

DR. DISBROW IN TROUBLE

CREIGHTON PHYSICIAN ARRESTED AT SIOUX CITY.

HE IS CHARGED WITH FRAUD

Fellow Named Hannah From the West Has Prominent Physician of North Nebraska Arrested and Placed in Jail—Helped Norfolk Girl

Sioux City, Ia., May 18.—Arrested while returning through Sioux City from Fargo, N. D., where he had been attending a Masonic meeting, Dr. A. E. Disbrow, of Creighton, Neb., a prominent physician and farmer, is locked in the city jail on the charge of defrauding Joseph Hannah, of Bellingham, Wash., out of $3,000. The crime is alleged to have been committed February 15, 1903.

It is alleged that Disbrow sold Hannah a third interest in a jag cure, which was worthless and known by him to be such.

The doctor was in custody of Deputy Sheriff J. L. Parberry, of Whatcombe county, Wash., who is now here, a year ago but managed to escape being taken back to Bellingham by habeas corpus proceedings. The deputy, this time, came fully determined to kidnap him if necessary and hustle him across the line into South Dakota to serve papers on him.

He went to Creighton for that purpose last week, only to find that the doctor was out of town. Deputy Parberry returned here Saturday night and enlisting the services of Detectives Follis and Richard, discovered that his man had registered at the Mondamin hotel Thursday night but had gone north. It was believed that he would return here and a close watch was set for him.

Detectives Richard and Follis took turns shadowing the postoffice where it was believed Disbrow would come and this morning were relieved by Officer Jesse James. Disbrow Monday registered at the Mondamin, but did not occupy his room.

About 8:30 James saw a slender, stoop shouldered man with a sandy beard approaching the building. He instantly spotted him as Disbrow and walking up placed his hand on the doctor's shoulder. Disbrow looked around in surprise.

"You're wanted at headquarters," said James and Disbrow protesting slightly, went along.

At the station he was met by Deputy Sheriff Parberry, with whom he was acquainted owing to the fight a year ago.

"What are you trying to do?" demanded the doctor, when his eyes met the officer's, "are you after me on that same charge?"

"That's right, Dr. Disbrow," replied Deputy Parberry, producing the papers.

Disbrow much disturbed surrendered his valuables, including about $35 in cash, a gold watch and other trinkets, and was locked in the women's ward upstairs.

Sold Interest.

According to Disbrow's story, and information secured elsewhere, he appeared in Bellingham, Wash., about a year ago last January. He put up at the hotel of Joseph A. Hannah, a well to do business man, and treated a case of alcoholism. The apparent success of the treatment attracted Hannah's attention, and he purchased an interest in the secret formula, paying Disbrow $3,000 for it.

Dr. Disbrow, Hannah claims, rented the first floor and basement of a four-story brick block he owns and prepared to open a sanitarium for the treatment of unfortunates with the whisky and morphine habits. Shortly after Hannah had paid over the $3,000 in gold as his share of the business, he went to call on Dr. Disbrow, and the latter had gone secretly from the hotel. He never saw him again until he came to Creighton, Neb., and tried to get his money back. He failed and then, claiming the formula was worthless, he swore out a warrant for his arrest on the charge of fraud.

Before the doctor left Bellingham, which is located in Watcom county, on Bellingham bay, Hannah, it is claimed, had put up $2,000 and a lease of his hotel to a man named Sibeck, who is alleged to be partner of Disbrow. Disbrow told Hannah after the latter had bought a third interest in the jag cure that Sibeck owned a third and by buying that he would have a controlling interest. This looked good to Hannah and he bought Sibeck, giving him furniture worth $2,000 and a lease on the hotel. Then came the awakening. Dr. Disbrow had departed.

Gave Him a Laugh.

Landlord Hannah was given the big laugh and his jag remedy became the joke of the town. Mr. Hannah got mad and flew for Creighton, Neb., where he tried to induce Dr. Disbrow to return him his money. The doctor maintained that the business deal was straight enough and produced a contract to show it. Then deputy Sheriff Parberry came with a warrant and requisition papers, but Dr. Disbrow's friends rallied around him and the officer and Mr. Hannah were routed.

Deputy Parberry returned to Bellingham determined to land the doctor later. He dropped quietly out of Bellingham about ten days ago and no one there knew where he went except the sheriff. He bore the necessary papers to take Dr. Disbrow back to Bellingham.

As soon as Dr. Disbrow was locked up he asked for an attorney and declared he would fight. He wanted his family and friends notified at Creighton.

Says Arrest is Outrage.

Disbrow is 56 years old, well and modestly dressed in a gray business suit. He rose quickly and stroking his sandy beard streaked with grey walked forward and told his story willingly to a reporter.

