TROUBLE WITH DESERTER

Prisoner Escapes From Drunken Soldier in Norfolk.

FIRES HIS REVOLVER FOR LUCK

At Every Station Between Norfolk and Fremont, the Soldier Forced His Prisoner to Accompany Him to a Saloon While He Drank.

[From Friday's Daily.]
The Fremont Herald has the following story, which is presumed to refer to the prisoner who formerly lived at Tilden and at Battle Creek, and who was mentioned in a special to The News from Battle Creek as having been taken through there to Leavenworth:

Information has reached the Fremont police that the soldier who threatened to shoot a man he had in his charge at the depot Saturday was not shamming, but that he was an authorized officer detailed to take a deserter back to camp, probably to Fort Mead. Passengers who were on the northwest bound train say that considerable trouble was had between this place and Norfolk, and that the prisoner ultimately made his escape from the soldier, who was intoxicated and finally fell into a drunken slumber.

The prisoner, it appears, was shamefully mistreated at different points along the line. At each stop, the soldier got off the train and forced his charge to accompany him to a saloon. Once the former discharged his revolver to show that he was feeling good, and another time he dropped the piece, causing a second roundabout shot. The bullet buried itself in the side of the car, narrowly missing a lady.

Things finally became so bad that the trainmen decided to have the soldier arrested at Norfolk, and the authorities at that place were notified by telegraph. When the train pulled in, two officers were at the depot and both the soldier and his prisoner were taken from the car. The former protested, and secured his release by promising to behave himself and cause no more disturbance.

Additional word has been received that the prisoner escaped after the train left Norfolk. The soldier, it appears, fell asleep, and the other secured the keys to the handcuffs from his pocket. He then got off at the first stop. Passengers endeavored to waken the sleeper, but they could not do it, and the man of whom he had charge was given plenty of time in which to make his escape.

COLLECTING DELINQUENT TAXES

[From Friday's Daily.]
Personal Accounts That Have Been Accumulating Must Now be Paid.
Sheriff J. J. Clements is in Norfolk collecting back personal taxes, and when those who owe the debts are brought to a realization of the fact that almost any earthly goods they possess may be seized by the sheriff for the debt, whether they are mortgaged or not, they generally confess and dig up.

Some of the debts to the county and the state have been running since 1884 and, with the interest exacted, have accumulated into pretty respectable sized accounts, particularly against those who own considerable personal property. It is expected that the funds in the hands of the treasurer will be very materially increased by the payment of these delinquencies, which the new revenue says must be met and the statement that "nothing is sure but death and taxes," is receiving added emphasis.

Many have allowed their taxes to accumulate, thinking that they would never be called upon to pay, but when forced to meet the payment now that they have grown into very respectable accounts, it moves as a rather severe penalty for their oversight or neglect, and in some cases all the ready funds of the property owner and all he can scrape together are necessary.

It is not the fault of the treasurer or the sheriff that the money is exacted at this time, but is made imperative by the new revenue law and is really the proper thing. The expense of carrying on the government has alien upon the people who pay, but with everyone paying a share from this time forward under the new law, the burden should be much lighter all around.

FORGER GETS SIX YEARS.

Frank Betts, the Youth at Lincoln, Goes to Prison.
Lincoln, March 18.—Frank Betts, reer has been brief but brilliant, was the Omaha youth whose criminal case sentenced to six years and a half in the penitentiary by Judge Holmes.

Betts lifted $600 from Lincoln jewelers some weeks ago by means of forged checks, and afterwards was apprehended in Milwaukee, and brought back to this city to face the charge of forgery.

When the court asked the prisoner if he had anything to say he declared he had not. In passing sentence the judge declared that he did feel any leniency towards Betts only to the extent that he had pleaded guilty and saved the state the expense of the trial.

"I cannot feel kindly towards you, either," said the court. "You have devoted parents who have tried in vain to reform you, and have spent money to save you from a life of disgrace. In passing sentence on you I feel deeply for your relatives. I have had a talk with your father and know how he feels towards you. You will now have a chance to meditate over your past sins, and it ought to make you a wiser and a better man when you have tasted liberty again."

