A NEW NEWS SERVICE

W. N. Huse Elected Member of Associated Press.

MUCH FOR NORTH NEBRASKA

Telegram From Assistant General Manager of Greatest News Association in the World, Tells the Story. Begins Next Monday Morning.

New York, March 30.—W. N. Huse, Norfolk, Neb.: You have been elected to membership in the Associated Press. We begin service next Monday, April 4.—Charles S. Diehl, Assistant General Manager.

The above telegram, sent from New York during the afternoon, tells the story. It merely means that beginning with next Monday morning The Daily News, which has heretofore had a report of the Associated Press, will become a member of that great news gathering association—the greatest in the world.

Until today there was not a member of the Associated Press in Nebraska outside Omaha and Lincoln. Today Norfolk has a member as well. It will mean that everything of importance that happens throughout the world, will be reported to this paper within a very few minutes after it has occurred. All day long the wires between Chicago and Norfolk will be kept hot with the messages that shall bear the news of what is taking place, into northern Nebraska.

For months The News has been negotiating with this association with the object of giving readers of this paper a better and more complete service. The very latest news will thus be received. It will enable the paper to carry reports of the greatest events all over this section of the state far ahead of any other medium that can possibly enter the field.

The membership in this association coming to Mr. Huse today in connection with the favorable ending of a libel suit that has been hanging for some time, makes it a cheerful day despite the clouds in the sky.

For Miss Madge Wilkinson, formerly of this city and who for the past few days has been a guest at the home of Ludwig Koenigstein, North Seventh street, a number of her acquaintances were invited in to spend the afternoon. A very jolly time was made of it.

Willis Dunlap was an over-night visitor in the city, and reports that since Monday he has been the father of a boy actor. Mr. Dunlap will be remembered as the man who put on the play for Company L in February. He has just finished presenting a play at Newman Grove, where Mrs. Dunlap now is, and goes to Creighton on the same business.

General A. A. Daggott of Lincoln was in Norfolk last night to inspect company L, N. N. G. General Daggott is a retired army officer and has been detailed by the war department to this year inspect the national guard troops of Nebraska. He advised Captain Fuller that he had found Norfolk's company to be in first class condition in every way. "In fact, it is one of the very best that I have struck," remarked the inspecting officer after he had closed his work.

Persons wanting blank leases will find them at The News office.

ANY CATTLE DIP WILL DO

Governor Mickey Has Rescinded Last Week's Order.

LIME, HOWEVER IS PREFERRED

The Matter Has Been Brought up in Nearly Every Cattle Convention and This is the First Time Governor Mickey Has Taken Sides.

Governor Mickey has modified his quarantine regulations regarding diseased cattle, by permitting owners of herds to dip their animals in any sort of dip that they may think best to use, but in cases where the state veterinarian is in duty bound to enforce dipping under his own directions the dip to be used shall be that recommended by the government bureau of animal industry, known as the lime and sulphur dip, says the Lincoln Journal.

Dr. W. A. Thomas, appointed by Governor Mickey state veterinarian, advocated lime and sulphur. Dr. Peters of the university experiment station has always been in favor of proprietary preparations. Cattlemen over the state took sides and the war of words was carried on at every convention of live stock associations. In no other state in the union has a governor had the courage to take sides in the controversy. Governor Mickey did it when he signed Dr. Thomas' quarantine regulations, but he now says he did so under a misapprehension as to their meaning. He supposed the rules permitted one to choose his favorite dip to use as a preventive, but that in cases where the public authorities were called in to act they would use lime and sulphur.

Some owners of fine stock declare that lime and sulphur injures the coat which is a source of pride to owners of blooded cattle and that it is likely to injure the eyes. None deny that it will kill the parasite that causes itch or mange, but some contend that other remedies will also bring about the desired result. Owners of some herds declared they would not use lime and sulphur unless compelled to do so by order of the courts.

The amended regulations are similar to the original issued last week. Section one requires that all cattle shall be dipped where they are affected with the disease, but leaves it optional with the owner as to the dip, giving lime and sulphur the precedence, however.