"This arrest is an outrage," began the doctor. "It's a put up job. They knew they couldn't do anything to me down among my friends at Creighton, for they tried it a year ago and the court kicked them out. I'm a Mason, a graduate physician of the National College of Medicine at Chicago, and have lived at Creighton about six years. I formerly lived in Chicago and was a neighbor of Tom Bayne, now alderman here. He will tell you I'm inoffensive and lived an upright life. I'm a member of the Methodist church and attended the same church as he in Chicago. I belong to the Methodist church at Creighton and own a big farm and a lot of stock near there. I have a wife and a daughter at Creighton. Two other daughters are married and live elsewhere. They will be heart-broken over this matter. I served three years in the war of the rebellion—two years as sutler's clerk in the Thirty-Fifth Illinois and one year in the One Hundred and Fourth Illinois Infantry.

"But I'll not go back without a fight, I'm innocent; ask any of the banks at Creighton or anybody in Pierce county. Everybody knows me. I have cured more than 100 victims of whisky and morphine habits there and most of them for nothing. I made the trip to Bellingham to cure the father of a girl at Norfolk. Did it free of charge except for travelling expenses. While there I met Mr. Hannah and sold him the third interest in the formula. Hannah couldn't make the business pay and now he is trying to make me trouble."

[Mr. Disbrow is well known in this section of Nebraska. His model hospital at Creighton is a credit to the state. He bears an excellent reputation and friends hope that he may be cleared completely.]

JACK SULLY IS KILLED

NOTORIOUS DESPERADO SHOT ON ROSEBUD RESERVATION.

RUNNING FIGHT WITH OFFICERS

Outlaw and Cattle Rustler Had for More Than a Quarter of a Century Been a Terror on the Range—A Career of Crime.

Chamberlain, S. D., May 17.—The notorious desperado, Jack Sully, who for many years has been the terror of the Rosebud country, is no more. In a running fight with officers on the Rosebud reservation he was killed, many bullets finding lodgment in his body, while the horse upon which he attempted to make his escape also shared the fate of its master.

The circumstances leading up to the tragic end are these: A week or ten days ago Sully stole a bunch of nearly 200 cattle belonging to various neighboring ranchers. He took a bunch of seventy-four down across the Nebraska line and sold them for $20 per head, receiving half cash and half paper. He cashed the paper. Soon after Brand Inspector Long got track of the cattle, and, accompanied by their owners, Harry Ham and Hugo Schilling, recovered them and returned them to the home range. As a result of the exploit United States Commissioner Tidrick, of this city, on Sunday morning sent out Deputy United States Marshal Petrie, Brand Inspector Long, Sheriff Irish of Brule county, Deputy Sheriff Jesse Brown of Lyman county and Harry Ham to bring in Sully, dead or alive. They found Sully at his home, near Blackbird Island, and attempted to make the arrest. Sully was ordered to surrender, but with a defiant taunt he made a break for his horse, sprang upon its back and made a dash for liberty. For a time a running fire was maintained between the two parties, but the pursuers speedily proved the victors. Sully's horse was hit five times and killed, while Sully received wounds from which he died within thirty-five minutes.

SUNDAY WITH THE CIRCUS

HOW THE RIDERS AND ANIMALS SPEND SABBATH.

SKELETON PREACHES A SERMON

In the "Trap" Room, Where the Horses are Made Ready for the Ring, the Skeleton Talks Spiritualism and Misses, the Darkey, Denies.

What do the circus people do Sundays? That is a question that the general public never answers for itself, for there are no glittering bands to attract the sightseers on the Sabbath day. Campbell Brothers circus arrived in Norfolk early Sunday morning, pitched its tents and spent the day—a wet, rainy, disagreeable day. The canvas men sewed up the strips where winds had torn the tents. The animal men lollied their charges and scratched the heads of the lions and the polar bears. The bareback riders sat around on the trunks in the "trap" room reading novels and the skeleton and Misses, an old negro, engaged in a biblical discussion that was listened to by all the crowds, and which served for the day's sermon.

The skeleton, a long-fingered, big eyed little man with a black point of beard at the very edge of his chin, is a spiritualist. Misses, an old darkey, is considered authority on religion. They got into the argument and the crowd urged them on. Misses declared that no gambler nor horse trader could enter the kingdom of heaven. "It says," says he, "that no man that sins against the holy ghost can enter the kingdom of heaven. It says no card player can get in."