Betts, who is only nineteen years of age and looks much like the ordinary school boy, seemed to be somewhat affected by the fact that prison walls yawned at him again and suppressed a sob as he passed out of the court room.

Betts has served a term in prison for burglary, having been sent up from Omaha. He was released only two months ago. After he fled from Lincoln, leaving the jewelers in the lurch, he went to Minneapolis and St. Paul. In the latter city he tried to cash a check for $2,500 in the purchase of a grocery store, but failed to realize any money on it. He also tried to float one for $850 at another business house. Both of these checks bore the forged signature of R. E. Moore of this city.

SATURDAY SIFTINGS.

The robins have come to town.
John A. Erhardt of Stanton was in Norfolk yesterday.

L. Miller was a city visitor yesterday from Wisner.

D. J. Graver was a Norfolk visitor this morning from Nora.

S. L. Daggard was in Norfolk yesterday from Newman Grove.

A. M. Messerli and F. E. Spencer were in the city from Foster.

Sheriff J. J. Clements was over from Madison again yesterday.

The Misses Martindale of Pierce were in Norfolk this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott were up from Stanton looking after business interests.

Mrs. McGehe, Miss McGehe and Miss Fricke were in Norfolk yesterday from Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Enders returned today from Minneapolis, where Mr. Enders had been attending to business.

Miss Culschow has arrived from Omaha to take the position of trimmer with the Millinery & Art company.

Private letters from Chicago tell of an immense snowfall there. Sleighing in the windy city is said to be good.

Tonight there will be an oratorical contest at the high school, for the purpose of selecting a representative who shall win honor for Norfolk at the Columbus contest.

The Eagles are busy today getting ready for the home talent play which they are to put on at the Auditorium Monday night. The prospects are good for a rattling good crowd.

Norfolk people will be glad to learn that E. C. Harris, formerly of this city, was elected delegate to the national republican convention, by the congressional convention in the big Sixth.

Shipping Eggs East.

F. L. Estabrook today shipped another car of eggs of 470 cases to the east. This is the second carload he has placed upon the eastern market this week and is accumulating "fruit" for another shipment.

Has a Son.

H. C. Sattler is about as proud as any man in town today, all because of the boy who arrived at his home this morning and may be expected to some day call him papa.

Surprise Party.

The intimate friends of Mrs. D. D. Hall gave her a pleasant surprise on her birthday Saturday evening.

Moves Shop.

C. Sundell is moving his carpenter shop into the Witer building on Norfolk avenue, west of the tracks. He will put in machinery for his work.

A NEW BANK FOR NORFOLK

The Nebraska National is Now Being Organized.

G. D. BUTTERFIELD AT HEAD

A Movement is Now on Foot for the Subscribing of Capital Stock to the Amount of $50,000—Bank to Start Shortly—Location Unsettled.

[From Friday's Daily.]
Norfolk is to have a third bank. The new institution will be known as the Nebraska National bank. A movement is now on foot for its organization, a number of local business men being interested in the project. George D. Butterfield, is at the head of the movement.

The stock in the new national bank in the city is now being subscribed. The capital will be placed at $50,000. The doors will be opened for business just as soon as the preliminary arrangements are completed which may not be before the first of June.

As yet the matter of location has not been determined, nor indeed seriously considered. This point will not be settled until the board of directors have been elected and shall have decided the matter.

The subscription list in the new institution of finance is headed by a number of business men of Norfolk, prominent in various branches of commerce. Mr. Butterfield is the junior member of the firm of W. H. Butterfield & Son, one of the strongest cattle and ranching firms in north Nebraska. He will bring to the institution not only a large capital and extensive acquaintance in financial circles, but an intimate knowledge of matters along financial lines backed by a wide experience in large transactions.

