could go to the public without hurting business.

ELECTION CONTEST IN OMAHA.

Controversy Over Office of Clerk of District Court.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—The election contest for the office of clerk of the district court by W. W. Bingham against Frank A. Broadwell, was commenced before Judge Vinsonhaler yesterday.

The ballot boxes from nine precincts in South Omaha were identified by the judges. In the first precinct of the First ward, James Grace, judge of election, testified that when the ballots were counted there were found to be three more ballots cast than appeared on the poll book. In order to make the number of ballots conform to the record, three ballots were drawn out of the box. They were not counted on either side and no one knows for which candidate they were marked.

The ballot boxes were opened this afternoon and the counting commenced. The case will probably occupy the greater portion of the week.

FUNERAL OF LAD AT AINSWORTH

Between 500 and 600 Attended the Funeral—Coroner's Verdict Exonerates Williams.

Ainsworth, Neb., Jan. 18.—Special to The News: There was a coroner's jury called in the case of the fatal stabbing and the verdict was that Ralph Williams killed Sydney Chestnut accidentally while playing on the streets, and exonerated him from all blame. Williams is 16 and Chestnut 13. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family residence and the interment was in Ainsworth cemetery. There were between 500 and 600 at the funeral. The Williams boy is almost crazy.

practicable after January 1, and to be completed by May 1. Active and retired officers, with those attached to the state troops, are to be called on for assistance. The officers are allowed to inspect the men in such unit as may be brought together without expense to the men or the state. The government inspection will probably take place in March, preceded by the state inspection.

LOST WIFE AND PARLOR ORGAN

Fremont Man Comes Home to Find His Home Deserted and no Trace of Her.

Fremont, Neb., Jan. 18.—W. L. Shockness, 131 West South street, is minus a wife and a parlor organ. He does not know where his spouse is, but thinks she has eloped with another man, and circumstances in the case confirm his suspicion. The organ is at the second hand store of S. Kavich on Main street. Mr. Shockness has turned it over to the proprietor of the store to square a sale of household furniture which his wife made to Kavich without his knowledge before she left home and on which the dealer advanced the woman $34.

Mrs. Shockness has not been at home since 10 o'clock last Thursday night. At that time she packed up her clothing and personal effects and took herself to parts unknown. Her little stepdaughter, six years old, was left alone at the house all night. The little girl was in bed upstairs when Mrs. Shockness left. The child thinks someone came after her stepmother and accompanied her from the house, but is not sure. Before leaving, Mrs. Shockness said to the girl: "I'm going away. When you get up in the morning, brush your hair and go over to Swanson's for breakfast. Stay there till your father comes home."

Saw Ghosts and Shot Himself.

Wolbach, Neb., Jan. 19.—Joseph Ray, a bachelor living eight miles southwest of Wolbach, shot himself to death while out hunting. For some time the neighbors had noticed that Ray acted strangely. He had a habit of going to their houses at night and asking them if they believed in ghosts. He said the ghosts were around his house.

Ray, against the wishes of his friends, went hunting and his dead body was found the next day. More than $100 in checks and cash was in his pockets. He has a sister living in Ohio, but there are no other known relatives. The body was taken to St. Paul and given into the care of the coroner.

Interstate Shooting Tournament.

Omaha, Jan. 18.—The second interstate trap shooting tournament, open to teams from Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska, will be held at the grounds of the Omaha Gun club, February 2, 3, 4 and 5, and promises to be the largest gathering of shot gun experts that Omaha has had for a number of years.

The first shoot of this series, which is being held to decide the championship of the four states, was held at St. Joseph December 28 to 31, and resulted in a victory for the Kansas City teams in the live bird race, and for Seneca, Kan., in the target team race, Omaha being second in both events.

Already entered for the local tournaments are teams from Kansas City, Kas., St. Joseph, Sioux City, one and probably two from Iowa, one from Omaha and four from Nebraska. A number of individual contestants have also entered and they will be assigned to teams later.