The skeleton, taking a deliberate puff at his cigarette denied the allegation. He declared the Bible never mentioned cards. Then he asked what is a sin. Misses replied that a sin is a sin but that "he who has fell" can be forgiven seventy-seven times. The spiritualist declared spirits return to earth. Misses denied. "If a man dies," says he, "and goes to heaven, a place of rest, he won't want to come back here. But if he goes to hell, he can't come back, so that, sir."

The skeleton offered Lazarus as an example, speaking of how he came forth, but Misses answered this saying that those people were a different kind of people, and died in a different way.

Around the Menagerie. Around the menagerie the new animals received a week ago today from Eisenbach's show in New York, attract interest. They replace those burned at Pawnee City. There are elephants, camels and a polar bear. Froeman, the lion rider, still rides with his two big beasts. No one this year rides with the handsome panther.

The show this year carries two stoves in a kitchen on wheels, where meals are cooked. They run a big hotel in this. The men were paid off last night and are feeling good today.

The parade was pulled off at 10:30 in the rain and a half hour later the clouds cleared away. The afternoon performance was well attended and pleased the spectators.

Where They Worked the Hardest, but a Few Pennies Were Secured—Sheriff Frisbie of Antelope County is on the Trail With Hounds.

Elgin, Neb., May 17.—Special to The News: This town was raided by burglars last night and four business houses were made to contribute to the yegg fraternity, the crime not being discovered until this morning, when the merchants opened up.

The saloon of Loren Bennett was entered by cutting a panel from the back door and turning the night lock. The safe was found unlocked and $23 in cash was taken from it. The robbers took time there to take a glass of beer, and a box of cigars.

The saloon of Pete Sorben was also entered and the cash register touched up for $3.00 and there a quart bottle of whisky that had been taken from the Bennett saloon was opened and partly drunk.

At the Edwards & Bradford hardware store a window was broken for entrance and several attempts were made to drill the safe which was afterward discovered to be unlocked. Four pennies rewarded them for their pains. Fifteen jack knives were taken from the show case.

At the butter and egg store of J. M. Payne seven pennies were taken from the cash repository.

Sheriff Frisbie of Antelope county was notified at Neligh and arrived as early as possible with a couple of blood hounds and at the time of this report the dogs were on a hot scent, the trail leading north along the railroad tracks. The foot prints of the thieves showed plainly in the mud, the robbery having taken place after the heavy rain of last night. It is hoped to capture the criminals.

The Practice of Medicine Becoming Specialized

The Physicians of the Large Cities the First to Adopt it and There are Now Many Throughout the Country

Specialism is the idea of the day. Not that every physician can be a specialist, nor would it be desirable in every doctor becoming one, but there are advantages that can be derived only by a special practice which is applicable to certain communities even though the physician himself is not a born life resident of that immediate vicinity. Small towns and the country are the principal communities in which a specialist could scarcely prosper, but as practiced by some specialists, that of going from one city to another, making his visits and seeing his patients at regular appointed intervals, one can derive advantages far superior to those received in many instances by a visit to the cities.

We cite, for instance, that of Dr. Caldwell, a specialist of Chicago who is and has been making regular visits to our community for the last two years. Dr. Caldwell came well recommended and has succeeded in establishing a practice far beyond her expectations. She has made many cures and has succeeded in building up a reputation and practice among those whom she has cured that would be hard to get away from her. Dr. Caldwell is a lady from the new school. Her experience and training have been gained by many years of practice and the treatment of a vast number of cases. She confines herself to the treatment of chronic, lingering and deep seated ailments. She pretends to cure only such diseases as she has had sufficient experience in handling, and does not go into that class of incurable diseases which in many cases are useless to bother with.

As a result of long experience, Dr. Caldwell is thoroughly familiar with her specialties. In the treatment of cancer, consumption, heart disease, nervousness and female diseases, there are very few specialists better qualified than Dr. Caldwell. Some of her cures seem almost like miracles. People from far and near consult her as she makes these regular visits and she is always busy from the time she arrives until the time of her departure. It is claimed by Dr. Caldwell's friends that she can diagnose a disease without a question. This being the case, she is not likely to doctor her patient for the wrong ailment, which in many times done by physicians of inexperience. Dr. Caldwell does not treat typhoid fever, whooping cough, measles, and those neuro diseases which the local home physician is called upon to treat. It is not his desire to antagonize nor to take from the home physician that part of the business which really belongs to him. Many times Dr. Caldwell is in consultation with the home physician and the kindest of feelings should exist between them.

Dr. Caldwell is charitable. In many instances where people are devoid of funds to pay for their services she charges in such cases for the medicine only and no portion, no matter how humble, has also ever turned away without seeking to give them relief.

By permission we are pleased to publish a few of the cures she has made throughout the state of Nebraska.