In discussing the new bank, Mr. Butterfield, who has been working on the preliminary features of the movement, said to The News:

"Yes, we intend to establish an other national bank in Norfolk. Stockholders in the Nebraska National bank are entering the field here because they have the utmost confidence in the future of Norfolk. The city has the location to make it a very much larger place than it now is. Norfolk is bound to grow. There is a vast territory tributary to Norfolk right now and that territory is not only growing larger but it is filling up constantly. It seems to me that there is no better point in the state of Nebraska and the fact that we have less banks than many smaller towns about us, is enough to make us think that a third banking interest here can be successful.

"We shall not be ready to start business for several weeks, perhaps. Possibly it will be the first of June before we will be able to open. The name 'Nebraska National Bank' has been reserved for the institution in Washington and the application made. It is impossible to say just where the new bank will locate. We have not considered the matter whatsoever."

The establishment of a third national bank in Norfolk is a sign of development and growth in the city. Not in the history of Norfolk have there been such radical changes in banking circles in so short a period, as during the past few weeks. Both the Norfolk National and the Citizens National have lost their former presidents, one by a tragic death and the other by departure; a successor has been selected for the Norfolk National in the person of C. E. Burnham; a president is soon to be elected for the Citizens National; and simultaneously the third, the Nebraska National, makes its debut.

DECLAMATORY CONTEST.

Miss Lintecum Will Represent Madison County.

[From Monday's Daily.]
At the Madison county oratorical contest held in the high school room Saturday night to decide who should represent the county at the north Nebraska contest at Columbus during the coming session of the teachers' association, there were but two contestants, Misses Lulu Lintecum and Glennie Shippee, but it was a sharply drawn struggle for supremacy, and interesting. Miss Lintecum won with 271 points to her credit, but 41-6 points more than received by Miss Shippee. Miss Lintecum will therefore appear at the district contest at Columbus and try for honors with those from other counties of the north half of the state for the honor of representing the northern territory at the state contest later on.

Both were exceptionally well trained in their parts and showed strong natural elocutionary abilities. Miss Shippee was the younger of the two, but displayed unusual ability and her friends hope to see her reap merited honors later on.

Miss Lintecum had been drilled by Mrs. W. C. Day of Battle Creek and is the second of her pupils to win honors in a contest. Mrs. Day had the instruction of Miss Lizzie Hale to her credit two years ago when she won in the local contest at Battle Creek, the North Nebraska contest at Norfolk and in the state contest at Grand Island. Mrs. Day does not make a profession of giving lessons in elocution, but those who desire her aid in the work seldom appeal in vain and if her pupils continue to win honors she may find those appeals showing a considerable increase.

HARRY C. LINDSAY IS VERY ILL

Man Who is to Succeed Summers Has Not Heard of Luck.

[From Saturday's Daily.]
Lincoln, March 19.—Harry C. Lindsay, chairman of the republican state central committee, does not know of the decision of President Roosevelt in the case of Summers. He is ill at the city hospital and all visitors are denied. Mr. Lindsay was much worse last night, but his condition was slightly improved this morning.

The candidacy of Mr. Lindsay for the office of United States district attorneyship has not been lacking in dramatic situations. Another was added to the list when Dr. Wilmett and Mrs. Lindsay withheld the news of a possible triumph and the downfall of Summers. The victory comes with the successful one fighting illness that has aroused alarm on the part of relatives and friends.

Kidney trouble first attacked Mr. Lindsay. The alarming symptoms of this complaint have in part disappeared and now Dr. Wilmett says la grippe has attacked the sufferer.

Mr. Lindsay first became an aspirant for the office of United States district attorney when he maneuvered the republican campaign of 1900. Obstacles appeared from time to time and finally his prospects became obscured by the attack made on Senator Dietrich, who had been his ardent champion.

POLITICS WARMS UP AT ALBION

Town Went Dry Last Year and Has Had Trouble Since.

Albion, Neb., March 19.—Special to The News: City politics in Albion is warming up. The anti-saloon league put their ticket in the field at a caucus held Wednesday night. Following is the ticket as nominated: Isaac Letson, mayor; Frank Pittinger, alderman First ward; Frank S. Thompson, alderman Second ward; Geo. Pettibone, alderman Third ward; Ed. Mallowney, city clerk; W. S. Price, treasurer; H. W. Sooch, police judge; Wm. McLean, city engineer.