Section two giving the veterinarian complete authority to use the lime and sulphur dip when done under his orders or those of his deputies is as follows:

"In all cases where the dipping of diseased herds is done under the order of the deputy state veterinarian or his assistants, by authority of the sections of the statutes as quoted above, the dip so used shall be the lime and sulphur dip, in a formula herein approved and prescribed: Twenty pounds good unslaked lime; twenty-four gallons of water.

Thoroughly slack the lime, add the sulphur and boil the mixture in from twenty-five to thirty gallons of water from one to two hours, continually stirring until the sulphur is dissolved, then add sufficient water to make the required proportions. This dip will be sufficiently strong to kill itch and lice, lice being harder to destroy than the itch mite. The dip should be kept at a temperature of from 100 degrees to 110 degrees F. Each animal should be retained in the dip two minutes."

Section four is as follows: "Parties who attend to the dipping of their infected herds without compulsion under the law above quoted may use any standard dip of recognized merit and which is potent to kill the disease germs."

The proclamation of March 17 is rescinded in a separate paragraph ordering that the above provisions stand as the law.

WEDNESDAY WRINKLES.

It had been planned to begin the erection of a new residence for William Klug on South Fourth street today, but the weather will probably interfere to prevent the preliminary work being undertaken.

The numerous bonfires of dried grass and rubbish that have been noted in various parts of the city is evidence that the annual spring cleaning up of residence premises has seized on the people spontaneously and with vigor and the indication is that Norfolk will be cleaner and prettier than ever when spring arrives.

The Gerecke brick yards have opened up a freshly burned kiln of brick and the demand for the material is so keen that the builders will hardly permit time for the proper cooling of the burned mud. Teamsters are already busy hauling to the locations where the brick is in demand for the building of new residences, store buildings and the laying of sidewalks and other improvements.

Material is being placed on the ground for the sixty-foot extension to the Assmus block at the corner of Third and Main streets. It will be of brick and it is expected to begin the work of construction at an early date. This is but one of the many improvements that are in contemplation for the business section of Norfolk this season, and others will follow rapidly as soon as the season is fully open.

The marriage of a former Norfolk girl, Miss Anne Seymour, to Mr. Ed Duval, of Saticoy, Cal., will take place at that place this evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Seymour will be remembered in Norfolk as having held the position of stenographer for the Durland Trust company for a number of years. She is a sister of Mrs. J. B. Maylord of this city and a member of the Bachelor Girls club. She has a great many friends in the city and many of them have wired congratulations today. A visit is expected from the couple either in August or September.

MEXICO HAS A NEW TARIFF LAW

Importers Are Rushing Goods in to Evade the New Revenue.

City of Mexico, March 31.—During the last week or so the custom houses of Mexico have had the busiest period of their existence owing to the rush of importers to get their goods through before the new tariff laws become effective tomorrow. The new schedule is designed to protect the growing manufactures of the republic, and the imports from the states are expected to drop off considerably owing to the increased duties. For instance, the duty has been raised on machinery, dry goods, vehicles, clothing, iron, telegraph poles, belting, railroad rails, structural iron and steel, bottles and mirrors. Steel rails, hitherto free, will pay a duty of $10 per metric ton, and leather belting will pay 50 cents per kilogram, against one cent formerly. Other commodities on which a prohibitive tariff has been placed are Virginia tobacco and fencing wire.

AN ENTERPRISE EASY OF ACCESS

Would Cost Little to Establish Tomb Stone Cutting Plant.

Norfolk, March 30.—Editor News: Promoting new enterprises in Norfolk reminds me of one that everyone seems to have overlooked and that is the dressing of granite for monuments. One hundred men could be constantly employed in cutting the tombstones that are sold annually in this territory if machinery and power could be used. At the same time thousands of dollars could be saved in freight in the difference between rough and dressed stone. As it is dealers are satisfied with shipping in dressed monuments and satisfied with taking their commission for the sale. The machinery for such a plant would cost less than $2,000.