The license question will cause a great deal of excitement at this election as the town went dry last year for the first time in several years and there has been a good deal of trouble in the past twelve months in keeping the "boot-leggers" from doing business. There have been several arrests and two cases were tried in the district courts in this county for selling liquor without license in Albion. There is a big fight on and it is hard to say what the outcome will be.

Says Diltz Did Not.

In a letter to The News from Gilbert Diltz of Tilden, he states that the rumor which says his son, W. E. Diltz, has deserted the army, been captured and sentenced to Leavenworth for the balance of his term, is wholly untrue. It was quite generally rumored at Battle Creek that such was the case and the denial of Mr. Diltz, who is well known throughout Madison county, will be good news to the friends of his boy. Young Diltz at one time worked in Norfolk.

UNIQUE POSITION IN LODGE.

Julius Altschuler is Only Surviving Charter Member.

Julius Altschuler of this city occupies a position in the lodge circles of the Knights of Pythias, which is unique to a degree. He is the only surviving charter member of the lodge at Blair, Neb. He has repeatedly attempted to secure a card for transference but the members at Blair refuse to grant it, stating that so long as he is the only one left, they intend to keep him upon their rolls.

Government Thermometer.

George B. Christoph has secured a government thermometer which will be displayed in front of his drug store. It will register the minimum and maximum temperature for the day. It will be set each day at noon.

M. C. HAZEN RENOMINATED

Republicans Placed Him at Head by Acclamation.

MADE QUICK WORK OF BUSINESS

By Renominating the Present City Administration's Officers, the Republicans Endorse Their Former Ticket and Renominate All.

[From Saturday's Daily.]
For mayor, M. C. Hazen.
For city clerk, S. R. McFarland.
For city treasurer, Robert Utter.
For police judge, Col. S. W. Hayes.
For city engineer, W. H. Lowe.
For members of the board of education, C. J. Hibbon and Dr. H. J. Cole.

That is the ticket which was put up for the consideration of Norfolk voters, in the republican convention held at the city hall last night. It was all done smoothly and quickly, the renominations following the administration that has just been carried out.

Mayor Hazen was not present in the convention. No platform was adopted, the past year's administration standing as one sufficient, the managers thought.

The nomination for mayor was made on informal ballot which was later made formal by acclamation, Jack Koenigstein receiving nine votes on the informal ballot and Mayor Hazen twenty-six. The convention then moved that the present executive be declared the nominee of the party to head the ticket for the coming city campaign.

The convention was called to order by Col. J. E. Simpson. R. H. Reynolds was made permanent chairman and S. R. McFarland was made permanent secretary.

Every candidate put on the ticket was nominated by acclamation. There were no rivals and there was no friction. It was just a pleasant little party in which the republicans of the city, who feel good over the way that Norfolk has been conducted during the year, got together and endorsed their leaders for another term.

Last year a platform was adopted but this year there is none. Neither did the democratic convention select a platform.

The central committee was empowered to fill any vacancies that may occur.

SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES.

Dr. D. R. Colby of Beatrice Dies as Result of a Runaway.

[From Monday's Daily.]
Beatrice, Neb., March 21.—Dr. D. R. Colby died Saturday morning at his home in this city from the results of injuries sustained in a runaway several days ago when he was run over by a team. Ever since the accident Dr. Colby has been almost entirely paralyzed. A blood clot formed at the base of the brain and this with a high fever which resulted left but little hope for his recovery. Dr. Colby was conscious most of the time after the accident and was able to converse with members of his family who were with him. At the request of the patient an electric battery was used but it had little effect.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

Norfolk Council, No. 120, Elects Officers for the Year.

At the regular meeting of Norfolk council, No. 120, United Commercial Travelers of America, held Saturday evening, the following officers were elected for the year ending March 31, 1905:

Senior counselor, Arthur Nyland; junior counselor, J. T. Thompson; past counselor, J. D. Sturgeon; secretary-treasurer, Otto F. Tappert; conductor, C. D. Simms; page, E. G. Wittmer; sentinel, A. Randklev; executive committee—to year term, O. L. Hyde and A. L. Lager; one year term, A. L. Lager, Wm. Vigers; representative to grand lodge, S. F. Erskine.

The lodge will have a public installation of officers on April 16, for traveling men and their families, ending in a social session.

Invitations Out.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Terry, well known in Norfolk, and George Koching, a traveling salesman with headquarters in this city who has made Norfolk his home for a number of years. The wedding will take place in the Good Shepherd's church, Omaha, on April 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Koching will make their home in Norfolk after May 15. They have a large number of friends in the city.

TALKS ON DEATH AND JUDGMENT

Evangelist Lyon Discusses an Important Subject.

[From Saturday's Daily.]
After the song service last night at the revival meeting Mr. Coulton sang with effectiveness "Where Will You Spend Eternity?" and Mr. Lyon began his address on the text, "It is appointed unto man once to die, and after death the judgment."

"It is a subject that comes close to every life," said the evangelist. "Words and works alike are ended in the grave. Death eliminates arrogance and pride. It levels all ranks, for rich and poor must lie side by side in the cemetery. 'The path of glory leads but to the grave,' wrote Gray. 'O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?' was Lincoln's favorite poem. Why all this pride and boasting in wealth when it ends at the grave? Death is certain. When a man dies he does not go to the grave for his reward but to meet his record. Because you are not afraid to die is no reason why you are ready to die. The cattle are not afraid to die but their indifference is the result of thoughtlessness. People have prudence and thoughtfulness in worldly life. Why not exercise the same prudence in preparing for the next world? The prepared ones do not worry. Paul was ready to be offered. Don't build for eternity on shifting sands. A large funeral, an eloquent minister at your grave cannot save you." With streaming eyes the evangelist pictured the funeral service of his sister and exhorted the congregation to make ready for death. Several adults made a profession of christianity. The attendance was large.

Mr. Lyon will speak tonight on "The Wanderer's Return." Great emphasis is being placed on the men's meeting announced for Sunday afternoon at the opera house. Every man in town should secure a ticket of admission and be present. Elaborate preparation is being made for the service and a thousand men will be present. The tickets can be secured free from any of the pastors of the city.

BATTLE CREEK.

The family of Theo. Schreiner of Council Bluffs arrived here Thursday for an extended visit with Mrs. Schreiner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller.

G. R. Sellar of Norfolk was transacting business here Friday.

Fred Echtenkamp of Creighton was visiting with old friends here Thursday.

Walter Elley of Madison was here this week as special tax collector.

James Sullivan of Beemer is here this week looking after his farm south of town.

Station Agent W. C. Day has moved into the P. A. Callen house in Highland Park.

Reinhard Reimers of Pierce was visiting Friday with George Heuermann and other relatives.

T. S. Cook raffled off his Shetland pony in Hans' saloon Thursday night. No. 79 was the lucky one and was held by Warren Peak of Long Pine.

There is quite an immigration here from old Virginia lately.

W. A. Sutherland is fixing up the county poor farm by painting and wall papering.

A Fremont firm is this week installing the lighting plant in the German Lutheran church.

Robert Cox moved into the W. F. Reavis residence in Highland Park Thursday.

C. D. Johnson, the new superintendent at the poor farm, while working with the brush applying kalsomine, went down with the ladder and was compelled to consult a doctor.

SAD DEATH AT PLAINVIEW.

Wife of County Superintendent of Knox is Taken.

[From Monday's Daily.]
Creighton, Neb., March 21.—Special to The News: Mrs. Fred Marsh, the bride of County Superintendent Marsh of Knox county, while visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins at Plainview, was suddenly seized with an attack of appendicitis and within an hour was dead. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh had been married but three weeks. They made their home in Center. Mr. Marsh is a prominent young man in this section of the state and the greatest of sympathy has been expressed universally for him.

Eye Injured.

L. L. Rembe is suffering these days with a very sore eye. A splinter of wood chopped from a stick, flew up and struck the pupil of his eye. It is not yet known whether the eye-ball was cut.
